Feeds, Fodders, and Feeding Farm Animals.

It goes without saying that for the intelligent feeding of our dumb friends, whether for the production of meat (fat or lean), butter, milk, eggs, wool, etc., or whether for light or heavy work, or mere animal growth, some knowledge of the constituents of the plants and grains used is necessary. A knowledge also of the component parts of the animals would give additional security in their care. For many years the experiment stations in this and other countries have been studying and experimenting along these lines, and have accumulated a vast amount of information regarding the scientific principles of stock feeding. They have published the results of repeated experiments in the analysis of plants and grains, and the results of feeding the same in many combinations. By consulting these tables, in books and bulletins, the farmer has no excuse but his own negligence if he goes it blind any longer in the matter of feeding.

Not much can be said in the scope of a newspaper article on this broad subject. I shall only give a few definitions and figures that will enable me to place in comparison cow peas with a few of our more common fodders.

Water is found in all feeding stuffs.
In hay, straw, etc., it is 8 to 20 per cent.
In green fodder, 60 to 85 pounds to the 100 are water. Dry matter is that part of a feeding stuff which is not water.
The feeding value depends upon the amount of dry matter contained in the stuff. When the dry matter of a feeding stuff is burned away, what is left is Ash, and includes all minerals which the plant takes from the soil; also chlorine, carbonic, sulphuric, and phosphoric acids. These are used in making bone. Protein is the name of a group of substances containing about 16 per cent of nitrogen, the same as found in fertilizers and in the air. Protein mat-terials are often called flesh formers, because they furnish the materials for lean flesh; but they are also materials for making blood, skin, muscles, tendons, nerves, hair, horns, hoofs, wool, and the curd and albumen of milk, and the albumen of eggs. As this list includes about all there is of or in any animal, and as no substances free from nitrogen can be worked over into protein, or fill its place, protein is a food becomes absolutely indispensable.
Plants differ largely in the amount of protein they contain, and in all products it is more abundant than in plants. Fiber (or woody matter) is the framework of plants. All coarse fod-ders, such as corn fodder, hay and straw, contain a large portion of fiber.
It is of value as food mainly, in proportion to its digestibility. It is of some service in distending the stomach and preventing the food from being concentrated.

Nitrogen-free extract includes the starch, sugar, and gums of plants and vegetables, so-called because they are free from nitrogen. They form an important part of all the feeding stuffs, especially the grains. Nitrogen-free extract and fiber are generally classed together under the technical name of carbo-hydrates, both being composed of carbon, oxygen and hydrogen. When the body of an animal is analyzed, these are not found, as is protein, except stored up as fat. They constitute the larger part, and the fuel part of food, and are burned up to produce animal heat and energy. The excess, not needed for that purpose, is voided in the manure. The fat of an animal is derived from the oil of plants, and is stored up as such or burned as fuel. If in winter the food of an animal is deficient in fats, starches, or other heat making material, the protein part of animal will be consumed as fuel, and the animal will become "spring poor." Corn contains over 4 per cent digestible fat; wheat straw only 0.5; rye straw 0.4; oat straw 0.7 per cent fat. Hence, when we confine our animals to a diet of straw, in winter, they will starve and freeze, as the straws are poor in protein as well as fat. Men who winter stock at a strawstack should have a large and well filled corn crib near at hand, and its contents should be dealt out with a liberal hand, to be used as fuel by the animal. But when we undertake to warm all-out doors with corn, it will be found poor economy. A barn of boards and paper will be cheaper in the long run than one built of corn.

The tables of analysis furnish us the following figures in reference to the more common kinds of feed and fodder.
They are the results of repeated analyses and show the amount of dry matter, ash, digestible protein, fiber, nitrogen-free extract, and fat in each 100 lbs. of the articles named.

	Lib. Dry Matter	Ash	Protein	Fiber	Nitrogen (free ex- tract)	Fat
Timothy.....	91	4.40	2.3	15.4	28.4	1.4
Orchard grass.....	90	6.00	4.3	18.4	22.3	1.4
Hungarian gr.....	79	6.00	4.5	18.8	33.0	1.3
Red clover.....	85	6.2	6.0	11.9	23.2	1.7
Crimson clover.....	91	8.6	10.5	12.5	25.0	1.3
Cow peas.....	59	7.5	10.8	8.4	30.0	1.5
Bran (wheat).....	89	5.8	12.0	2.3	36.7	2.9
Corn.....	89	1.5	7.9	0.9	63.3	4.3
Oats.....	89	3.0	9.3	4.6	52.0	4.2

Note under the head of Protein, that this most important element of food is less in timothy than in any other fodder of the list, and that protein increases right along down to bran, which, in protein, exceeds cow peas only 1.4 lbs. in the 100. The Connecticut station made observation through a number of years, and found that carbo-hydrates in mill feeds cost an average of one cent a pound, and protein two cents. This shows that cow peas contain the most costly as well as the most important element in the fodders, and also that we can dispense with the bran bill entirely by feeding cow peas. The feeding tables of Wolf state that a horse of 1000 pounds weight, heavily worked, needs 25.5 pounds of dry matter daily, -- 2.8 pounds protein, 13.4 of carbo-hydrates, and 0.8 lbs. fat. The 80 pounds of dry matter in cow peas, on that basis, if fed nothing else, would last him three and one-half days. The 10.8 pounds protein contained in the 80 pounds, divided by 3½, gives three pounds of protein a day, which is more than the Wolf standard requires. The fiber 8.4, and nitrogen-free extract 30, amount to 38.4 for the carbo-hydrates.
This divided by 3½ gives the carbo-hydrates a little short of the standard.
The same with the fat, 1.5; but it comes very near a complete balanced ration alone. A little less of peas and a little corn to supplement the slightly deficient fat and carbo hydrates, make it complete.

When we compare the protein in timothy hay with that in cow peas, we see it stands no show as a fodder. If the comparison be made with red clover, timothy still goes into the background.
For the markets this is the hay, because of its freedom from dust, but it needs an oat bin right at hand to supply its deficiency in protein and fat.

If the Editor is not tired out, I may write something about the manurial value of feeds and fodders, including my friend the cow pea.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 11, 1897.

Rev. W. E. Gill, of Norristown, a successful evangelist, has been engaged to conduct a series of meetings in Hammononton during the last two weeks of October. Mr. Gill visited here recently, and on Tuesday evening last met with about forty male members of the Churches, and outlined the work to be done. A series of "cottage prayer meetings" is to be held,—the first next Tuesday evening, in from thirty to fifty homes,—to be led by persons named by a committee,—to which neighbors will be invited. Mr. Gill is a wide-awake, energetic man, and will win confidence quickly.

On Wednesday morning, Mrs. Walter H. Ellis detected an odor of smoke about her home, and tracing it up stairs, discovered flames issuing from a closet. Her cry of alarm brought neighbors, with whose assistance the fire was soon extinguished. How it originated is uncertain, but from the fact that matches were found near by, and children had been playing about it, it is suspected that they unintentionally caused the mischief. Loss estimated not to exceed fifty dollars, including most of the children's clothing.

Mrs. Helen Morton, wife of Capt. Wm. J. Morton, died on Tuesday, Sept. 7th, 1897, at her home on Pine Road, Hammononton, aged 63 years. She had not been well for a year or more, and when attacked by typhoid fever had not strength to resist. The family came here from Rockland, Maine, in 1885. Mrs. M. possessed many admirable traits, was a kind neighbor, having many warm friends. Funeral services were held at the house on Thursday afternoon, conducted by Rev. J. C. Killian.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY.
DEPARTMENT OF STATE.
As required by an act entitled "An act to provide for submitting proposed amendments to the Constitution of this State to the people thereof," approved May 25, 1897, notice is hereby given that on TUESDAY, the twenty-eighth day of September, 1897,

A Special Election
will be held in the several election districts or precincts of this State, at such places as the clerks of the several townships, cities, and municipalities of the State shall provide, to enable the electors qualified to vote for members of the Legislature to vote for or against each of the following proposed amendments to the Constitution.

Proposed amendment to the constitution, relating to lotteries and gambling.
Amend paragraph 2 of Section VII of Art. IV, so as to read as follows:
2. No lottery shall be authorized by the legislature or otherwise in this state; and no ticket in any lottery shall be bought or sold within this state, nor shall any pool-selling, book-making, or gambling of any kind be authorized or allowed within this state, nor shall any gaming device, practice, or game of chance, now prohibited by law be legalized, or the remedy, penalty or punishment now provided therefor be in any way diminished.

Proposed amendment to the constitution, relating to appointments to office.
Add the following to sec. XII of art. V:
No person who shall have been nominated to the senate by the governor for any office of trust or profit under the government of this state, and shall not have been confirmed before the recess of the legislature, shall be eligible for appointment to such office during the continuance of such recess.

Proposed amendment to the constitution, providing for woman suffrage.
ARTICLE II.
Amend section 1 to read as follows:

1. Every male citizen of the United States of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a resident of this state one year and of the county of which he claims his vote five months next before the election, shall be entitled to vote for all officers that now are or hereafter may be elective by the people; and every female citizen of the United States of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a resident of this state one year, and of the county of which she claims her vote five months next before said meeting, shall be entitled to vote at any school meeting held in any school district of this state in which she may reside for members of boards of education and other school officers that now are or hereafter may be elective at such meetings; provided, that no person in the military, naval, or marine service of the United States shall be considered a resident of this state by being stationed in any garrison, barracks, or military or naval place or station within this state; and no pauper, idiot or insane person or person convicted of a crime which now excludes him or her from being a witness, unless pardoned or restored by law to the right of suffrage, shall enjoy the right of an elector; and provided further, that in time of war no elector in the actual military service of the state, or of the United States, in the army or navy thereof, shall be deprived of his vote by reason of his absence from such election district; and the legislature shall have power to provide the manner in which and the time and place at which such absent elector may vote, and for the return and canvass of their vote in the election district in which they respectively reside.

Town Council.

Special meeting on Saturday evening, Sept. 4th. Called to order at 8:10. All members present.

Moved by Mr. Anderson, that the proposed ordinance be advanced to second reading. Carried. Read by Clerk.

Moved by Mr. Anderson, that ordinance pass third and final reading.

Discussed. Mr. Jacobs said, in substance, it is not fair to no-license voters to grant license far beyond next town meeting. License might be granted in February next; in March voters decide on no-license, but the licensees hold good for eleven months thereafter. He agreed that if the license ordinance be left without change, he would vote in favor of license for all respectable applicants, and give the matter a fair trial until next May; if this change is made he will vote against every application, on principle.

Mr. Anderson stated that proposed change was necessary by State law, which provides for license for "one year, and no longer." (He didn't say "and no less," as the license ordinance provides.)

Roll called. Passed, -vote 4 to 2, as follows:

Yeas—Anderson
Andrews
Ballard
Barton
Nays—Cunningham

The latest use to which old newspapers may be put, is to soak them in sour milk until reduced to pulp and feed the mixture to the hens. This is the unpatented invention of a Michigan poultry fancier, who says it greatly increases their egg-laying abilities. For fear it may not so well agree with the local breed, we suggest trying it at first on your neighbor's fowls. P.S.—It is found to be useless unless the subscription to the paper has been paid for in advance.

Next Saturday afternoon our baseball team journey to Haddonfield to play the well-known crack team of that place. Quite a large number of Hammonton enthusiasts have signified their intention of traveling there with the boys to see the game which is sure to be an interesting one.

WON IN THE NINTH.

It was a well played game last Saturday,—the teams being pretty evenly matched. Treat pitched in good form, and was well backed up. Boyle made the only error, losing the third strike, which started the Franklin's run-getting in the sixth.

SPLIT EVEN.—HAMMONTON SHOULD HAVE HAD THEM BOTH.

A large attendance was present at both games with the Egg Harbors, on Labor Day. The "clan diggers" had brought a packed team, and were bound to win. They did in the morning. But with three of our boys on bases and two out, Conley came to bat. With three balls and two strikes, the next—which was plainly a ball—the umpire called third strike. Four balls would have forced in a run at least. In the seventh, with two Egg Harbors out, Farrar should have squeezed the third, but muffed, and two came in. The score:

A Valuable Prescription.
Editor Morrison, of Worthington, Ind. "Sun," writes: "You have a valuable prescription in Electric Bitters, and I can cheerfully recommend it for constipation and sick headache, and as a general system tonic it has no equal." Mrs. Annie Stehle, 2025 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago, was all run down, could not eat nor digest food, had a backache which never left her and felt tired and weary, but six bottles of Electric Bitters restored her health and renewed her strength. Prices, 50 cts and $1. Get a bottle, at Croft's drug store.
