Short Tariff Sermons.

NO. XXXVII.

The Democratic platform declares a Protective Tariff unconstitutional, and pledges the party to inaugurate a Tariff for revenue only.

A Tariff for revenue only is what England has. Let us examine it and see how it compares with our own McKinley law, and if possible discover wherein it is preferable to our present arrangement. Then we can intelligently decide whether we want to change.

England levies a duty on cocoa, that delicious, wholesome breakfast beverage, of 2 cents a pound. Being a revenue duty, it is, of course, added to the price. We get cocoa free.

The Englishman's coffee is Tariff taxed over 3 cents a pound; if roasted or ground, 4 cents a pound. We get ours free.

Tea pays 8 cents a pound into the Imperial Treasury. It comes to the American tea table free.

Here are three articles of universal consumption. A tax on them is paid by the poor. An unskilled laborer who can earn no more than $1.50, and is obliged to support his family out of that, drinks as much tea or coffee, perhaps, as any one of the Vanderbilts. He, therefore, pays as much or more of the revenue Tariff tax.

Under our Protective system the wealthy pay the import duties.

As a matter of fact, the laborer, the mechanic and the farmer can get along, and do get along for the most part, without a single imported article which pays duty. Those they must have are admitted free. They buy home-made boots and shoes, home-made clothing, home-made utensils. Products of the labor of their own fellow-citizens are good enough for them, and by buying them they escape paying a cent of Tariff tax.

But the wealthy, the fashionable, the Anglomaniacs, who turn up their noses at American products and dote on French silks, German underwear and English woisteds—these are the ones, and not the poor, who mainly pay the expenses of Government.

The question between a Tariff for revenue only and a Tariff for Protection is, therefore, a question as to whether the rich or the poor should pay the Tariff. Which shall it be, American voters?—American Economist.

Republican Platform.

We believe in the American doctrine of protection.

We believe that articles, except luxuries, which cannot be produced in the United States should be admitted free of duty.

We demand that on all imports competing with the products of American labor duties should be levied equal to the difference between wages at home and abroad.

We ask the people to pronounce a verdict upon the cowardly course of the Democratic party in attacking the tariff piecemeal.

We believe in reciprocity, which has opened new markets for the products of the workshop and the farm.

We believe in the use of both gold and silver money.

We demand that every dollar, whether of gold, silver, or paper, shall be equal to every other dollar.

We believe in an international conference to secure a parity of gold and silver throughout the world.

We demand that every citizen, rich or poor, native or foreign-born, white or black, shall be permitted to cast one ballot and have it counted as he cast it.

We propose to keep on fighting till we have honest elections in every state.

We favor the revival of our foreign commerce in American ships.

We demand a navy to protect our interests and maintain the honor of our flag.

We demand that arbitrary combinations of capital to control trade conditions shall be rigidly regulated.

We believe in wise and consistent civil service reform.

We believe in admitting all the territories to the Union as soon as they are qualified for entrance.

We reaffirm the Monroe doctrine.

We demand the restriction of criminal, pauper and contract immigration.

We demand that the employees of railroads, mines and factories shall be protected against all needless dangers.

We sympathize with the oppressed in every land.

We demand freedom of speech and of the press.

We believe in popular education.

We favor the construction and control of the Nicaragua canal by Americans.

We believe in self-government for territories.

We believe that the Columbian Exposition should be made a success worthy of the dignity and progress of the nation, and that the government should aid in this if necessary.

We sympathize with every legitimate effort to promote temperance and morality.

We pledge to the loyal veterans of the war for the Union the recognition that is theirs by right.

We are proud of President Harrison's magnificent administration.

And we propose to give the country another administration just as good for the next four years.

The Best Remedy
In this world, says J. Hoffert of Syracuse, N. Y., is Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic, because my son, who was partially paralyzed three years ago and attacked by fits, has not had any symptoms of them since he took one bottle of the remedy. I most heartily thank for it.

Nervous Prostration, Sleeplessness, and Weakness.

West Brimingham, Quebec, Oct. 1, '90.
The Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic I ordered was for a young lady of my household, who was almost useless to herself and others, owing to nervous prostration, sleeplessness, weakness, &c., &c. To-day there is quite a change. The young person is much better, stronger, and less nervous. She will continue to use your medicine. I think it is very good.

PAINT! PAINT!

—THE—HAMMONTON.

When you buy the Hammonton Paint, you do not buy seven-eighths of a gallon for a gallon, or three pints for a half gallon; nor do you get one of those packages that weigh 12 to 14 pounds, and containing so much alkali that it appears to be so thick that it is impossible to use it without thinning; but in buying the Hammonton you get a full standard gallon of paint, weighing 14 to 16 pounds to the gallon, made from the best materials known to the trade, and costs the consumer from $1 to $1.50 per gallon for honest paint.

If the purchaser doesn't want honest paint, and wants to be honest to himself, then be sure to buy the Hammonton Paint, and the manufacturer will give a receipt with every gallon sold telling you how to make two gallons of paint out of one of the Hammonton. It will cost 33 cents for the extra gallon.

One Dollar.

And then here comes Commercial Paint, in 30 shades,—the best wearing paint ever put on the market, for so low a price as $1 per gallon, and guaranteed to be a first-class wearing paint. If any one should not want to pay so high a price for a good exterior paint, then work the 33 cent racket, and get two gallons for $1.33.

The Republican.
[Entered as second class March 1, 1892.]
SATURDAY, SEPT. 24, 1892.
REPUBLICAN TICKET.
For President,
Benjamin Harrison,
Of Indiana.
For Vice-President,
Whitelaw Reid,
Of New York.
For Governor,
John Kean, Jr.
For Congressman,
Hon. John J. Gardner.
The Republican Congressional Convention, Second District, was held at Tom's River, on Wednesday. On the first ballot, Don John J. Gardner received a majority of the votes, and was declared unanimously nominated. Correct. Exactly what we called for, and as expected. It is a deserved honor, as will be his election, Nov. 8th, 1892.
Orrville E. Moore, of Boston, was here Tuesday night, happy as ever.
The Edinboro Gazette has been sold to Dr. A. R. Gehring, of Philadelphia, who will publish the same at May's Landing under the name of Atlantic Star-Gazette. Mr. Geo. F. Breder, the former publisher, will retain the management and editorial department.
Mrs. M. E. Thomas has been treating her lady friends to a view of lots of pretty millinery since she opened the doors of her new store; and she is offering some bargains at the subject that have depleted her stock more rapidly than she anticipated. But there is more where that came from, and customers will not be obliged to wait for head-gear, or the many other little necessities in which Mrs. Thomas deals, that go to complete a woman's happiness. Those who have not already responded to her invitation, in another column, will find it both profitable and a pleasure to pay her a visit.
Whatever we may think of their wisdom, no one can accuse our Prohibition friends of cowardice. They are first in the field with a full ticket, - their County Convention having nominated the following, on Monday last:
State Senator, John F. Turner, Atlantic City.
Assemblyman, Curtis S. Newcomb, Hammonton.
Surrogate, John Ireland, Atlantic City.
Coroner, Nathaniel Disbrow, Pleasantville.
That afternoon, a Prohibition banner was raised, near the lower end of Bellevue, with appropriate exercises. In the evening, a mass-meeting was held in the hall, well attended. Mr. Volney B. Cushing made a very able and eloquent address, which is highly praised by men who cannot accept his doctrine.
"The tariff makes trusts," is parrot talk among Democrats.
There is a beer trust, but there is no tariff on beer.
There is a coal oil trust but there is no tariff on coal oil.
There is a sugar trust but there is no tariff on sugar.
There is a hard coal trust but there is no tariff on hard coal.
There are coffee trusts nearly every year but there is no tariff on coffee.
There was a big India rubber trust last year but there is no tariff on India rubber.
There were three tea trusts in the past five years and there has been no tariff on tea for years.
And still the Democratic parrot squawks "The tariff makes trusts!"

Sixty or more of Hammontonians witnessed the Grand Army Parade this week, in Washington. That great city was full to overflowing,—the greatest crowd that ever visited the capital. Some of the boys wearied of the show and came home on Wednesday, others on Thursday. Of course there were drawbacks,—life is never unclouded pleasure,—but all we have seen are disposed to overlook the unpleasant feature, and declare that their visit was worth all it cost.
Last week Friday morning, as the up-express on the Reading passed Colwell's, below town, the section hands were warned by their foreman, Jesse Babely, and all left the track; but one of them, Benjamin Yarmund, wheeled about and returned to his work, standing on the end of a tie, bent forward so that the locomotive step struck the top of his head, throwing him far aside, and entirely emptying his brain cavity. On Monday, Coroner Geo. F. Breder held an inquest, heard the evidence of the foreman, two of the section hands, and the engineer of the train. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death, blaming no one.
There's another saloon now near Hammonton. Edward Schickel has been granted a license to sell liquor at Folsom, having moved his post-office across the street to make room. In obtaining this license he was given by nineteen men, whose names are given below, who affirm the usual haledcohol in declaring such a place conducive to the public good. He had, beside, the help of two of Hammonton's local politicians, one of whom holds office, and the other, rumor says, is looking hopefully forward to political honors in the future, and takes the above-mentioned method of showing his fitness for the responsibilities of office. The names signed to said license petition are—

Sixty or more of Hammontonians witnessed the Grand Army Parade this week, in Washington. That great city was full to overflowing,—the greatest crowd that ever visited the capital. Some of the boys wearied of the show and came home on Wednesday, others on Thursday. Of course there were drawbacks,—life is never unclouded pleasure,—but all we have seen are disposed to overlook the unpleasant feature, and declare that their visit was worth all it cost.
Last week Friday morning, as the up-express on the Reading passed Colwell's, below town, the section hands were warned by their foreman, Jesse Babely, and all left the track; but one of them, Benjamin Yarmund, wheeled about and returned to his work, standing on the end of a tie, bent forward so that the locomotive step struck the top of his head, throwing him far aside, and entirely emptying his brain cavity. On Monday, Coroner Geo. F. Breder held an inquest, heard the evidence of the foreman, two of the section hands, and the engineer of the train. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death, blaming no one.

He had, beside, the help of two of Hammonton's local politicians, one of whom holds office, and the other, rumor says, is looking hopefully forward to political honors in the future, and takes the above-mentioned method of showing his fitness for the responsibilities of office. The names signed to said license petition are—
