Children are Important Customers

In our estimation. When they are sent to us on a trading errand we always remember that they are not discriminating buyers, and take special pains to see that they get what both you and they want. Then we always try to be prompt in waiting on them—there is always a little worry at home when they are sent on an errand and stay too long, often through no fault of their own.

"JANE."

Society turned out in force, Thursday evening, to see the three-act farce, "Jane," presented by Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Grant, assisted by local amateurs. The audience was rewarded by one of the best comedies ever put on a Hammonton stage. Moreover, it was an appreciative audience, and there was one continuous round of laughter from the beginning to the end.

All of the characters took their parts well. Mrs. Grant, as "Jane," the domestic and temporary mistress of the house; and Mr. Grant as "Kershaw," the comical old guardian, were perfectly at home on the stage, and easily the stars of the evening. Mr. G., especially, brought down the house again and again. Mr. Nicholson, "Shackleton," the spendthrift bachelor, surprised all his friends by the cleverness of his acting in the perplexing situations.

Mr. Ritter, as "William," the valet and unannounced husband of Jane; and Mrs. Bower as "Mrs. Chadwick," the persistent widow, were especially clever in portrayal of the characters. Miss Grant put her own personality into her part, and made a charming "Lucy." Mrs. DePuy as the energetic "Mrs. Pixton," and Mr. DePuy as the awe-inspiring "Pixton," and Mr. Coggey as "Claude," all took their parts with spirit and discrimination.

"Miss Frederica," the baby, deserves special mention.

The entire farce owed its fun largely to its extremely comical situations, wherein lies the comedy. There was nothing objectionable in the play, and it all went off with such energy and dash as to reflect great credit upon the manager, E. S. Grant. One would have to go far to see such a side-splitting farce, more cleverly presented, than this local presentation of "Jane."

Justice Garton has turned over the $450 found with the body of Simon Notto, to the Court, for safe-keeping until a guardian has been appointed for the children. Mr. Garton is acting as executor pro tem.

L. I. Harmon is building three houses on Valley Avenue, — one for Frank Berenato, one for Mrs. Penzo, the third for Mr. Michelatto. The last is to be fitted up with gas bath, and other modern conveniences.

The sixth annual game of baseball between Hammonton and Pleasantville will be played on Monday next, (Labor Day,) in our ball park. In fact there will be two games, — at 10.15 a. m. and 3.15 p. m. Admission, 15 cents, with five cents extra for gentlemen in the grandstand.

Fred. Measley, Jr., and his sister, Miss Emma, have returned from a most delightful trip to Niagara Falls, the Thousand Islands, and down the beautiful St. Lawrence River. Mr. M. found that the falls exceeded in grandeur his greatest expectations, and thinks that the scenery among the islands is simply indescribable in beauty.

Council voted a special meeting on Thursday evening. Only three members and the Clerk present, but they carefully canvassed the subjects, and decided to recommend the following appropriations for the primary ticket: For street lights, $3200; Fire Department, for salaries, $850; Highways, $2500; Town purposes, $2000; Memorial Day, $50; Drainage, $1200; Poor, $1000. Total, $10,200.

Baited Upon a Wedding.

Her finger was so small, the ring would not stay on, which they did bring. It was too wide a peck.

And to say truth (for out it tuss), it looked like the great collar (just) about our young folks' tuss.

Her feet beneath her petticoat, like little mice, stole in and out. As if they feared the light.

But O, she dances such a way! No sun upon an Easter day. Is half so fine a sight.

Her cheeks so rare a white was on. No daisy makes comparison. (Who sees them is undone).

For streaks of red were mingled there, such as are on a Catherine pear. (The side that's next the sun).

Her lips were red, and one was this, (Compared to that next her chin). (Somebody had stung it newly).

But (Dick) her eyes so gazed her face. I durst no more upon her gaze. Than on the sun in July.

—Sir John Lubbock.

A Life Lesson. There's little girl, don't cry! They have broken your doll, I know.

And your tuss-tuss, too. And your playhouse, too. But (Dick) her eyes so gazed her face.

But child, troubles will soon pass by. There's little girl, don't cry!

There's little girl, don't cry! They have broken your heart, I know.

And the rainbow gleams. Of your youthful dreams. Are things of the long ago.

But Heaven holds all for which you sigh. There's little girl, don't cry!

—James Whitcomb Riley.

Going to the Fair. When me and my Ma and Pa went to the fair.

Magie, let's go, come a-scorowding in there. When me and my Ma and Pa went to the fair.

The road's full o' loads full 'at ready to bust.

An' all 'at 'at smokin' and chokin' with that.

Reviews

Society is fitting the characters and incidents of Mrs. Wharton's "The House of Mirth" to people and things as real life. In using the chronicle of high society Mrs. Wharton most admirably sustains an illusion of reality, rather than reality itself.

It was recently stated that Mrs. Anne Warner French went abroad for a "complete rest." She now notifies a friend on this side that during the first six weeks of this "complete rest" she wrote a 15,000-word Susan Clegh story and a novelette of 37,000 words.

It is said that the new biography of Lady Burton, compiled by Mr. W. H. Williams, as told from documents left behind upon her death, is a fine vindication of a noble woman from the detractions and petty scandals of the spiteful and malignant. The plain truth, as told from documents left behind upon her death, is a fine vindication of a noble woman from the detractions and petty scandals of the spiteful and malignant.

Robert Neilson Stephens continues popular as a writer of romantic novels, new editions of "An Enemy to the King" (1889), "The Road to Paris" (1890), "A Gentleman Player" (1890), and "Captain Ravenshaw" (1901) having been printed this season.

As illustrating Miss Jeannette Gilder's recent discussion of the question, "Does it pay to be a literary woman?" it is significant that the two most prominent literary writers left behind upon her death, is a fine vindication of a noble woman from the detractions and petty scandals of the spiteful and malignant.

F. Hopkinson Smith deals with social conditions and conditions of life in "The House of Mirth" to people and things as real life. In using the chronicle of high society Mrs. Wharton most admirably sustains an illusion of reality, rather than reality itself.

When the time comes the hostess joins all the girls into one room, where they seat themselves on the benches. Laughing and chattering, they are each promptly muffled in sheets by the hostess. The head and hair and figure are completely covered and when this is done the girls resemble mummies.

The young men draw lots and one by one they enter the room where the muffled girls sit. Hopkinson, so far as slight or touch goes, the puzzled hostess would help him if her eyes were not hidden, but she is as helpless as they.

It is the law and custom that the man shall marry the girl he has picked out for himself. This is the law of the land. It is the law of the land. It is the law of the land. It is the law of the land.

Little Willie. Say, but, what is 'conscience money?' my son, in the quarter your mother leaves in his pockets when she makes a midnight raid.

—James Whitcomb Riley.

GRANDSON OF A KING.

Relation of the New Secretary of the Navy to the Bonapartes.

Charles J. Bonaparte, the new Secretary of the Navy, comes from a family of French origin. His grandfather, Elizabeth Patterson, was the reigning belle of Baltimore when Napoleon's brother, Jerome, afterward King of Westphalia, visited it.

A few days later Jerome was introduced to Miss Patterson, with whom he fell madly in love. He determined on making her his wife and after they were betrothed.

When the French consul at Washington heard what Jerome had done he was beside himself with rage and terror. What would Napoleon say?

He paced at the thought and alternately tore his hair and said laughingly to his friends that he was mad.

When Napoleon heard of the marriage he was furious. He immediately forbade the consul to advance Jerome any funds and warned every French agent to take care of himself.

The Coroner's Inquest.

As scheduled in our last issue, the inquest was held on Wednesday afternoon, to fix the manner of and responsibility for the death of Simon and Theresa Noto, who were killed last week by an Atlantic City trolley. The jury had already been sworn in and had viewed the bodies. The first witness was the engineer, Phil Stohler. He testified that he left Camden on that 24th of August at 5:12, and that the accident occurred at 5:40, at the Union crossing. As he came down the grade, this side of Rosedale, running about seventy miles an hour, he noticed a team approaching the railroad. Supposing that the people would stop, he gave the usual signal at the post; but when about 600 feet from the crossing he saw that the team was not stopping, hence gave several sharp blasts of the whistle and applied the emergency brake; but it was too late. The pilot struck the horse and pulled the wagon in against the side of the engine. On account of the horse on the pilot, and consequent condition of the track, the train could not be stopped before it had gone a mile. This straightforward testimony was corroborated by the other train men, and all the witnesses.

Dr. Cunningham, who arrived on the scene soon after the accident, testified that the woman was dead when he reached the spot; that the man had suffered compound fractures of both arms, and no other injuries; and that at the hospital where he took the sufferer, his death was attributed to shock, rather than to injuries. Of those who saw the accident, Tony Lakosa, Frank Lakosa, Tony Bataleza, and Antonio Dominico, the testimony of the last was most telling. He heard the first whistle when on the wheel at the corner of Thirteenth street and Edge Harbor Road. Before the next signal sounded he had ridden about 150 feet, and that Noto had had time to stop his horse in the interim, if he heard the first whistle. The testimony was quite coherent throughout, and the jury had little difficulty in reaching a verdict. The jury was composed of Messrs. Joe H. Garton, Matteo Cappuccino, John W. Myers, Charles E. Roberts, Wm. P. Keynor, and J. L. O'Donnell. The verdict was substantially as follows: That Mrs. Theresa Noto came to her death at or about 5:40 p. m., Aug. 24th, from injuries received by being struck by train No. 27 on the Atlantic City Railroad, at Thirteenth St. crossing. That Simon Noto died at Cooper Hospital, Camden, at 6:35 a. m., Aug. 25th, from the effects of shock caused by being struck by said train. That the employees on said train are exonerated from all blame for said accident. Further, it was resolved that the jury strongly recommend that the A. C. R. R. Co. place safety gates or a watchman at said crossing.

Obituary.

PHILANDER H. BROWN
Died on Tuesday morning, August 29th, 1905, at his residence on Peach Street, Hammoncton, N. J., aged 78 years.

Mr. Brown was an early settler in Hammoncton, was one of the three men named by the State Legislature in the act of incorporation, March, 1866, as an inspector of the first Town election, and has since held official positions in the town. He was, to the day of his death, held in the highest esteem as a man of strict integrity, firm in his convictions, to be counted on the side of right every time.

Formerly a school teacher in his native state (New York) and in Illinois, ill health brought him to this place in 1865. He bought a farm on Main Road, his education aiding him in making the business a success. In 1884 he sold to Joe. Exposito, bought a large tract of wild land at Second Road and Eighth Street, which he improved rapidly, and built a fine house on the corner of Third and Peach Streets. But advancing years and increasing infirmities induced him to retire a year or so ago, since which he has gradually failed in health until the close of life, which was uneventful.

Mr. Brown was one of the class of men who can truly be spared, an active Christian, a good and useful citizen. Mrs. Brown, a son (Samuel E.), and a daughter (Mrs. A. E. Simons) with four or five grandchildren, are among the mourners; and the sympathy of a host of friends is with them.

Funeral services were held at the home on Thursday afternoon, conducted by Pastor F. R. Middleton.

Work has been begun on the new bridge on Main Road, near the Independent fire house. The contract calls for a reinforced concrete bridge, with ten foot aperture beneath. The steel girders will be 10 x 12 inches in diameter, and the concrete will be covered with ten inches of gravel. The wing walls will be surmounted with the old stone coping and a railing of three inch iron pipe. The completed bridge will cost $1050. After its completion, in two or three weeks, the same contractor will rebuild the Eighth Street bridge.
THE BEST Health Culture. No poor man can afford to bother with any of the experimental health fads. He is too busy making a living for himself and family, and when he is afflicted with a bad cough or cold, or develops catarrh as the direct result of a cold, he takes a few doses of Dr. Boggs's German Syrup. And if something more serious, say consumption, threatens him or any member of his family, German Syrup can again be relied on to effect a cure. Trial bottle, 25c. Big bottle, 75c. At Leiby's.

The final set of the tennis tournament was played off last week Friday morning. Miss M. Peet and Edw. Q.
Thayer defeated Miss M. Smith and Clinton Moore, 6-1, 6-2. Saturday, before a large crowd, the challenge matches were played off. Miss Peet and Mr. Thayer defeated Mr. and Mrs.
Albert King, 6-4 6-1. Miss Kent and Milton Wans also played Mr. and Mrs.
King, winning in one set, 6-3, owing to lack of time. In the final challenge match, Miss Peet and Mr. Thayer defeated Miss Kent and Mr. Wans,— score 6-2, 6-1.

Stomach
No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion.
Kodol cures indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure does not only cure indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy cures all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.
Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravenswood, W. Va., says:
"I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years.
Kodol cured me and we are now using it in milk
for baby."
