FOR GOVERNOR.

Cornelius Walsh.

THE STRENGTH OF MR. WALSH

The Democrats, when Mr. Walsh was nominated, harped upon the "unpopularity of Mr. Walsh at home," basing their statements upon the opposition he encountered in the contest for U. S. Senator, and his action against the running of street cars on Sunday, in the city of Newark. As the campaign progresses, these phases of opposition are becoming very "beautifully less." They declare that the contest three years ago, and the sharp conflict for the senatorship last winter, has alienated several influential leaders of the party, and that they would render him but a partial support. In this they are mistaken. He went into each contest fairly and openly. He developed more than ordinary strength and was barely defeated. Such evidence of strength is not to be lightly treated, and the gentlemen who supported the rivals of Mr. Walsh then, are not such fools as to cherish a grudge against an honest, honorable opponent. Mr. Walsh has gained steadily in popularity wherever he has appeared before the people since his nomination. As is remarked by an exchange, "they see him to be a man of intellect, an easy and dignified speaker, and possessing a mind saturated with Republican principles." We are informed that in the northern part of the State, where the Democrats counted most upon disunion, that "there is no shadow of split or division, nor of apathy." It is patent to an observing person, as the campaign deepens and organization is being accomplished, that Mr. Walsh will carry the full party vote, which is sufficient to elect him by a fair majority. The principles of the Republican party are plainly set forth, while nobody knows on what line our opponents are fighting, if any. Parker is running on a "new departure" platform, and his record as a "War Governor," which combined, seem very much like running on a Republican platform. An exchange pertinently remarks that "it is simply coming down to the status of the Prodigal Son; a penitent adhesion, grudgingly given, to ideas of government which for years they have rejected and condemned."

The Baltimore American mocks the miseries of Democracy. It calls the anti-departurists "the men who heroically stick in the mud." The New York Commercial Advertiser suggests they are not much worse off than those newly risen from the mire, since the latter refuse to change their garments and yet cannot wash out the mud stains upon them.

In Massachusetts General Butler has been fairly and completely beaten at the Worcester Convention. After one of the most gallant fights ever made by an individual candidate he has suffered a decisive defeat, and it is said that, contrary to the general expectation, he yields to the inevitable logic of events, and expresses his intention to abide by the decision of the Convention. Butler has at least the consolation of knowing that he has given his enemies a terrible fright, and that he has put them on their mettle, powerful as they are, to insure his overthrow. The best thing he can do is to accept the situation and make as good a fight on the stump, on behalf of Washburn, as he recently made, although unavailing, for himself.

The Illustrated Christian Weekly for September 30, is an unusually good number of this excellent weekly. "Asking a Blessing" from a painting by Prof. Jordan, is a sweet picture of lowly life, exquisite in its design and execution. Illustrations are given of "Woodward's Gardens," the Central Park of San Francisco. A biographical sketch with portrait is given of "Dr. H. L. Mansel," the famous author. Prof. Baird contributes an illustrated article on "Count Raymond and the Bishop of Toulouse."

The children's wants are attended to in the illustrated article "The Two Umbrella Houses" and other sketches. The leading editorial, "Sowing and Reaping," should be carefully read by every parent throughout the land.

The Democrats delight in calling their nominee "the War Governor." Will they tell us what right he has to the title. It is true he forwarded troops when called upon, and performed such acts as were forced upon him, but neither voluntarily. He did so because the country had become fully aroused, and it was death to the Democracy to refuse to aid the government. In public addresses he denounced the administration as carrying on a "war of subjugation" with the South—"a war for the abolition of slavery;" and while his chum, Jack Rogers, repeatedly declared in Congress and elsewhere, that "not another man nor dollar" should be given by the North to continue the war, Parker smiled on him approvingly. Yet the war did go on, the North did give more men and more money, and Joel Parker was obliged to furnish New Jersey's full quota; and for doing this, under compulsion, he is now landed to the skies by the Democratic Press. Such is his record as a "War Governor."

We have received a copy of the proceedings of the Vineland Women's Convention, but have no space, for either an extended notice, or extracts.

Joel Parker tries, through the Trenton American, to back out of that $30,000 transaction, mentioned in our columns last week. Mr. Parker is upon record before the convention and over his own signature as positively refusing to accept, unless "with the acquiescence of all other candidates," before the convention, upon a unanimous vote. He received neither of these, yet accepted the nomination without demurring. Will our Democratic friends explain? It is now stated, in addition to the $30,000, that if elected, the salary would, if possible, be raised from $3000 to $6000, before he was inaugurated. A very neat game, truly; we doubt however, their having a chance of practicing it.

A serial by Edward Eggleston, (the new edition) entitled "The Hoosier School Master," is commenced in the issue for Sept. 30. The opening chapters are very interesting and will "take" amazingly with the boys. The portrait of Jack Means, the school trustee, is capital.

A Toronto paper says that Joel Parker is a native of Canada, of English parentage, and that many of his relatives still live in that city. His parents came to New Jersey when quite small. Here, then, we have a Democratic Englishman, as well as a Republican, running for the gubernatorial seat. The Jersey City Times asks, "must we copy the unprincipled course of our adversaries, and nominate of Canada.

JOEL PARKER,

Senator Battle last week appointed the following gentlemen to compose the "State Central Committee":

At Large—Hon. George A. Halsey, of Essex county, chairman; General Thomas B. Van Buren, of Bergen; Frederick Potts, Esq., of Hunterdon.

First District—Hon. John W. Hasleton, of Gloucester.

Second District—Hon. Josephus Sooy, of Burlington.

Third District—Hon. L. D. Jarrard, of Middlesex.

Fourth District—Joseph Coult, of Sussex.

Fifth District—August Ingwersen, of Hudson.

In a circular to the Democratic party, advising them how to conduct their several canvasses, Nasby proffers this advice to his Pennsylvania brethren:

"Tarrif to the hub, and up the highest and most protective kind. Speak up the wealth hidden in her mountains and the necessity up protection to develop it. Remind your hearers of the cry 'Polk, Dallas and the Tarrif of '41!' and denounce the freetraders bought with British gold. Pint the finger up scorn at 'em, and wind up allus with a glowing tribute to the greatness of Pennsylvania. Dodge the nigger in Pennsylvania, and the nashel debt, also, for the people are mixed. It's our business before election to please the people."

KEEP WITHIN BOUNDS.—Everything belonging to yourself and your household should be kept within bounds. Temper, inclination, desires and expenditure should all be restrained within the charmed circle of self-government, or kept within bounds. To persons of slender means this is sometimes difficult, especially if they desire to dress well and look well, and neglect the opportunity now offered of purchasing their Fall Clothing from the splendid stock of goods being offered at very low prices by BENNETT & CO., TOWER HALL, No. 518 MARKET STREET, half-way between Fifth and Sixth streets, Philadelphia.

THE NEWS.

ENGLAND.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—The Right Hon. Benjamin Disraeli, in proposing the health of the Queen at a dinner at Hughenden, to-day, said she was morally and physically incapacitated from performing her public duties any longer. The excitement is tremendous. Some of the journals will suppress this part of the speech.

FRANCE.

The evacuation by the German troops of the four Departments contiguous to Paris is completed. It is known, however, that the German soldiers returning to their homes have halted beyond the borders of these Departments, and are awaiting the announcement that the signatures have been affixed to the Alsace Treaty.

Rochefort, who was court martialled and sentenced to transportation to a penal colony for life, has petitioned the Government for a commutation of his sentence. He is quite ill from a nervous complaint. It is reported that correspondence has been discovered in the Tuilleries developing a plan to put Napoleon on the throne of Belgium. The discovery occasions a sensation in Belgium.

TROUBLE AT SALT LAKE.

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 26.—Many Gentiles have sent away their families, in anticipation of serious trouble between the Mormons and the United States authorities, growing out of the supposed action of the Grand Jury against Brigham Young and other Church dignitaries. Although it is generally believed that the indictments on the gravest charges will be found against these men, any overt act on the part of the Mormons is not considered at all probable by well-informed persons.

MISCELLANEOUS.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 26.—The Court-Martial for the trial of Paymaster John L. Hodge, U. S. A., commenced at Fort McHenry to-day. There was a full Court, Major-Gen. George G. Meade presiding. On being arraigned the prisoner, through his counsel, the Hon. Wm. Schley of Baltimore, plead guilty to all the charges. Ma Schley made a brief address to the Court. The sentence of the Court will not be known until promulgated by the War Department.

At the sale at Camp Douglas, Salt Lake City, of United States ordinance, the Mormon Adjutant-General of militia purchased 1,000 stand of arms and 150,000 fixed cartridges.

A coffee vessel, from India for Martinique, has been lost on the coast of that island, with all hands on board. Two hundred bodies have been washed ashore.

The English residents at Hong Kong believe their lives to be in danger, and have asked for further protection.

A party of escaped convicts from Nevada has beaten off a Sheriff and posse in California, killing two men.

A terrible powder explosion has occurred near Newburgh, one man being killed.—Five lives were lost by a boiler explosion near Montgomery, Alabama.

The English holders of Confederate cotton bonds are organizing to present their claims to the Commission of Arbitration at Washington.

THE ALBION.—Now that the year is drawing to a close the true value of this remarkable serial becomes the more apparent, and when bound with the handsome Christmas number which is promised, will make one of the richest and most charming volumes it is possible to possess. Rich as have been all the preceding issues in illustrations, the number for October fairly eclipses all—both as regards quantity and quality, the subjects being more varied and more fully described than has been usual, which is an agreeable feature. The literary department is up to the standard and is filled with amusing and entertaining articles. The general get up still exhibits the same care and maintains the same character it started with—as being the most perfect and superb publication issued from any press. The subscription is but $2.50 per annum and the publishers are James Sutton & Co., 23 Liberty Street, New York.

About Joel Parker's Strength Before the People.

But is Mr. Parker so very strong? True, he was elected by 15,000 majority in 1862, but it is worth while to trace how much of this was due to his personal strength and how much to other causes. We have no wish to belittle Mr. Parker, but it must be remembered that at that time the nation was paralyzed or McClintock—both one disease. Defeat had followed defeat in the field. For the first time in the history of the nation, the full horrors of war had revealed themselves to the people. Business was prostrate, we had no military leader, every battle was a butchery, hospitals taught their sad lessons in every Northern town, and in the midst of all this sadness and woe came out Lincoln's despairing cry for 300,000 more to take the place of those who had fallen in the ranks. The "draft" was facing us, and all seemed anarchy except to those who trusted in God and Lincoln. When the day of election came in 1862, it found thousands of ardent Republicans voiceless and voiceless in the front of the foe, while at home was a hopeless and dejected North. State by State went down. Republicans could not vote in one place and fight in another; and there, and in the terrible panic which followed our successive defeats, lay the strength of Joel Parker. N. Y. Tribune.

There is now and then a Democratic editor who can be candid and accord some justice to a political opponent. The Newark Register says of Mr. Walsh and his nomination:—

"There is no question but Mr. Walsh's previous labor for the success of the party, taken in connection with the weakness of the candidates opposed to him, gained him the honor of the nomination, and although there are more brilliant and learned men in the Republican ranks, yet there is not a doubt if elected to the high office he would discharge the duties with credit, and to the satisfaction at least of that portion of the people who will give him their support."
