The ladies have taken this space by the year, and are responsible for all that it may contain.

We believe the twentieth century will meet the crying demand for trained fathers, no less than trained mothers, and before it passes will send forth from its public schools, its industrial schools, its seminaries, and its universities, men and women learned not only in science and art and the lore of the ancients, but also in the knowledge that will produce the highest type of parenthood, and hence the highest type of citizenship. Meanwhile, the fanatical reformer must redouble his efforts to reach the prospective fathers and mothers with the gospel of temperance and purity.

"The Merry Six."

The "Merry Six Yachting Club" took a four days' cruise on the bay and ocean, last Saturday, starting from New Gretna in Capt. Gerow's fine boat "Sea Queen,"—the "six" being the Captain, and Henry Measley, John A. Hoyle, H. L. McIntyre, John Measley, and G. F. Lenz.

They are loud in their praise of the yacht, of thirty tons, saying that it scarcely rolled (except Monday night, when they had to get under the hatch) during the heavy seas. Pilot McIntyre deserves much credit for the manner in which he managed the helm.

Judging from their log book, they must have been eating about half the time, fishing one half, and the balance of the time smoking, sleeping, and in telling about the big fishes they didn't succeed in landing. Lenz came first in catching fish. H. Measley fell asleep between bites, but woke up after its second jerk. The third day's catch was 280 fish. They say the catch was so great that they threw them overboard, to save themselves from swamping. On the fourth day, Hoyle, Measley and Lenz certainly had skates (fish) on.

Sadly they quit their sport and started homeward, reaching New Gretna at 8:25 p.m., Wednesday, and arriving in Hammonton, in H. Measley's "pappy" wagon, at 4 o'clock Thursday morning. They had a tip-top good time, and will doubtless entertain their friends with fish stories for some considerable time to come.

The Water-Plant.

The stand-pipe for which the Water Commissioners have given a contract, is to be twelve feet in diameter, and one hundred and fifteen feet high above the foundation, and will hold over 97,000 gallons of water.

This stand-pipe is to be made of "homogeneous soft open-hearth steel," with an ultimate tensile strength of not less than 57,000 lbs. per square inch, to be built on the ground, of plate-five-feet-high, four plates to complete the circle. A steel ladder will be placed on the outside, beginning ten feet from the ground. On the top will be angle bands for strength, and a steel cover, with brass wire netting one foot high between the pipe and cover. Around the stand-pipe, near the top, will be a sixteen-inch wide platform, with pipe railing for safety. The whole to have two coats of black paint.

The contract provides for severe tests of the finished work before its acceptance by Engineer Hutton, and the whole document seems to be as tight as the stand-pipe is to be when complete. Every little detail, even size of each rivet and their number and manner of driving, and the character of the workmen employed, is stipulated.

The foundation is to be concrete, one part best Portland cement, two parts clean, dry, sharp sand, and all these materials are to be accepted by the Engineer, the contract specifying exactly how this concrete shall be made and tamped.

Evidently, we are to have the best obtainable plant, in all its details.

"Hammonton Republicans have taken to wondering why a Democrat was elected in the place of a Republican, when a Republican could have been elected by the majority of Council."—Sunday Gazette.

Who told you, Bro. McLaughlin, that our new County Freeholder is a Democrat? No matter about ancient history; he is a good enough Republican for the position, to-day. Anyway, Hammonton does not ask a good man's politics when choosing a town official. Our Town Council happens to be evenly divided this year; our Treasurer is counted a Democrat, and our Town Clerk a Republican; the three Assessors were found to be Republicans; two Justices are Republican, one Democratic; Town Marshal, a Democrat; Water Commissioners, one Democrat and two Republicans. But we venture to say that not one voter in fifty asked as to the politics of candidates for whom he voted last spring.

When political questions are involved, Hammonton can be counted for a substantial Republican majority; but in local elections, other qualifications are considered.

The books of the W. J. & S. R. Co. show that the amount of freight money received on berries during July, 1901, was only about one-half as large as during the same month in 1900; and that during the past month it was about two-thirds as much as in July, 1901; while the general freight receipts last month were $420 greater than in same month last year. Yet it is estimated that good prices and sales at the home station have left fully as much money in the pockets of those who had berries to sell, as in either of the two preceding years.
