About our Schools.

At the opening of the schools it seems best to call the attention of parents to some matters which may seem unimportant to them, but which nevertheless have much to do with the efficiency of the schools and the progress of the pupils.

The "Course of Study" is such, in a modern graded school, that a child cannot hope for promotion if much absent.
Children cannot take long trips and visits, and maintain their positions in the class with which they start.

Absence, except for sickness or some imperative necessity, should not be allowed by parents; and each absence (even though for good cause) injures
the child. It requires no remarkable wisdom to see the truth of this. If a child habitually absent can do all the work of a given grade, one can readily see that the child who is regular in his attendance is not getting all that he ought from the course.

Another matter about which there is much carelessness is that of tardiness.
Pupils are required to bring excuses for every case of tardiness. In only about one per cent of cases did teachers fail to receive excuses. The conclusion is irresistible, that parents know of the tardiness, and would condone the offense by an excuse. The state authorities are making strenuous efforts to lower the tardy record throughout New Jersey.
Principals are urged to bring this to a minimum. They are unable to do it without the co-operation of parents.
May the teachers of the public schools
not hope for better parental assistance
in this matter?

Many of our business men travel daily to and from Philadelphia. They do not expect to take a train ten or fifteen minutes after schedule time. Every successful business man bears witness to the need of promptness in gaining success. Will parents exhaust every effort to train their children in this one element of business ethics?

If it were possible for parents to foresee how many failures would come to their children when once the habit of tardiness has fastened itself upon them,
I am persuaded they would put forth
stronger efforts to overcome it.

This is not written because any large number of pupils are tardy. Scores of them are never tardy, and a large proportion of the remainder seldom, and then for good reason; but there is a small number who are usually tardy,
and it is to these I have written.

We all wish for the best for our school and children, I am sure, and with the heartly co-operation of parents and the blessing of God, this we are bound to have.

A Royal Love Story

The quiet marriage of His Majesty King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, which has been the subject of so much speculation, is now a reality. The king, who is 56, and the queen, who is 35, are both of the royal house of Windsor. The king is a member of the House of Commons, and the queen is a member of the House of Lords. They were married in 1946, and have two children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne. The king is a member of the House of Commons, and the queen is a member of the House of Lords. An Electric Cellar Torch

An electric cellar torch has recently been invented in Great Britain, and it is said to be the best yet. It is a small, portable torch that can be used in any cellar or underground passage. It is powered by a small battery, and it has a long, flexible handle. It is said to be the best yet, and it is now being sold in Great Britain.

ANECDOTE AND INCIDENT

One day a man, carrying a fuzzy little dog on his arm, entered the office of Philip D. Armour, in Chicago, and tried to talk him into buying it. The price was $200. Mr. Armour looked at the dog, then at the man, and said: "No, the dog is too small. I can't keep it. I'll take it to you."

HUMOR OF THE WEEK

STORIES TOLD BY FUNNY MEN OF THE PRESS.

Old, Curious and Laughable Phases of Human Nature Graphically Portrayed by Famous Writers of Our Own Day—A Budget of Fun.

"I can't say I am much disappointed in you," said Mr. Bullion, sternly, eyeing his eldest son, who had come home from college in disgrace. "I never expected you to amount to anything."

"No," responded the young man, with a sort of feeble resentment. "I haven't had as good a start in life as you had. You were a poor boy, with every intention of making somebody of yourself, and I am nothing but a rich man's son."

Love's Impatience. "Why, darling," exclaimed the pretty bride of three weeks, as she rushed to embrace her husband. "How good it was of you to skip baseball noon and come home early. You're just too sweet."

Desired Taste. "Is your husband mellow, Belinda?" "No, indeed. He likes mice."

FOR YOUNG MEN.

Second-class things count for very little. The best is none too good for anybody. People demand the best and will have it or none. This is practically true in the world of commerce and in the comparatively true in the market of love. The young man who wants to sell his services for the best price the market affords, must perfect himself in the line of service he intends to do. Do it better than any one else can do it. This requires that you devote all your energy to it. Don't try to do a great many things, but perfect yourself in one or two of three things. Master one, and you can command the best places and the best prices, besides you have the satisfaction of being at the top of your business. All this does not imply that you are to develop your energies in one-sided way, but to do things that are akin, but not try to do several things that are radically different. Concentration means power, and power means life.

The Time to Marry. You may not tell a young man whom you love to marry, but you can tell him to tell him to marry. Too many young men marry too young. Too often they can scarcely support themselves, when they think the additional responsibility of supporting wife, in most cases this leads to domestic unhappiness, for talk as you may, money and home comforts are absolutely essential to domestic happiness. It is wrong for any young man to ask a woman to leave her father's house before he is prepared for her, or the tangible assurance that he is able to prepare one. No young man should think of marrying before he is in a position to comfortably care for the woman who trusts herself to his keeping. If you are a young man contemplating marriage, tell you have a home—no little thing, but a home with a roof over your own head, and where you will be king and your wife undisturbed queen. Don't bring your wife to live with your mother. Trouble is always sure to follow. And your home will never be so happy after your wife has had trouble with your mother. You will therefore, on earth and life will lose many of its charms. If you can provide a home for your wife, and a reasonable prospect of being able to support it, you may marry, but you are unwise if you leave the responsibility of her care on the shoulders of her mother. While many young men marry before they can afford to, there are those who fancy they should acquire a competency before asking a woman's hand in marriage. This is a mistake. For a woman will enjoy spending a fortune as she has not helped to earn so much as one which represents a man's own money.

On the Wrong Track. The Statesman—What do you think of the new problem?

The Rounder—Can't say. Haven't seen today's entries."

Words of Wisdom. "Our naval officers ought to adopt Rudyard Kipling's formula for good health."

"What's that?" "Keep your pores open and your mouth shut."—Detroit Free Press.

A Ray of Hope.

Travel, too, is getting cheap and comfortable. The first time I had a broad-gauge railroad up from Slingway to the top of the pass, where it meets with a stage coach that takes you to Lake Bennett, and there you get on a steamer, and out off at between. The route has numerous and will carry 150 passengers or more. You can buy a through ticket from Dawson to Seattle for $105. That's because it's such a short and more expensive for a steamer to go on the river to Lake Bennett than to go down. Our boat used 125 cords of wood coming up, and paid $4 a cord for the wood. But by the end of August the railroad will come down after the snow melts, and the river will be open until the first of September. No, the season isn't so early as is reported. And in winter the ice is so thick that I have been much colder on the river than I have been on the shore.

At Women's Club. "You need to say," said Mr. McKee, as he signed away from his desk in the women's club. "I don't think, though, that they'll build a railroad to Dawson very soon. It isn't necessary. You can come out during cold weather on a dog sled."

Love in the Wilderness. That life in heaven and marriage is the path that leads to a short and a painless death.

HAIR TURNED WHITE

TRYING ORDEAL A CHICAGO MAN PASSED THROUGH.

Feared that Can of Explosives He Had Left on a Shelf in a New York Hotel Check Room Would Explode Before His Return.

"What turned my hair white?" asked the well-dressed Chicago man with the youthful face and snow-white hair. And replying to the question, he added: "Nitroglycerine, sir; high explosives accomplished it. Two years ago I was the most successful shooter in America. I could make the oil bessen up where others had failed. The secret lay in the explosives I employed. I made them myself and had the business done. I had a big contract to make a pile. I failed to make the arrangements, and the very day the negotiations fell through I started suddenly for England on a secret mission."

"Is there such a thing as high explosives ripening?" asked the Englishman I was accompanying on the second day of my voyage.

"That question brought me to my feet and caused an exclamation of horror to escape my lips. Many explosives undergo a ripening process, which adds greatly to their destructive power at the same time decidedly increasing the danger of handling them. That was me by the way of the character; indeed, twenty-two days after it was compounded it was almost certain to explode of its own volition, so to speak."

"Now, on the upper shelf of the check room of my New York hotel I had left a large gelb containing a twenty-pound can of this compound, the ripening of which meant destruction and death."

"For an hour I was almost in a state of frenzy, freely denouncing myself as a multi-murderer. In vain I drew an awful picture of the devastation that would overwhelm a certain New York hotel in exactly seven days, and called upon the captain to put his ship about. He promised to transfer me to a west-bound steamer if the opportunity presented itself, but fortune failed me and I was obliged to cross the ocean."

"On the morning of the twenty-fifth day I sprang from a carriage and rushed into the hotel."

"I was wrong," said Christian, "you were simply pumping hot air into him. There are different kinds of Mexican salve, Jesse, and as the profession seems to have slipped by you I will endeavor to furnish you with a book agent call at a house and an old maid about 55 cents to the door. MEXICAN SALVE. Defined by Chris Haller for Lingens' Sufferers.

"What is this Mexican salve I hear so much about?" asked Jesse, Lingens' sufferer, the veteran officer.

"What is it?" repeated Chris Haller, the wit of the local police department.

"Why, the greatest thing in materia medica."

SERMON

Rev. Dr. Calmidge

Subject: Music in Worship—Distinction Between Music as an Art and Music as an Aid to Devotional Atmosphere of the Kingdom of Heaven.

(Copyright, Louis H. Jones, 1913.)

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Dr. Calmidge, in this sermon, discusses a most attractive department of religious worship—the service of song. His idea will be received with interest by all who love to lift their voices in praise in the Lord's house. The text is Hebrews vii, 17. "And they had two harps and four stringed men and singing women."

The best music has been rendered under the stars. The first that I know of anything was given by Paul and Silas when they sang praises to God and the prisoners heard them. The Scotch Covenanters, hounded by the dogs of persecution, sang the psalms of David with more zest than they have since been rendered. The psalms in the last of the music list in them, and I believe that if they could find all their trials two hundred and forty and sing them with the same fervor as they did in this day of gospel triumph and free from all persecution there ought to be a great multitude of men and women willing to sing the praises of God. All our churches should get possessed of these psalms. The organists of the world and should look to the organ of Westminster Abbey, and the organ of Lincoln Cathedral, and the organ of St. Paul's, and the organ of St. Peter's, and the organ of St. Mark's, and the organ of St. John's, and the organ of St. James, and the organ of St. George, and the organ of St. Andrew, and the organ of St. Patrick, and the organ of St. Nicholas, and the organ of Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a god-send to weak, sickly, and run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by Dr. G. Crowell, Druggist.

Bismark's Iron Nerve

Was the result of his splendid health. Indomitable will and tremendous energy are not found where Stomach, Liver, Kidney's and Bowels are out of order. If you want these qualities and the success they bring, use Dr. King's New Life Pills. They develop every power of brain and body. Only 25 cents, at Crowell's drug store.

AUGUST FLOWER.

"It is a surprising fact," says Prof Houton, "that in my travels in all parts of the world, for the last ten years, I have met more people having used Green's August Flower than any other remedy for dyspepsia, deranged liver and stomach, and for constipation. I find for tourists and salesmen, or for persons filling office positions, where headaches and general bad feelings from irregular habits exist, that Green's August Flower is a grand remedy. It does not injure the system by frequent use, and is excellent for sour stomachs and indigestion! Sample bottles free at Crowell's Ph., macy. Sold by dealers in all civilized countries.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement, that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at Crowell's Drug Store. Only 50 cents and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed.

A. B. DAVIS, Collector.
Hammondt, N. J., Aug. 10, 1899.

A N ORDINANCE to suppress tramps in the Town of Hammondt.
Introduced July 29, 1899.
Passed August 5, 1899.

Section 1. Be it ordained, That all persons who shall come from any place within this state, or from any city, county, township, borough or place within this state, and have no legal settlement within the Town of Hammondt, and live idly and without employment, and refuse to work for the usual and common wages given to other persons for like work in the Town of Hammondt, or shall be found loitering about from door to door, or placing themselves in the streets, highways or roads to beg or gather alms, and can give no reasonable account of the motives or their business in such places, shall be deemed to be tramps within the meaning of this ordinance.

Sec. 2. That if any person described in the foregoing section of this ordinance shall be found offending against this ordinance in the said Town of Hammondt, it shall be lawful for any constable or police officer of said town, and he is hereby enjoined and required, on notice given him by any of the inhabitants thereof, to apprehend and convey such person to a Justice of the Peace in said town, who shall examine such person, and may commit him or her, being thereof legally so violated before him by the oath or affirmation of one or more credible witnesses, other than the officer making the arrest, to labor upon the streets, roads, highways, or other public works of said town, for a term not less than thirty days nor exceeding six months; and shall forthwith commit him or her to the custody of the Overseers of Highways to carry out the provisions of the sentence imposed.

Sec. 3. That the Overseer of Highways shall be, and he is hereby empowered to incur any necessary expense for the Board and lodging of the offender or offenders under the terms of this ordinance, subject to the direction of the Council of the said Town of Hammondt.

Sec. 4. That the Overseer of Highways may, at his discretion, discharge such persons at any time within the term of such sentence, if he is satisfied that they shall not be some charge upon the pub within one year from the date of said discharge.

Sec. 5. That this ordinance shall take effect immediately after the date of the final passage hereof.
