MR. EDITOR: I would like to call the attention of those who have so generously patronized the game since we moved into our new quarters to the fact that the members of our Base-ball Club are amateurs, and play for the pleasure and sport of the game. They are not paid for their services. When it is taken into consideration that the young men devote nearly every afternoon, after a day's hard work, to practice, in order to be in condition to play on Saturday, for the entertainment and amusement of us all,—their only idea of remuneration being the applause of their friends, don't you think it would be more generous to close our eyes to the few errors they make, and give hearty applause to their many good plays? At any rate I would ask that patrons refrain from personal remarks, which are calculated to embarrass the player and weaken his play.

Let us all go to the game in a spirit of friendliness to our players, and help them to keep up the good work they are doing. We should be proud of them.

I cannot close without touching upon a more serious subject, which threatens the success of our organization, which will be treated in a very different, if not more effective way.

Without referring to anything which has happened in the past, I will say that anyone who uses profane or objectionable language, or otherwise conducts himself in a manner offensive to the ladies and gentlemen who frequent our games, will be immediately removed from the grounds by a policeman, who will be on duty at every game in the future. Very respectfully,

EDW. S. GRANT.

Nobody can longer doubt the efficacy of the Dingley tariff law as a revenue producer. It was originally intended to produce at least one-half of ordinary revenues, which averaged before the war expenditures began, one million dollars a day, and no additions for war expenses were made to it except the tea duty which brings less than a million dollars a month. Yet the receipts under it, since March 1st, have been $103,000,000, or an average of almost $700,000 a day, instead of the $500,000 expected of it. During the same period of the existence of the lamented Wilson law, the customs receipts were about $75,000,000, or less than three-fourths of those under the Dingley law.

The people of the United States are sending two hundred and fifty million dollars a year out of the country to buy tropical products, including fibers, fruit, coffee and sugar. The articles for which this money is expended can all be grown in Porto Rico, Hawaii, and the Philippines, to say nothing of Cuba.
When Americans and American capital become interested in the industries of those islands, this vast sum of money can be expended among our own people, instead of being, as at present, paid to those of other countries.

ECKHARDT'S MARKET

240 Bellevue Ave., Hammonton.

The Republican.

[Entered as second class matter.]

SATURDAY, SEPT. 2, 1899

Pittsburg, Pa., welcomed with grand demonstration the Tenth Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteers, which then reached home after a year's service in the Philippines. President McKinley was present, and made an address of welcome which is receiving world-wide commemoration. We reproduce a few sentences, wishing that we might give you the whole of it.

You and your comrades made secure the victory of Dewey. You and those engaged on other fields have enlarged the map of the United States and extended the jurisdiction of American liberty. Whether in Cuba, Porto Rico, or the Philippines, or at home awaiting orders, our troops did their full duty.
You did not serve in vain in the Philippines or their sympathizers at home; had no part or patience with the man, happily few in number, who could have rejoiced to see our brave soldiers lay down their arms in the presence of an enemy whom they had unhappily from Spanish rule, and who should have been our firm friends.
Peace brought us the Philippines by treaty cession from Spain. It became our territory, and is ours as much as the Louisiana Purchase, or Texas, or Alaska.

The first blow was struck by the insurgents. Our kindness was reciprocated with cruelty, our mercy with a Mauler. The flag of justice was invoked only to be dishonored. Our soldiers were shot down while ministering to wounded Filipinos; our humanity was interpreted as weakness, our forbearance as cowardice. There will be no unpleasant parley, no pause until the insurrection is suppressed and American authority established and acknowledged.
Our prayers go with the brave men who have taken your places; and more men will follow, and more munitions of war, if necessary, for the speedy suppression of rebellion, the establishment of peace and tranquility, and a government under the undisputed sovereignty of the United States; a government which will do justice to all, and at once encourage the best efforts and aspirations of these distant people, and the highest development of their rich and fertile lands.

As you will see in the advertise-ing columns, Jackson's meat market is now conducted by Messrs. Jackson and Son, the son being our well-known young friend, Albert. A native of Hammonton, a graduate of our High School, of strict integrity, popular with old and young, everybody will be pleased with his prospects in a lucrative business.

While many of our patrons have remembered us, paid up arrears and advance subscriptions, not a few who have prospered this year are holding money which is our due. Are you one of these? Don't wait for us to send a bill, but call and settle before frost chills the good impulse. Give us a chance to fill our pork barrel and coal bin before the next blizzard, and replace our worn out overcoat before zero weather strikes us. "Live, and let live."

On Tuesday, a six-year-old son of Mrs. Murphy, at "Murphy's Crossing," was struck by the locomotive of the up-express train on the W. J. & S.
R. R., and badly injured about the head, shoulder, and body. Just how it happened, no one knows. Mrs. M. had gone to the brick-yard with her husband's dinner, an older sister was busy with housework, and no one saw the accident. The train men took the little fellow to the Cooper Hospital, Camden, where the doctors say they expect him to recover.

To-morrow's Philadelphia Press will be filled with valuable information for veterans. If you intend to visit Philadelphia during the great National Reenactment of the Grand Army of the Republic you should get next Sunday's Press (Sept. 3rd). It will contain information which will be of value to every visitor and to the stay-at-homes as well. It will tell what to see and how to see it. It will have special articles of interest to those who fought for the stars and stripes. It will be splendidly illustrated, and to a reviewer of this great gathering worthy of being kept and treasured by all.

Base-Ball.

An unlooked-for event happened last Saturday, in the nearly total eclipse of the Crescent A. A. of Philadelphia. The eccentricity of the sphere proved too difficult a problem for the visitors to inform satisfactorily, either at the bat or in the field. Some of their antics when they got in the path of its orbit were almost amusing. Out of Hammonton's plus runs, only one was scored. Our boys are open to criticism for errors of judgment, especially not playing together, failure in backing each other up, as well as on base. Setley has deserved special credit for this in his difficult position. His base running is very good, sometimes taking pretty sleazy chances. Conley's great running left-handed catch of Abbott in the seventh, won prolonged applause, and Herbert made a good catch of Jones' foul fly in the third. Harrar's work behind the bat was excellent, while Jefferson pulled in some hot grounders, and made an unusual number of assists.

Setley, in the first, walked, moved to second on Abbott's fumble of Jefferson's push, stole third, and came in on Harrar's hit through short. In the next, Naylor started the sphere on a parabolic curve toward the land of the rising sun; Thomas drew a base and Naylor made the home voyage on Heberon's fumble of Tell. Conley reached let, in the next, on an error, Harrar bunted, and both moved up on a fumble, Conley ambuling in on a passed ball, while Har-rar was nearly caught at home. Naylor sent to short and reached his third outing, counting on Thomas' drive to the Green spot in the right field.

In the fourth, the visitors woke up for a season. Steln and Shank each singled to right, moving up on Heberon's and Beale's sacrifices, Steln scoring. Harrar tallied another run for us on his hit and another combination of timely errors. Gifford caught the ball on the end of his tree and sent to center. Setley bunt-ed, and both moved up on a resulting overthrow. Harrar riding in, Conley completed the circuit for center and summoned Setley. Harrar caused a rise in leather to left, and Conley showed his heels to 3rd, but Harrar was caught at home again.

In the seventh, Thomas drew a base, stole 2nd, moved to 3rd on an error, and tallied on Gifford's drive to right.
In the eighth, Shank lifted one to center, and came in on Gifford's overthrow to cut off Heberon, and the latter counted on Abbott's push to right.

In the last, Beale walked, moved up on Green's sacrifice, reached 3rd on Tell's muff of Hebe, and scored on Jones' push to short.

While the game could not be called very scientific, we doubt if any in the crowded grandstand or bleacherie failed to enjoy the laughable and excitable points of the game.
