The home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. F. Crowell, at Third and Maple Streets, Hammonton, N. Rev. H. A. Abbott was the officiating clergyman. The house was prettily decorated with cut flowers, and was filled with guests, mostly relatives of the contracting parties. Both young people are well known in Hammonton, and best wishes of the many friends go with them to their new home. After a wedding lunch, automobiles took the party to Winslow Junction, where the train was taken,—their destination being Washington, D. C., where they will reside for the present.

about my policy," said a Prudential policy holder, "is the thorough way it takes care of my interests, not only while premiums are paid, but even if I should only have to stop payments. I am fully protected, no matter what happens. Everything is clearly and fully set forth in my policy, and more than that, it is guaranteed. I tell you, it's worth something to a man to know that he doesn't have to worry about how his family or himself will be taken care of by the concern that carries his life insurance."

SATURDAY, AUGUST 31, 1912

Friends will find this office open all day Monday.

As usual, a rough element followed the circus into town, Thursday morning; and householders locked their doors and windows, and tied their dogs loose. But so far as we can learn, no thefts were reported nor houses entered.

Old Jersey men predict an early frost. It certainly felt like one yesterday morning.

People all over town are calling for the return of the early-morning electric lights, between five and six-thirty. Many are arising at five or five-thirty, others preparing breakfast, and still others, opening up for business; and it's not altogether satisfactory, nor possible either, to hunt up a candle or old kerosene lamp. We believe the Company would give continuous light if they realized how many want it.

Have you put in your winter's supply of coal yet? Prices are about to take a trip a-la-biplane.

Our Town Council ordained specifications for concrete walks and curbs, which we supposed were to govern all such work done in Hammoncton, whether on the Town's contract or by others. An Inspector was appointed, but for some reason was later called off.
There have been hundreds of feet of walks and curbs built since, by private contract, over which there has been no municipal oversight.
Wonder why? Who knows whether this work has been properly done, or not? It may be better than the specifications call for, but who knows?

One of our readers had two of his letters returned from the Dead Letter Office, the other day. He immediately gave his printers a hurry-up order for printed envelopes.

We have frequently noted with regret the willingness of some girls to receive attention from young men—even though their acquaintance has been very brief, and little is known of the fellow's character or circumstances. Such action does not always bring the young lady to grief, but it does destroy that fine sense of propriety, that genteel dignity, which is a charm in every woman. Just now we have a case where the consequences proved disastrous, and the end is not yet in sight.

On July 16th, a young Italian from Philadelphia came here for "Our Lady's Day" celebration. He met an attractive sixteen-year-old Hammoncton girl—Italian parentage—and she accepted his admiring attentions. He represented himself as very wealthy, and proposed marriage, promising to build a fine mansion, wherein she would "live like a queen." She consented, went to the city, and two days later they were married. We don't know what his financial circumstances are, but he took his bride to the Italian quarter, and in a short time locked her in a room, using her as a "white slave," with all that the term implies. To her appeals he turned a deaf ear; and she was kept a prisoner until a few days ago she climbed out of a back window, scantily clad, and reached a police station, where she told her story. The man was promptly arrested, and we hope will receive a severe sentence. As for the girl, her father will care for her. She has paid dearly for her folly.

SOME PRACTICAL LIFE RIGHTS.

"Thomas Jefferson, third President of the United States, gives this advice:

Do not sit up late at night; study and work in the day time. Rise early and go to bed early.

Avoid needless reading, but cultivate the companionship of good books. Never tell a lie or stoop to a mean act. Be kind to every living creature. Speak no evil of anyone. Be good, adore God, be loyal to friends, and love your country better than yourself. Take hold of things by the smooth handle, avoid disputes, do not turn pleasant conversation into heated argument. Too much speaking is not best.
Never put off till to-morrow what you can do to-day. Never spend your money before you have it. Never buy what you do not need because it is cheap. Pride costs more than hunger, thirst and cold.
We never regret of having eaten too little. Never borrow trouble.

hundred condemned scales, weights tours about the county, to Trenton forty-seven other inspectors do as well, the display will certainly be well worth going to see. Mr. S. brought into our office two of his samples,—half-peck measures,— which had been used in Atlantic County for years. He carefully measured three quarts of grain, which fairly filled one of the condemned wooden measures, and nearly filled the other. The hucksters had evidently sold five pecks of pro-
