

Editorial Notice.

The following is a notice to the readers:

"All observations and comments are invited, and all suggestions and remarks will be considered, and all arrangements will be made according to law."

DANIEL B. BYRNE,
Editor and Publisher.

HAMMONTON!

Saturday Republican.

VOL. 5. NO. 7.

HAMMONTON, N. J., SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1867.

2.00 PER YEAR

ELWOODI

NEW JERSEY LANDS

FOR SALE.

IN TRACTS TO SUIT PURCHASERS.

21,000 Acres

Of Superior Soil

on Camden Atlantic Rail Road,

IN ONE BODY.

IN THE BEST LOCATION

IN SOUTH JERSEY.

LANDS ABOVE PARCELS OF EIGHT

ACRES EACH.

R. WRIGHT.

Keween, Attn. Attn. Co., N. J.

Also many thousand acres of Cranberry lands. Circumstances other information cheerfully forwarded.

Land For Sale.

36 ACRES of improved land near the R. R. at Elwood, for sale in lots to suit purchasers.

THOS. IRVING.

Cards.

All Business in Real Estates belonging to Mr. Stephen O'Neil in the Weymouth tract, will be executed by

E. WRIGHT.

Elwood, N. J.

Hammonton Land Office.

In consequence of the great inquiry for improved Hammonton lands, and the correspondence with me from all parts of the country, I have opened a Real Estate Register. Persons wishing to sell their places can find purchasers by sending description of property at this office its facilities, and experience in this business will guarantee satisfaction.

R. J. BYRNES,

Hammonton.

JOS. H. P. ABBOTT.

Attorney at Law; Minister &

Examiner in Chancery.

Hammonton, N. J.

Collecting and Business in Justice Court promptly attended to.

To Whom It May Concern.

I have resumed the practice of the Law, and will attend the Courts of Atlantic and Gloucester Counties.

JAMES M. SCOVILLE.

Camden, Nov. 30, 1864.

JOHN B. HOFFMAN,

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW,

SOLICITOR, MASTER AND EXAMINER

IN CHANCERY.

Cap. May, C. H., New Jersey.

Always attends the Atlantic County Courts.

17-17.

W. WHITING, M. D.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

New located at John Brumley, about two miles below Absecon, where he is prepared to attend to all calls.

Charges $1.00 a visit for all visits within a mile. All over a mile extra. All office prescriptions must be paid for delivery.

Defenders and Counselors

TREATED WITH THE UTMOST SUCCESS BY DR. J. LEAGAUX, Dentist and Surgeon, Philadelphia.

Qualifications from the most reliable sources.

City and Country can be used at his office.

Medical faculty are invited to accompany their patients as he has no secret in his practice.

ARTIFICIAL EYES inserted without pain.

No charge made for examination.

John Brumley, M. D.

Physician and Surgeon.

There are great complaints made in Del-ware and New Jersey, and in certain parts of Maryland, especially in those districts where the people are at one time largely and profitably engaged, that the peach trees are dying out. The prevailing disease is the yellow, and for this no adequate remedy appears to be known. Without venturing to speak authoritatively on the subject, we are inclined to believe that the many failures of peach orchards with us are driven from careless cultivation rather than from any other cause. We know there are some descriptions of soil on which the peach cannot be grown to advantage.

But, on the soils that are usually well adapted to their growth—the sandy and light loamy, and gravelly soils—they ought to flourish now quite as well as they did years ago. Two causes have co-operated in injuring the appearance of our peach orchards—the first being the common culture of planting only grafted trees, and the other the rapid impoverishment of the soil where peach orchards have been established.

The graft, in our opinion, partakes largely of the parent stock, and if that is disseased the graft will also be probably likewise. There are a few orchards known to us which are entirely of seedling fruit, and which are subject to fewer diseases. But no peach orchard will be vigorous for many years unless it is well attended to. The trees must be regularly examined twice a year for worms cut out from the bark, or they will girdle and the tree will die.

The orchards must be ploughed regularly every spring, and no clover or green manure should be applied to the ground.

If the seeds of choice fruits have been planted, the chances are that trees bearing choice fruit will be the result. It has been so with us in a majority of instances, and we see no reason why it should not be so with others. Seedling trees are irreversibly injured by grafted trees, and are subject to fewer diseases. But no

peach orchard will be vigorous for many years unless it is well attended to. The

trees must be regularly examined twice a year for worms cut out from the bark, or

they will girdle and the tree will die.

The orchards must be ploughed regularly

every spring, and no clover or green manure

should be applied to the ground.

If the seeds of choice fruits have been planted, the chances are that trees bearing

choice fruit will be the result. It has been so with us in a majority of instances, and we see no reason why it should not be so with others. Seedling trees are

irreversibly injured by grafted trees, and are subject to fewer diseases. But no

peach orchard will be vigorous for many years unless it is well attended to. The

trees must be regularly examined twice a year for worms cut out from the bark, or

they will girdle and the tree will die.

The orchards must be ploughed regularly

every spring, and no clover or green manure

should be applied to the ground.

If the seeds of choice fruits have been planted, the chances are that trees bearing

choice fruit will be the result. It has been so with us in a majority of instances, and we see no reason why it should not be so with others. Seedling trees are

irreversibly injured by grafted trees, and are subject to fewer diseases. But no

peach orchard will be vigorous for many years unless it is well attended to. The

trees must be regularly examined twice a year for worms cut out from the bark, or

they will girdle and the tree will die.

The orchards must be ploughed regularly

every spring, and no clover or green manure

should be applied to the ground.

If the seeds of choice fruits have been planted, the chances are that trees bearing

choice fruit will be the result. It has been so with us in a majority of instances, and we see no reason why it should not be so with others. Seedling trees are

irreversibly injured by grafted trees, and are subject to fewer diseases. But no

peach orchard will be vigorous for many years unless it is well attended to. The

trees must be regularly examined twice a year for worms cut out from the bark, or

they will girdle and the tree will die.

The orchards must be ploughed regularly

every spring, and no clover or green manure

should be applied to the ground.

If the seeds of choice fruits have been planted, the chances are that trees bearing

choice fruit will be the result. It has been so with us in a majority of instances, and we see no reason why it should not be so with others. Seedling trees are

irreversibly injured by grafted trees, and are subject to fewer diseases. But no

peach orchard will be vigorous for many

The Republican.

Hammonton, Atlantic Co., N. J.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1867.

The digestion of the Antislavery National anniversary came off on Tuesday last.

It had admirable features.

The occasion was selected by the ex-soldier Johnson tribe as an opportunity to celebrate their rotten and abominable cause.

If the hordes of the Confederacy had been permitted, the bodies of Antislavery's patriotic dead must have turned that day, despite their narrow and painful confounds, turned in disgust at the presence of Andrew Johnson.

But it is an occasion to add, however, that the ex-soldiers were invited to come home with the rebel dead; according to the latter with the equal honor and equal punishment.

Such is Andrew Johnson, the embodiment of the political scum of all creation.

He was a programme of carelessness and bad taste, in which only active rebel sympathizers were assigned prominent places.

Ex-Governor

Bradford of Maryland, and Johnson himself, died yesterday.

Both Governor New Jersey, and Missouri were present, but were not on General Grant.

Governor Seward presided.

Antislavery's delegates from every state in the Union had a place of honor.

There was much of both the knave and the fool.

Before he rose to speak, he inquired of some on the platform whether any rebel dead were buried in the cemetery.

And was answered,

"No, and there will be."

But in the ranks of those who fell in the fierce struggle of battle, and who sleep silent in their graves, "and uttered a prayer that the living rebels and traitors would "inspire their example as they sleep in the tomb, and live together in the judgment," the ex-soldiers of the South, illustrated a certain declaration of Holy Writ that "the prayers of the wicked are an abomination."

It is a satisfaction to know that Johnson had another opportunity to realize the exultation of his soul when he said that he could not be beaten in the battle of the platform, and he spoke as follows:

"Gov. Gray—Friends and Fellow-citizens: Will you do me an favor?"

"[Voiced.—Curdly.] Please let me

be glad to appear in front of the stand and utter a few words to you. I thank you for your kind and considerate treatment, and will do all in my power to let it be carried out. But this era still for

Gray, and the managers were obliged to appeal to you to quiet the tumult. But we spoke to the foot of the platform, and

spoke as follows:

"Gov. Gray—Friends and Fellow-

citizens: Will you do me an favor?"

"[Voiced.—Curdly.] Please let me

be glad to appear in front of the stand and

utter a few words to you. I thank you for your kind and considerate treatment, and

will do all in my power to let it be carried out. But this era still for

Gray, and the managers were obliged to

appeal to you to quiet the tumult. But

we spoke to the foot of the platform, and

spoke as follows:

"Gov. Gray—Friends and Fellow-

citizens: Will you do me an favor?"

"[Voiced.—Curdly.] Please let me

be glad to appear in front of the stand and

utter a few words to you. I thank you for your kind and considerate treatment, and

will do all in my power to let it be carried out. But this era still for

Gray, and the managers were obliged to

appeal to you to quiet the tumult. But

we spoke to the foot of the platform, and

spoke as follows:

"Gov. Gray—Friends and Fellow-

citizens: Will you do me an favor?"

"[Voiced.—Curdly.] Please let me

be glad to appear in front of the stand and

utter a few words to you. I thank you for your kind and considerate treatment, and

will do all in my power to let it be carried out. But this era still for

Gray, and the managers were obliged to

appeal to you to quiet the tumult. But

we spoke to the foot of the platform, and

spoke as follows:

"Gov. Gray—Friends and Fellow-

citizens: Will you do me an favor?"

"[Voiced.—Curdly.] Please let me

be glad to appear in front of the stand and

utter a few words to you. I thank you for your kind and considerate treatment, and

will do all in my power to let it be carried out. But this era still for

Gray, and the managers were obliged to

appeal to you to quiet the tumult. But

we spoke to the foot of the platform, and

spoke as follows:

"Gov. Gray—Friends and Fellow-

citizens: Will you do me an favor?"

"[Voiced.—Curdly.] Please let me

be glad to appear in front of the stand and

utter a few words to you. I thank you for your kind and considerate treatment, and

will do all in my power to let it be carried out. But this era still for

Gray, and the managers were obliged to

appeal to you to quiet the tumult. But

we spoke to the foot of the platform, and

spoke as follows:

"Gov. Gray—Friends and Fellow-

citizens: Will you do me an favor?"

"[Voiced.—Curdly.] Please let me

be glad to appear in front of the stand and

utter a few words to you. I thank you for your kind and considerate treatment, and

will do all in my power to let it be carried out. But this era still for

Gray, and the managers were obliged to

appeal to you to quiet the tumult. But

we spoke to the foot of the platform, and

spoke as follows:

"Gov. Gray—Friends and Fellow-

citizens: Will you do me an favor?"

"[Voiced.—Curdly.] Please let me

be glad to appear in front of the stand and

utter a few words to you. I thank you for your kind and considerate treatment, and

will do all in my power to let it be carried out. But this era still for

Gray, and the managers were obliged to

appeal to you to quiet the tumult. But

we spoke to the foot of the platform, and

spoke as follows:

"Gov. Gray—Friends and Fellow-

citizens: Will you do me an favor?"

"[Voiced.—Curdly.] Please let me

be glad to appear in front of the stand and

utter a few words to you. I thank you for your kind and considerate treatment, and

will do all in my power to let it be carried out. But this era still for

Gray, and the managers were obliged to

appeal to you to quiet the tumult. But

we spoke to the foot of the platform, and

spoke as follows:

"Gov. Gray—Friends and Fellow-

citizens: Will you do me an favor?"

"[Voiced.—Curdly.] Please let me

be glad to appear in front of the stand and

utter a few words to you. I thank you for your kind and considerate treatment, and

will do all in my power to let it be carried out. But this era still for

Gray, and the managers were obliged to

appeal to you to quiet the tumult. But

we spoke to the foot of the platform, and

spoke as follows:

"Gov. Gray—Friends and Fellow-

citizens: Will you do me an favor?"

"[Voiced.—Curdly.] Please let me

be glad to appear in front of the stand and

utter a few words to you. I thank you for your kind and considerate treatment, and

will do all in my power to let it be carried out. But this era still for

Gray, and the managers were obliged to

appeal to you to quiet the tumult. But

we spoke to the foot of the platform, and

spoke as follows:

"Gov. Gray—Friends and Fellow-

citizens: Will you do me an favor?"

"[Voiced.—Curdly.] Please let me

be glad to appear in front of the stand and

utter a few words to you. I thank you for your kind and considerate treatment, and

will do all in my power to let it be carried out. But this era still for

Gray, and the managers were obliged to

appeal to you to quiet the tumult. But

we spoke to the foot of the platform, and

spoke as follows:

"Gov. Gray—Friends and Fellow-

citizens: Will you do me an favor?"

"[Voiced.—Curdly.] Please let me

be glad to appear in front of the stand and

utter a few words to you. I thank you for

