No Prize Fight Wanted.

Last week, posters appounced a boxing match of six rounds, between Joe Grimm and Eddie Haney, of Philada. in Bellevue Hall, last Saturday evening.

Now, Hammonton didn't want any such demoralizing exhibition, and soon made that fact manifest. Town Clerk Seely wrote to Solicitor Stockwell, who sent a section of the general crimes act of 1898, which makes such a show a misdemeanor. Mr. Dilger, Chairman of the Law and Order Committee, consulted Mayor Austin, then instructed Chief Adams to prevent the fight, which he did, by notifying Grimm in person, Joe tried to argue, but the Chief said, "Cut it out ; those are my orders." Joe replied "I will," and he did. The Mayor was prepared to enforce his order, baving a sufficient force present; but Grimm took warning, and procured a liceuse for a vaudeville performance, consisting of-bag-punching, music, a few other stunts, a speech, and that was all.

Joe, it is said, felt sore because his friende did not appear at the show.

We heartily commend the action of our town officials,- they did right. There is nothing elevating in the sight. of two men dancing about, each striving to so pound the other that he is disqual-ified for further struggle. A SCHOLARLY SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. HUBERT B. MUNSON.

Theme: Power of God.

Brooklyn, N. Y .- The Rev. Hubert B. Munson, pastor of the Bushwick Avenue Central M. E. Church, had for his subject Sunday morning "Power of God." The text was from I. Corinthians 1:24: "Christ, the power of Munson said: I wonder, if we could have stood by Paul's side, as he began writing his letter to the Corinthian Church, if he should have asked us for a definition in two words of the character of Christ, if we would have had the sagacity or the inspiration which he evipossessed when he defined Christ to be God's power and God's wisdom. It is comparatively easy for us, with the record of so many years of Christian progress behind us, to see how Christ embodies both lty; but it was an infinitely more ifficult task, standing as close as Paul stood in time to the Nazarene o have seen in that work such manifest intelligence, such wide and encompassing power as to lead him to say concerning that life that it was the embodiment of God's wisdom and the incarnation of God's nower.

There are some aspects of the life of Jesus to which our attention is First. Christ is the transforming nower of God. The process of transformation is a familiar one to the manufacturer, who takes the crude. caw material of the mine of the forpound of iron ore that, in its crude conts, is changed into the skilled instrument of the carpenter, into the shurp-cutting tool of the machinist, that move the most delicately ad-lusted chronometer. Second. Jesus Christ is the transmittable power of God. What is most wonderful about the dynamo?
