Annual Town Meeting.

Scarcely three score representative citizens deemed it worth while to attend the public meeting held on Wednesday evening,—so satisfied are tax-payers with everything that has been done or that it is proposed to do.

But, thanks to the American spirit, there were a goodly number present with convictions, and who wished to better things.

Dr. Charles Cunningham was chosen chairman, and W. R. Seely secretary.

Two subjects were disposed of,—appropriations approved of with but six hundred chopped off, and the sewerage question endorsed.

The amounts recommended by the meeting are as follows, with last year's for comparison:

	For 1911	For 1912
Highways	$6000	$5000
Town Purposes	5000	5000
Street Lights	4500	4500
Park	500	300
Poor	1500	1000
Brd. of Health	400	500
Fire Dept.	1000	1000
Drainage	200	200
Memorial Day	50	50
	$19150	$17550

The several items, excepting Fire Department and Memorial Day, were discussed. The Mayor and Council were requested to confer with the authorities of Atlantic City and other large points in the county in regard to the care of the poor,—the Freeholders being willing to erect buildings for that purpose if so desired. The annual cost to the Town is now about fifteen hundred dollars.

The sewerage question was freely discussed by fully a score.—Mayor Burt and Messrs. Galigue, Cunningham, Seely, Rider, Scudder, Colwell, Remington, and Bitler, bringing out some excellent points. According to an act of 1902, Hammonton has but to secure the signature of fifty citizens to a petition to be sent to Town Council, and by them referred to a Judge of the Supreme Court. He, in turn, will appoint a commission, who will investigate and if it seems to them advisable, proceed to employ engineers and install the plant, subject to the vote of the people. As the bulk of the expense and maintenance would fall on those living in the congested centre of Town, in the form of a sewerage tax, it was decided to go ahead before we are compelled to by an epidemic. A motion was carried to the effect that "we approve of some form of sewerage."

Voted, unanimously, that a committee of five be appointed by the Chairman, to investigate, who shall have power to proceed with the preliminary steps. Chair reserved the appointment until Thursday morning, when he announced the following: R. G. Scudder, A. J. Rider, J. G. Galigue, Wm. Colwell, Dr. J. C. Bitler.

Adjourned at 9.30

About twenty young ladies are anticipating a delightful week in camp, down by the salt sea. Rev. W. S. Marple has been appointed commander.

Mr. John H. Marshall spent the week visiting Hammonton friends and relatives. Everybody was pleased to see him recovering from his long illness.

Prof. N. C. Holdridge has sold to John T. Chambers his forty acre homestead farm, near Elm, taking in part payment the Chambers property on Maple Street.

Twelfth Sunday after Trinity. Services at St. Mark's Church: 7.30, Holy Communion; at 10.30, Morning Prayer; 11.45, Sunday School; 7.30, Evening Prayer.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hantzman and daughter, sister and niece of Mrs. M. B. Pfeil, stopped in Hammonton on Monday, for a brief visit, on their way from Atlantic City to Philadelphia.

The funeral of John Rizzotte's eldest daughter, Saturday forenoon, was very largely attended,—taxing the resources of three livery stables to provide transportation. She was in her thirteenth year, and loved by all who knew her.

The Seven Years' War.
A single line of Frederick II., reflecting on the poetry of a French minister, plunged France into the Seven Years' war.

Alloys.
Most alloys melt at lower temperatures than their constituent metals.

Iodoform.
The nasal nerves are so sensitive that the odor of iodoform can be recognized in quantities as small as one hundred billionth of a gram. In such a case the odor was distinct, although hundreds of years would be required for the substance to lose a thousandth part of its weight.

Earthquakes.
People of antiquity thought that earthquakes were produced by dead warriors fighting with one another underground and so shaking the earth.

Candle Superstitions.
A collection of tallow rising up against the wick of a candle was styled a winding sheet in olden times and deemed an omen of death in the family. A spark at the candle denoted that the person opposite to it would shortly receive a letter.

Cotton and Thread.
One pound of cotton has yielded as much as 4,770 miles of thread.

Artificial Teeth.
Artificial teeth were used in the first century. Marcellus then referring to them thus: "You use without a blush false teeth and hair; but, Laella, your squire is past repair."

Boxing Matches.
Boxing matches were instituted in 638 B. C.

A Costly Jest.
Destruction of Athens was brought about by a jest on Sulla. A witty Athenian, struck with his plump face, called him a "mulberry pudding."

The Eddystone Light.
Possessing a candle power of 150,000, the light of Eddystone lighthouse can be seen in clear weather for seventeen and a half miles.

Magnifying Glasses.
Magnifying glasses were invented by Alhazen, an Arabian, in 1050.

The Squeak of the Sardine.
"As dumb as a fish" is a saying that does not apply to many species of sea water denizens. The sardine before it draws its last breath raises a feeble squeak like the squeak of a mouse. In some fish the vocal organs are sonorous and well developed.

First Map of the Heavens.
The oldest map of the heavens was made by Chinese in 600 B. C. and contains 1,400 stars. It is in the National Library, Paris.

The Boss.
American word boss, meaning an employer or overseer, is the modern form from the Dutch boss and descended from the original Holland settlers in this country.

In a Minute.
We do a good many things in a minute. For instance, we are whirled on the outside of the earth just thirteen miles and have gone around the sun 1,082 miles; a ray of light has traveled 11,100,000 miles; the lowest sound your ear can catch has made 320 vibrations, the loudest tone 2,222,000 vibrations.

The Kinds of Love.
A man kin love his neighbor;
He kin love him purty good;
He kin love him for his coal pile
An' stack o' kin'lin' wood;
He kin love him fur the "sawback"
That the man is like to lend;
He kin love him fur the jolly "dough"
The man is shure to spend;
He kin love him fur the dinner
A-steam' on his board;
He kin love him fur the bank account;
Fur many years the horde.
But to love him fur his inner self
To help the chap along—
That kind o' love is mos'ly found In poetry an' in song.
—Douglas Dobbins in Indianapolis News.

The Reason.
The Drummer—Would you believe it, each sample costs us 10 cents apiece.
Friend—Indeed! And what does the finished product cost?
The Drummer—Three cents a dozen.
We have to make the samples good,
you know.—Puck.

Hurry.
Don't wait if you expect to win
A splendid battle over sin;
Today's the day you should begin—
Do it now.

If you possess a little son,
And also have a loaded gun,
Go throw away the "shooter"—run!
Do it now.

If you're my debtor, don't, I pray,
Indulge in any more delay;
Make up your mind at once to pay—
Do it now.
—Chicago Record-Herald.

Legging Behind.
"Why are you loitering around here?"
demanded the policeman. "You seem to have no object in view."

Taking His Share.
He took a lamp, a vase, a clock.
He took a print of Chatham dock.
He muttered as the rugs he eyed.
"The rich must with the poor divide."
He stumbled over a guided chair.
The owner came and found him there.
That store of loot he darkly eyed.
"And who are you?" he fiercely cried.
The stranger scowled, then proudly blazed,
"Why, I am a parlor Socialist!"
—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

An Innovation.

"How so?"

tured as being very much in love with his wife."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Mutual.
"Is your butter fresh? Are your canned goods pure?"
To the groceryman said we:
And the groceryman he answered: "Sure!
Trust me for that," said he.
And he wrapped it up, and we went away.
"You've forgotten to pay!" cried he.
But we only laughed in our witty way.
"Trust me for that," said we.
—Charleston Courier.

Unfair Test.
The Tenant—Look here, sir. It's only 20 above zero in this room. There's the thermometer—look for yourself.
The Landlord—That's not a fair test.
You've hung the thermometer on the radiator.—Toledo Blade.

Turn About.
"Save me! Save me!" a young girl cried
From the ocean deep where she went to

And a young man landed her safe on

Then after awhile she landed him.

The Unemployed—An don't you want to hire a man to work around the house?
The Housekeeper—No, there's not enough work to keep a man busy.
The Unemployed—Sure, it takes darn little work to keep me busy.—Toledo
