Chief Willis L. Moore, of the United States Weather Bureau, has issued an order prohibiting employees of the service from using cigarettes during hours of duty, and warning them that those who smoke cigarettes at all will be mentioned in the confidential reports made to him by the heads of the several offices and departments.

Replying to criticism of his action in this matter, Chief Moore said: "Some of our men who were regarded as most reliable and competent became careless and lax. I sent inspectors to investigate, and in almost every case it was found that this state of affairs was directly attributable to excessive cigarette smoking. Men who use them appear to become hardened to the fact that neglect of duty means reproof, suspension, or dismissal. In a word, these investigations convinced me that cigarette smokers are not to be trusted with important work."—Union Signal.

[A New York City business man writes as follows to a relative in Hammonton.]

Fall business prospects look good, but if Bryan is elected, thousands, with myself, will shut up shop, and millions will be "in the soup." We have hosts of fools, knaves, or traitors to all our best interests, but I do hope there won't be enough of them to elect the man who openly says he will haul down our flag and put us on a silver base. When such men as Olney, and others high in public esteem, come out and say they will work and vote for Bryan, and all the ruin, desolation, misery, it will bring, and the despicable and cowardly position we will be placed in before the whole world, it is time for every voter to constitute himself a committee of one and go to work to secure votes for sound money, prosperity, patriotism, our flag, McKinley and Roosevelt.

We are badly handicapped when 112 electoral votes are secured in advance. Not a thought need to be given them,—the Dems have them, and in most of the Southern States a condition where one vote for a Democratic Congressman counts as much as three and four, even more in some sections. It is wrong, and ought to be righted, for the whole country is being injured by it; and unless it is righted, and all sections equalized, there is going to be trouble, and that in the near future.

Well, I am for our flag. May it always be in the right; but right or wrong, I am for our flag. Once up, may she always remain, and cursed be the man who dares to lower it.

A Night of Terror.

"A wild anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave Gen. Barham, of Machias, Maine, when the doctors said she would die from pneumonia before morning," writes Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night, but she begged for Dr. King's New Discovery, which had more than "once saved" her life, and cured her of consumption. After taking she slept all night. Further use entirely cured her. This marvellous medicine is guaranteed to cure all throat, chest, and lung diseases. Only 50 cts. and $1. Trial bottles free, Crowell's Pharmacy.

COUPLING LAW A BOON

RAILROAD OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES FAVOR MEASURE

Cost of the Improvement to Companies Is $500,000,000—Heavy Penalty Provided for a Failure to Comply with the Act.

The last brakeman has been killed and the last one injured in coupling freight cars together in Chicago, says the Chronicle. Recently there was a fatality effect the United States law requiring every railway car employed in interstate traffic to be equipped with automatic couplers. From the myriads of freight yards of the country, more reports of brakemen being crushed and killed in their efforts to couple by stepping in between the ends of two cars and dropping in the coupling pins with their hands. It now means a fine of $100 for any railroad to use cars in interstate commerce which require hand-coupling—$100 for each such offense.

As the law in national in its scope it applies to all rolling stock operated between the different States. It would be possible for a road to operate its cars in interstate commerce without the use of a State having no automatic car-coupler law. It is said that it is now a question of but a short time when every State in the Union will have such a law and then the original craft of coupling cars will disappear forever. However, it is said that despite the fact that it would be possible to operate cars not equipped with the new device in some States the railroads will nevertheless ignore all of their cars with appliances at once, as it would be more trouble than it would be worth to endeavor to keep within the limits of a single State. The roads entering Chicago own in the neighborhood of 600,000 freight cars and it is estimated that the roads are already equipped with the new coupling contrivances as required by law. These roads own almost 8,000 passenger cars, but of course not nearly all of the passenger coaches in the country have for years been fitted with appliances for coupling which do not endanger life or limb. From the platforms of the cars the men coupling them are enabled to accomplish the operation by levers without exposing themselves to accident.

Many of the roads have not a car which is not supplied with automatic coupling attachments. Others have from a hundred up to a couple of thousand cars not yet fitted with the safety devices. In recently published statistics the Baltimore and Ohio road was able to have 2,000 which had not yet been supplied. This was a greater number of cars without the modern appliance than was charged by any other road entering Chicago. The Baltimore and Ohio officials indignantly deny the allegation and assert that all their freight cars now have the automatic couplers. Although some authorities make the modest estimate of 80 per cent of cars as the number legally equipped, there are others who say that scarcely more than one car in 100 can be found which is not supplied with the up-to-date links.

The law was enacted by Congress in March, 1893, and was to have gone into effect on Jan. 1, 1895. Reasons given by the railroads that equipment of all the cars in this United States within the time allotted was impossible resulted in an extension of time to Jan. 1, 1900. Subsequently the time was extended to Aug. 1. The extension of time was granted on condition that the roads immediately begin to equip their cars. In June, 1903, four months after the enactment of the law, there were 1,977,077 freight cars reported as being equipped with automatic couplers, or which 229,290, or 11.6 per cent, were equipped. In December, 1907, the percentage of cars equipped was 66.33. Dec. 1, 1908, the percentage had increased to 77. The estimated cost of equipping their cars with the automatic car couplers and air brakes, which are also required by the law, is $500,000,000. The cost of such cars on an average $10,000 for the car body and $200 for the coupler, all if the roads are of the opinion that this cost expense will be more than compensated for by the great decrease in the number of deaths and injuries which resulted from the use of the old coupling devices. In 1898 the number of accidents resulting from coupling cars by the old-fashioned coupling pin system was 10,000. In every 100,000 cars in motion employed and one killed in every 480. The purpose of the law was, of course, to prevent these accidents and to lessen the number of collisions by affording, through the air brakes, better control of the train.

CHINESE MINISTER'S WIFE

Madame Wu, Wife of the Chinese Minister, is a Washington High Life.

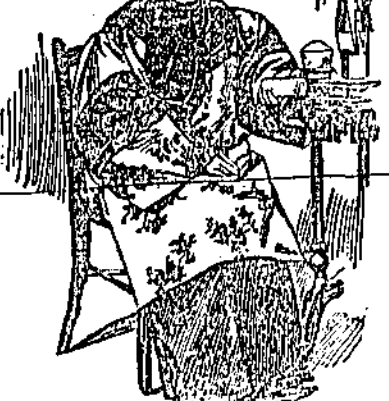

The present minister from China is the most popular representative of the Flowery Kingdom in Washington. He is a man of high social position, and his name is well known to the public. He is a man of high social position, and his name is well known to the public. He is a man of high social position, and his name is well known to the public.

On state occasions she wears a brilliant petticoat of red or blue, just short enough to show her little feet, heavily encased in gold. Over this is worn a tunic of black and purple, also richly wrought with bullion. On her breast is a large gold eagle, which signifies that her rank is equal to that of her husband, and she may at all functions enter and leave the room at his side instead of behind him, as would be required if she were of lesser rank.

Her headpiece is a narrow band of black satin, ornamented with a single jewel—a large pearl usually worth quite a king's ransom, worn directly in front. This band is decorated with flowers which fall just behind the ears and add much to its picturesque quality. Her jewels are beautiful.

The beads around Madame Wu's neck are also a sign of official distinction, worn by men as well as women. Curiously enough, they vary with the season, those of summer being distinctly summer beads, while coral, jade and other stones are reserved for winter decoration.

Except for state occasions, Madame Wu's usual costume is a slipper gown of broad silk and silk. Her gown is all made after this general pattern, and are simple in texture and trimmings. Silk, cotton and grass cloth are the fabrics most used for summer, with the addition of broad, fur and skins in winter. Woolen is very little used, and so far as underwear is concerned, one may remark that with both men and women there is a great paucity of linen. Madame Wu has the little feet which character-

The shape of the Chinese garments is designed to cover the person, not to fit it tightly, and beauty is revealed in the texture and color, rather than in the form. There is no such thing as low neck and short sleeves in China, and trousers a Chinese woman wears are indistinguishable in modest attire.

"When American, French and English your civilized women visit our country," Madame Wu says, "I cannot say which feature of their dress shocks Chinese women most. Whether the décolleté cut of the evening bodice, or the fact that they wear no trousers."

At 22 she married William Wilson, a ship carpenter. In a search for work and health they went to Idaho, where Wilson worked as a miner. There he caught the Klondike fever, and together they saved enough money to take them to Alaska. During the winter in Circle City Wilson died, leaving his widow almost penniless in the frozen wilderness. She joined the rush to Dawson City, however, and opened a boarding house for a log cabin.

The first year she made $8,000. To a miner whom she had nursed during a fatal illness left her a claim on Hunker Creek. She started to develop it. In six months she had made $10,000.

"I had to hire all the work done, and my men were wasteful, but the claim paid a net profit of over $10,000 in one year. We struck bedrock at a depth of 22 feet, and there we dug tunnels of drift to the richest gold-bearing gravel. Lots of that gravel ran $200 a pan, and some went even to $4 a pan."

"Well," returned the employer, "you can stay as long as you please." That's fair, isn't it?

"Certainly."

"I'd like to know of course," said the new man, with some concern, "whether my job is to be permanent or not."

SERMONS OF THE DAY.

Preached by Rev. Dr. Talmage.

Subject—Lessons to Be Learned from the Three Gospels—On Right Unbelief and Humors, on Left Penitence and Grief, on the Centred Reconciliation.

WASHINGTON, D. C. The famous paintings in the picture galleries of the city seem to have suggested the topic of this discourse, which Dr. Talmage reads from the quaint Arabian tale, and the theme which inspired the painter's genius in the great preacher's thoughts is the redemption of the human race, which is the subject of his discourse.

Just outside of Jerusalem is a well of ground, toward which a crowd are ascending in the day of execution. What a scene! To hear what the malefactors will say to see how they will act. The three persons to be executed are a man, a woman and a child.

Some of the spectators are vile of life and blood of cheek. Some look on with silent horror. Some break out into uncontrollable weeping. Some clap their hands in delight. The offenders are to be punished at last. The soldiers with their spears and swords are ready to press on so hard. There is fear that the proceedings may be interrupted. Let the scene, now stationed at Jerusalem, be brought to the city of the living.

During the second Borneo war the British troops endeavored to carry off to Calcutta as a trophy a big bull, weighing more than forty tons. To transport such a heavy burden was a troublesome task, but the engineers managed to get it as far as the river bank.

In trying to put it on a shipboard, however, the tackle slipped, and the bull rolled over and fell into the water. The engineers tried in vain to raise it, and at last went on their way with it.

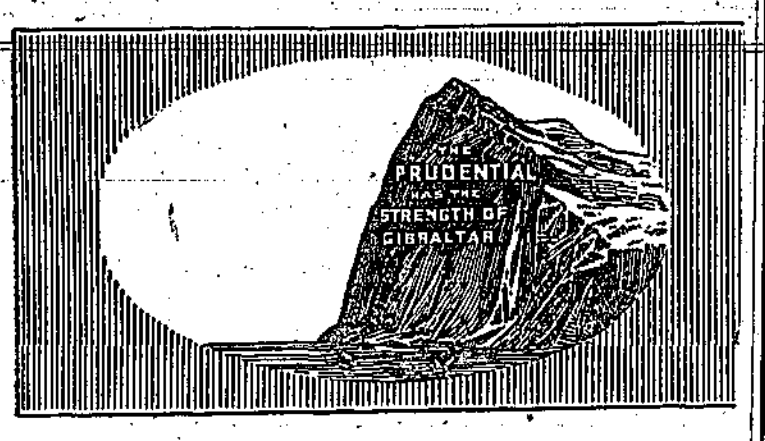

By the Borneo sea to work, and by the use of a little common sense accomplished the task that had proved too much for the trained engineers. They simply escaped the upper part of the bull in a wooden structure, so as to convert its external form into that of a cylinder. Then by means of ropes it was hauled quite possible to roll it up the river-bank to dry land.

History in Annotated Coria.

"If you desire great things," you must not lay hold of them with small effort," said the Stoic Epictetus. That was before the days of Life Insurance, by which a thing of great importance—the protection of your wife and children—can be obtained by the expenditure of very little effort.

JOHN C. ANDERSON,
Chairman last County Convention, September 6th, 1900.

All the world sympathizes with the people of Texas. Last Saturday and Sunday, a furious tornado drove the waters of the Gulf up and over the Island upon which Galveston is situated, and caused great havoc. Scarcely a building in that great city escaped damage, and most of the largest were destroyed, with their occupants. The latest estimate gives the number of human lives lost as 7000, with property damages of many millions. Help is asked for, and gifts of money and other necessaries are being sent from all parts of the United States. Other cities and towns in that section suffered severely.

The Hon. James M. Beck, of Philadelphia, one of the leading lawyers of that city, announces that "I am no longer a Democrat. I don't believe in free silver, nor do I believe in hauling down our flag in the Philippines."

If the 10 to 1 proposition is not an issue, why was it placed in the St.
Louis platform? If that plank is not honest, and doesn't mean what it says, what must the public think of the remainder of the structure?

A change of time on the West Hammonton only by one minute, on the morning up mail, leaving at 7:00 instead

The annual convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Atlantic County will be held in the Methodist Church at May's Landing, Tuesday, Sept. 25th, at 10:30 A. M.

The Atlantic City Railroad changed time this week. The 6:35 morning express is taken off, and the through express stops at 10:45. Look out for further changes next week.

James Smith now carries the mail between Post Office and station.
The railroad officials found that no one man could attend properly to the safety gates and make twelve round trips daily to the Post Office, and consequently employed the extra man.

We have received a monthly paper published at the Arnot Mission, India, which contains an announcement of the death of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Farrar, July 21st. The paper is printed mostly in the native languages, and is quite a curiosity.

The entertainment held at Da-Costa on Thursday evening proved very successful. Hammonton was well represented, DaCosta turned out in mass, and everything passed off very satisfactorily. About twenty-five dollars were collected, which will go toward the purchase of an organ. The people at Da-Costa deserve great praise for their united effort in getting up such a successful and pleasing entertainment.

In some unaccountable way, we made an error last week in reporting that part of the school law (Sec. 154) which requires parents or guardians to send their children to school every day. We had it "child between the ages of twelve and fourteen." The law says, "between seven and twelve years."

One of the prettiest lower gardens in town is on the premises of John B. Mick, on Orchard Street. Among them are dozens of varieties, including several colors of asters. One stalk of his pampas grass measures eleven and a half feet in length. Mr. Mick and daughter, Miss Jessie, may well be proud of their success as amateur florists.

Next Saturday our Base-Ball Club will play the third game of the County championship series with the Pleasantville Club. This game will be in the Inlet Park, Atlantic City.
Arrangements will probably be made to stop the one o'clock express for those who wish to go down, and a train will let passengers off on their return.

There was another fire alarm yesterday morning, and the fire engine was a few rods on its way when ordered back. It appears that John T. French, Jr., while preparing machinery for the removal of ground, had water into some sort of vessel, to clean it, when the contents burst into flame. A barrel of water, near by, was used to smother the fire. We don't understand it, but give about the statement of Mr. French, Sr., who was himself mystified. We hear that the young man's hand and arm were badly burned.

The fourteenth annual convention of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union will be held in Jersey City, Oct. 11 and 12. The programme is one of unusual excellence. Professor Jacobs, of Brooklyn, will have charge of the music, while Prof. and Mrs. J. J.
Lowe, of Philadelphia, will sing at each service. Among the many prominent speakers are Pres't Clark, of Boston, Rev. Chas. M. Sheldon, author of "In His Steps," Rev. Dr. Chapman, Babcock, Barrett and Rhoades and Robert E. Spear, of New York, Rev. Doctors Wayland Hoyt and Floyd W. Tompkins, of Philadelphia, and Dr. James Rosendale, of Jerusalem. Programs with full information can be secured of Rev.
T. E. Davis, Bound Brook, N. J.

The fire-bell sounded its alarm about three o'clock last Saturday afternoon. The firemen responded, but had no work to do. The fire destroyed a crate-shed near the fruit-shipping siding at Pleasant Street, with several hundred crates that were stored therein. The shed was built of slate, very open, with roof; the crates were piled inside, and the door locked. Fire must have come from the outside. Rumor states that several small boys were leaning to smoke in the shed's shadow, and set fire to dead leaves and rubbish that had accumulated. The fire was intensely hot, and sent up a vast column of dark smoke, giving rise to a rumor that the burninghouse mill was burning. The crates were covered by several shippers, and could not be saved as the building was of light material and burned very rapidly.

A Shocking Calamity
Lately befell a railroad laborer, writes Dr. A. Kellett, of Whitford, Arkansas.
"His foot was badly crushed, but Blacklin's Arnica Salve quickly cured him." It's simply wonderful for burns, boils, piles, and all skin eruptions. It's the world's champion healer. One guaranteed. 25 c. Sold by Crowell.
