It requires "hard pushing" to dispose of poor wares. All sorts of schemes are devised to "palm off" inferior clothing onto the unwary.

At Yates', corner Thirteenth and Chestnut Streets, schemes are not in vogue—the goods sell themselves. They are gotten up with great care, are superior in every way, and still are sold at moderate prices.

Now only corner 13th and Chestnut Streets, Philadelphia.

Significant Figures.

If some enthusiastic Tariff reformer should erect in our midst a factory to manufacture silk, woolen or other goods, and should make his debut by paying to his employees only half the rate of wages now paid in this country for like services, what would be its first effect upon our workers? A burst of popular indignation, not only from workers but from all their friends as well.

The second effect would be to bring all wages down to the rate fixed by this one employer, if he were to continue business. This is suggestive. Every laborer is directly interested in what his competitor is doing; not only his competitor in labor, but he must go back of this and see what the employer of that competing labor is doing. If that employer, after paying only half or less to his workers, sells his products in competition with the products of our labor, it is only a question of time when he will force our laborers out of work or down to the level of his workers.

It makes no kind of difference that oceans intervene to separate the parties. Modern inventions have practically annihilated both time and distance as to the product of almost every kind of labor. So far as these two elements are concerned, they afford but little more protection to our laborers than if the German, French, or Bohemian factory were located just across the street from our own.

To guard our workers from the low-priced labor of other lands has been the anxiety of every loyal friend of the American toiler. Yet last year we imported as the product of this foreign labor, in goods, consisting of glass, silk, wool, flax, hemp and jute, iron and steel, cotton, tobacco, liquors, paper, earthen, stone and china ware, and the manufactures thereof, alone, to the amount of over $300,000,000.

Every dollar's worth of these could have been produced here. Had they been, does any believe that our laborers would have suffered the same anxiety as to whether their wages were in danger of reduction? Yet to the extent of these importations, our laborers have come in direct competition with the foreign laborer. It has been round almost if not quite impossible for our wages to be advanced so long as these heavy imports continue. Time and again during the last ten years have friends of our laborers sought to so adjust duties on these and other imports as to protect them against the low wages of other lands. The McKinley bill has proved a master stroke in that direction, and its authors are entitled to the gratitude of every friend of the laborer.

The Treasury Department has issued a statement showing the amount of our foreign commerce for the year ending June 30, 1891, which is full of encouragement to the laborer, and demonstrates the wisdom of the McKinley act.

This statement shows that the value of imports of merchandise paying duty for the nine months ending June 30th, 1891—this being the nine months since the said act went into force—was $334,242,340, while for the same period ending June 30, 1890, the value of imports paying duty was $389,786,032. This shows a reduction of imports in favor of the new law of $55,543,692.

Every labor organization, every laborer, and every laborer's friend, will read these figures with delight. Has modern times revealed so effective a way to relieve our laborers from the evil effects of competition with the low wages of other lands?

What labor has supplied this vast amount of over fifty-five million dollars' worth to our people? The American! No wonder there is a feeling of confidence growing stronger every day, that this much maligned McKinley act is to prove the best friend of this generation to the laborer. It is a second Emancipation act.

And who is worse off because of it? Parenthetically, let us suggest that you pass by the importer, his agents or employees in answering this question. Has any one paid more for what he has had to buy? No. Let us pass over the few months when falsehood ran riot in the early footsteps of the act, and put the question in this way: Is any one paying more for his goods to-day? Truth compels you to answer no.

But the report goes further, and shows that for the nine months ending June 30, 1890, we imported free of duty goods valued at $208,983,873; while for same period ending June 30, 1891, we imported goods free of duty to the value of $295,963,665,—a difference in favor of the McKinley act amounting to $86,979,792. Very much of this has gone directly to lessening the cost of what goes on the breakfast table, thus going directly into the laborer's own pocket.—American Economist.

The administration of President Harrison has been clean honorable and patriotic.

It Was Indeed a Miracle.

334 First St., BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 2, 1891.
I wish to state what a wonderful benefit Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic has been to my brother, who has suffered from rheumatism since 1855 and has not been able to do work of any kind since that time. He has tried all kinds of patent medicines and different doctors of skill, but all without benefit, until he took the Tonic. He has continued improved since, and I will say, and hundreds besides me who have seen him during his sickness, that it was indeed a miracle to see him restored to health.

The Republican.

(Entered as second-class matter.)

SATURDAY, AUGUST 22, 1891.

Alex. Aitken and wife expect to take the steamer from New York for Glasgow, Scotland, Sept. 3rd. They will spend a couple of months among friends. They go on the magnificent steamer "State of California," of the Allan Line. Of course they bought their tickets of Wm. Rutherford.

Capt. Elmer French, of Port Republic, has various important and extensive improvements in progress and contemplation near home. An electric light plant is about completed (so we are told), which may be increased to furnish power for a railroad to Oceanville, on the Brigantine Road. Messrs. Ellis & Knight have just completed a flowing well, 136 feet deep, to supply the new building.

Rev. Dr. Buckley, the well known editor of the Christian Advocate, in answering a question propounded to him at the Chautauque Assembly the other day took occasion to remark: "The biggest political mistake ever made in this world was the endorsement of a prohibition party by the Women's Christian Temperance Union."

In office or out of office, Mr. Blaine is the central figure in American politics. George Jones of the New York Times is dead. He was the man with Roman virtue who refused to take five million dollars for the suppression of the facts that led to the overthrow of Boss Tweed.

A Safe Investment

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellow-men. Acquired by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe in German, French, or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp (naming this paper) W. A. NOYES, 820 Powers Block, Rochester, N. Y.

"Gems of Thought" is the appropriate title of a pretty little book by Mrs. Victoria Manger. It contains nearly one hundred short poems and hymns,—choice sentiments well expressed, and all bearing the impress of a sympathetic Christian spirit. Here is one of them, entitled "If."—

If mankind were only conscious of the worth of little things; If they knew that every smile, That unobtrusively often brings; They would not oppress each other, Crueling out life's noblest gift; They would not tread down a brother, Whom their kindness best could lift. If it were not for deception, Which the heart is full of guile; If the faces that we look on, Were not outward masks the while; Then indeed would Christian virtues In our very midst have sway, And sincerity and honor Be the aim of every day. If religion were not acted Like a farce upon the stage; If men sought for inspiration From the Scriptures' holy page; How their hearts would warm with truth, Borne with a sacred fire, Doing good to all around them, Until wisdom—come up higher. If the world thought less of pleasure,— Less of selfishness and greed,— More of earnest, honest labor,— Less of present ease and ease,— Love would spring up at unbidden, Peace and order reign supreme, And the hoped and wished millennium Would not be a life dream!

Mrs. Manger is a resident of Hammonton, a soldier's widow, and if you purchase a copy of the book it will prove a good investment.

It was a merry party, and their enjoyment was not lessened by the fruit and ice cream which was served. Later

THE MEAT THAT PERISHES.

I. Greatly Desired: Ye seek me... because ye ate of the loaves, and were filled (26). All that a man hath will he give for his life (Job 2: 4). Soul... take this ease, eat, drink, be merry (Luke 12: 19). Let us eat and drink, for to-morrow we die (1 Cor. 15: 32). Whose god is the belly (Phil. 3: 19).

II. Wronly Pursued: Work not for the meat which perisheth (27).

Be not anxious... what ye shall eat (Matt. 6: 25).

After all these things do the Gentiles seek (Matt. 6: 32).

Thou foolish one, this night is thy soul required (Luke 12: 20).

Set your mind on the things that are above (Col. 3: 2).

III. Wronly Secondary: This is the work of God, that ye believe on him whom he hath sent (29).

Is not the life more than the food? (Matt. 6: 25).

Seek ye first his kingdom, and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you (Matt. 6: 33).

Godliness is profitable for all things (1 Tim. 4: 8).

Accounting the reproach of Christ greater riches (Heb. 11: 26).
