VOL. 9-NO. 3.

HAMMONTON, N. J., SATURDAY, AUGUST 19, 1871.

$2.00 PER YEAR

THE ELECTION IN N. CAROLINA.

We have the full vote of all the counties but 17, and the reported majorities given by seven others, leaving only 10 counties to be heard from. The majority will probably not vary 200 votes from 10,000. The aggregate vote will exceed that cast for President in 1868, when Grant had 12,136 majority. The total number of votes thrown then was 186,316. The Convention vote will foot up in the neighborhood of 182,000.

TERRIBLE MINING DISASTER.

PITTSBURG, Penn., Aug. 14.—Another fearful mining disaster occurred at the Eagle shaft, about a mile south of this town, at 9 o'clock this forenoon, occasioned by an explosion of fire-damp. Eighteen men are known to have been at work in the chamber in which the explosion occurred, five of whom have been brought out dead, and there is no hope but that those remaining in the mine have met with a like fate. Meantime a large force of volunteer workmen are using efforts to reach them. In going to and from their work the miners used an air shaft, which they ascended and descended by means of a ladder, the main opening not being provided with a safety car, and therefore considered unsafe. It is supposed that the explosion blew away the props, and a consequent fall of the roof followed, completely blocking up the passages, and cutting off the means of escape, should the men have escaped death from the explosion, which is not probable.

ANOTHER STEAMER DISASTER.

MAYSVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 14.—The steamer Chautauque, Capt. Murray, exploded her boiler this afternoon while wooding at Whitney's Landing, six miles below Maysville.

Mrs VALLANDIGHAM, widow of the late C. L. Vallandigham, died in Cumberland, Md., at 112 A. M., Monday. This closes a sad death record. Mrs. V. was on the way to a brother's funeral at Cumberland, when she heard the news of her husband's death by an accidental shot at home. Returning to his funeral the poor woman became nearly frantic and was sent back to Cumberland, where she has now died from grief.

The negotiations for the speedy evacuation of Paris forts by the Germans have failed. It seems that these have been carried on by M. Pouver-Querier, the French Minister of Finance, and Mantoufel, General of the German Army of Occupation. The basis of the negotiations was that of making advance payments on the indemnity; but France, unfortunately, has not kept up to the terms of the original agreement, and the Germans have lately manifested a disposition to stand so fast on their conditions that there laid down.

Facts Relative to the Eastern Shore of Virginia—Chincoteague In Particular.

Mr. Editor:—The chief intent of this sketch is to give, in a condensed form, information to the people of Atlantic Co., who have friends now residents of eastern Virginia, and to those who contemplate migrating thither.

The Peninsula intervening between the Chesapeake Bay and the sea coast of Virginia comprises the counties of Northampton and Accomac, and in point of population exceeds 20,418, of which 8,379 were formerly slaves. It embraces within its limits numerous islands, creeks and tides, and yet the entire territory does not exceed seventy-five miles in length with a varying breadth averaging a little more than a quarter of that distance. The island best known to Jersey-men is that of Chincoteague, which shall constitute the main subject of this sketch, further on. The whole Peninsula country is peculiar, particularly in the character of its inhabitants. Thoroughly imbued with a love of slavery, predominantly illiterate and shiftless, thrift and enterprise is consequently the exception and not the rule. Politically they are intensely rebel.

When "Save the Union" was the cry, and thousands for the Union bled, the Nation's right they did deny.

They hold an insensible prejudice against the negro, a disposition to look at him in the worst possible light. The general accusation by right against him is that he is lazy, that his idea of freedom is to live without labor. While the negro is not a model of industry, it is undeniable that since his emancipation, he has provided himself with comforts that were strangers to him before, and exhibited a mechanical aptness both remarkable and unexpected. As a body, they still smart from the wounds received at Gettysburg, Appomattox, &c., and their hearts are sore under what they term "Abolition administration."

Speaking of the general appearance of the eastern shore, it should be remembered that the most striking expression chiefly in the aspect of the entire domain, the beauty of the coast consisting in spacious grounds. There is little to distinguish the plantations from the farms of the "poor whites," with this exception, and the inevitable group of what were formerly slave cabins. While the dwellings are large and airy, the grounds are well cultivated.

adornment, and are by no means models of architectural elegance.

Much might be written of the social life of these people, if space would permit. The further the investigation is extended the less presentable are the facts. Apparently, society is of little consideration. The men lack the qualities requisite to constitute a desirable community, while the women are inveterate smokers and too frequently opium eaters. Of course there are honorable exceptions to this rule, but of the major portion, it is, unfortunately, the truth. Their dialect is also peculiar, so much so that the writer does not deem himself sufficiently African to attempt to reiterate it.

As the traveler approaches the western border of the Peninsula, long vistas of forests formed by immense trunks of oaks, walnut, hickory, ash, poplar and great pines, gradually meet his view. Pine is remarkably abundant, and walnut so plentiful that frequently it is used as fuel. There is no question as to the fertility of the soil. It is admirably adapted for grain and fruits, and in the western part cotton and tobacco are profitably cultivated. Plantations from 100 to 300 acres are of frequent occurrence, while patches of land either rented or tilled on shares by the negroes contribute largely to the agricultural produce of the Peninsula.

Horntown, a village of about 300 inhabitants, situated in the county of Accomac, is the home of a number of Jersey-men. As there are old brick mansions in this vicinity bearing date previous to 1776, the village was probably founded during the reign of King George. While it is antique in appearance, it contains a number of substantial residences, and by a generous application of paint, and a thorough repairing of streets, could be made to present a fair appearance.—It will be understood that this description is applicable only to the Peninsula country.

The island of Chincoteague, in territory is similar to that of Atlantic Co., though the contrast between the two is otherwise vast. The total number of inhabitants is probably less than 1700. The general feature of the island is not especially promising. There are many neat dwellings, but the greater number of them are shanties. Evidently, the chief end of man is to catch oysters and enjoy 'em forever. So peculiarly adapted are they to this business that it is said the children are born web-footed.

"I cannot tell how the truth may be, I tell the tale as 'twas told to me." The inspector of oysters for Virginia estimated that "during the year ending September, 1869, 500 carrying vessels, 5,000 small boats and one thousand vessels were engaged in the oyster business in the waters of that State alone," of which the waters of this Peninsula contribute largely. The estimated produce of the bed during that period is ten and a half millions of bushels at the lowest calculation. From October to April the oyster beds are thickly covered with eggs of all shapes and sizes, each removing with a pair of tongs the choice bivalves from their muddy beds. Each carrying vessel is supposed to take out a state license, which they are required to exhibit to the inspector before leaving the harbor. Many vessels hailing from Egg Harbor ply between these waters and the large Northern cities.

A pleasant place is Chincoteague Bay. A crystal water of several acres in extent, seven miles in width, lying nearly at the mouth of the little harbor at the southern extremity of the island. Looking southward from this point, a sweep of emerald meadow delights the eye. There it lies, as flat and treeless as a prairie, and under its luxuriant grass gives way to a dense wood of pine, while immediately at the right lie the cultivated fields of the old planters.

To the sportsman who delights in duck shooting, the shores and tributaries of this bay afford ample facilities. During the winter, vast numbers of ducks, of different varieties, visit these waters. Heed not be more highly gratified.

Fever and ague is prevalent. During the summer and fall, this affliction visits almost every family. There are families that have suffered every season from this infection for years, and yet it is sold in that they will acknowledge it to be a "good" country. Evidently the people are not the only sufferers from this complaint, as from the dilapidated condition of the dwellings and fences, one would be led to suppose that they too had suffered severely from the "shakes."

Prigmatists Chincoteague go by two different routes, and whichever route they choose, it invariably results in their not taking the other. If the route by way of ocean be chosen, there is the convenience of oyster boats, the risk of "head winds," etc., to be endured, while if the overland route be taken, there is a distance of twenty-five miles to be drawn over by a despatching slow team, through an exceedingly tickle country.

The writer would have it clearly understood that what is written in this description is applicable chiefly to the natives. That, as a body, the Jersey people are tolerably prosperous, and a class of them even, few in number, compared with the native population.

JURUBEA.
WHAT IS IT?
 It is a sure and perfect remedy for all diseases of the Liver and Spleen, Enlargement or Obstruction of Intestines, Urinary, Uterine, or Abdominal organs. Poverty or want of Blood, Intermittent or Remittent
 Fevers, Inflammation of the Liver, Dropsy, Stagnation of the Blood, Abscesses, Tumors, Jaundice, Scrophulous, Dyspepsia, Ague or Fever or their Concomitants.
 Dr. Wells' Extract becomes aware of the extraordinary medicinal properties of the South American Plant, called JURUBEA,
 sent a special commission to that country to procure it in its native purity, and having found its wonderful curative properties to even exceed the anticipations formed by its great reputation, has concluded to offer it to the public, and is happy to testify that he has perfected arrangements for a regular monthly supply of this wonderful Plant. He has spent much time experimenting and investigating as to the most effective preparation from it, for popular use, and has for some time used in his own practice with most happy results the medicinal medicine now presented to the public as
Dr. Wells' Extract
of JURUBEA,
 and he confidently recommends it to every family as a household remedy which should be freely taken as a Blood Purifier in all derangements of the system and to animate and fortify all weak and Lymphatic temperaments.

Ayer's
Hair Vigor,
 For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color.

 A dressing which is at once agreeable,
 healthy, and effectual
 for preserving the hair. Faded or gray
 hair is soon restored
 to its original color with the gloss and
 freshness of youth.
 Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the air where the follicles are destroyed, but such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.
 Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,
 nothing else can be found so desirable.
 Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.
