Children are Important Customers

In our estimation. When they are sent to us on a trading errand we always remember that they are not discriminating buyers, and take special pains to see that they get what both you and they want. Then we always try to be prompt in waiting on them--there is always a little worry at home when they are sent on an errand and stay too long, often through no fault of their own.

Auction Sales.

Circulars are printed at this office for the following sales:

Saturday (to-day), J. S. Thayer's.

Oct. 5th, at Simon Notte's.

Oct. 7th, at Mrs. Julia Riebel's.

Oct. 14th, at Mrs. John Piper's.

It was our pleasure, as well as that of a host of others, of visiting Bassett & Son's great dahlia beds, Sunday. In all, there are four acres of them, set out in four patches. They made a fine picture,--long straight rows of healthy plants, covered with blossoms, many varieties of them, but no two kinds in a row. From the more common ones, they have them to the most rare, including "Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt," which measures fully five and a-half inches across. There's a ready market for the showy beauties, in Philadelphia, and as many as 7,500 are shipped in one day. They are in hopes that killing frosts will hold off a few weeks longer.

Mr. and Mrs. Asa L. Roberts and son returned to Camden Wednesday morning last, after spending three months in Hammonton, living in J. L. O'Donnell's house. Mr. R. was here for his health, and gained twenty-five pounds in weight since July 8th. They are much pleased with the town, its climate, and its people.

Bank Brothers'

First Fall Opening.

111 Bellevue Ave., Hammonton.

We start our Fall business with a complete stock of up-to-date Clothing, Hats, Shoes, Furnishings, and Dry Goods, which is the result of months of careful search through the markets for the best values possible to obtain, and offer to our patrons a high grade of fine selected merchandise at prices which mean a great saving.

Everything the latest and best! No last year's goods, as this is our first Fall Opening.

Our motto of selling good goods only, at a great deal less than same quality can be bought for elsewhere, has brought to our store thousands of customers. We will therefore continue the policy in our future business career. We solicit the patronage of everybody who appreciates the power of money saving on good up-to-date merchandise.

No urging to buy. Our fall stock is so complete, and prices so low that no urging is necessary. We cheerfully invite you to stop in our store and look over our stock before you buy your fall goods.

Ready-made Clothing that Fits and looks right.

To this department we paid our best attention, being very careful in selecting only such designs and qualities as will give the wearer the best and the latest at a great saving. Clothing, where knowledge is shown, will be pressed and cleaned free of charge.

$4 and $5 seem small amounts for a man's suit, but these suits have been made to sell at $6 and $7. Marked by us at $4 and $5.

$8 and $10 for a man's elegant tailored suit that will look right and hold its color and shape,--concave shoulders. We are ready to convince you that they equal $10 and $12 suits sold elsewhere. Special fall opening, $8 and $10.

Men's fine Custom-made Suits at $12, $15, and $18, worth $15, $20, and $25. These suits have been designed and cut by our own tailor, and if you are particular about the clothes you wear, and a judge of high-grade clothing, you will appreciate the good fit, the hair cloth front, satin lining. Pants made according to the latest style, thoroughly guaranteed. Marked $12, $15 and $18.

The high art of workmanship and quality of these suits can only be appreciated by a personal visit. Possibilities better than any $15, $18, and $25 suits sold by other dealers. Our prices, $12, $15, and $18.

Genuine $15 Cravenette at $10. In dark gray and black, belt in back, half-lined with the finest of satin. Do not be under the impression that for $10 this cannot be much of a cravenette; we guarantee it to be just the same as others sell for $15. Our price, $10.

Young Men's Suits in single and double breasted at $4, $5.50, $7.50, $8 and $9. No matter how particular a young man is about his suit, he can surely find something to satisfy him, as all these suits are marked at a saving of $2 to $4 on each suit.

Boys' Suits, from 8 to 16 years, ranging from 75 c., $1.35, $1.95, $2.50, $3.50, $4 and $5. Hundreds of suits to select from, and at a saving of 75 c. to $1.50 on every suit.

Note. All our clothing is thoroughly guaranteed. If anything happens to be wrong with the wear, we will be glad to make it right.

Dutchess Trousers, for men, known as the best in the country. We give 10 cents if a button comes off; $1 or a new pair if they rip. Price, from 95 cents to $5.

Men's Pants of other makes from 49 c. to $2.50.

Our clothing department is so complete that unless you give us the pleasure of showing you the kind of Clothing we sell, you can hardly imagine the high grade of our Clothing.

We guarantee a definite saving on everything bought in our store. So you will do injustice to yourself if you fail to visit

Wm. H. Bernshouse had a field of corn which grew to a height of about twelve feet, the stout stalks bearing one or two large ears. Another field, with stalks scarcely six feet high, yielded equally well. Now the owner questions whether it is profitable to grow so much woody fiber when the shorter variety produces about as much corn.

Pastor Williams and delegates from his Church attended the Camden Baptist Association on Tuesday and Wednesday. This is an association of about fifty churches, who meet annually for consultation, and to map out co-operative plans for the coming year.

THERE is no way to maintain the health and strength of mind and body except by nourishment. There is no way to nourish except through the stomach. The stomach must be kept healthy, pure and sweet, or the strength will let down and disease will set up. No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, sour risings, rifting, indigestion, dyspepsia, and all stomach troubles that are curable, are quickly cured by the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. Matak & Pierson.

Cranberries appear to be yielding more than the estimated crop. One grower said: "I am surprised at the quantity I am getting." Another, who topped a thousand bushels, but expected less, had housed nineteen hundred last Saturday night, and will pick two weeks more unless frost stops work.

Tuesday last, 26th, was Thos. R. Twomey's birthday, and about forty of his friends helped him to celebrate. It was a surprise party, and the way in which he was induced to visit Bellevue Hall at just the right time, and his genuine amazement when he "caught on," were pleasing to those in the secret.

Your Opportunity.

Every intelligent Farmer needs his own local weekly newspaper and a good agricultural family publication. He can't run his home or farm successfully without either of them.

A combination of the two, at the cost of the one, is co-operation which saves the farmer money, and gives him two papers every week for one year, filled with all the news of local interest, and all up-to-date ideas in modern and successful farming.

The South Jersey Republican and New York Tribune Farmer fill the bill.

To Mary in Heaven.
Thou lingering star, with lessening ray,
That lovest to greet the early morn.
Again thou usherest in the day
My Mary from my soul was torn.
O Mary! dear, departed shade!
Where is thy place of blissful rest?
Beest thou thy lover lowly laid?
Hear'st thou the groans that rend his breast?

That sacred hour can I forget?
Can I forget the hallow'd grove,
Where by the winding Ayr we met,
To live one day of parting love?
Eternity will not efface
Those records dear of transports past:
Thy image at our last embrace—
Ah! little thought we 'twas our last!

Ayr gurgling kiss'd his pebbled shore,
O'erhung with wild woods, thickening green;
The fragrant birch, the hawthorn leaf
Twin'd amorous round the raptur'd scene.

The flowers sprang wanton to be prest,
The birds sang love on every spray,
Till too, too soon, the glowing west
Proclaimed the speed of winged day.

Still o'er these scenes my memory wakes,
And fondly broods with miser care;
Time but the impression deeper makes
As streams, their channels deeper wear.

My Mary, dear, departed shade!
Where is thy blissful place of rest?
Beest thou thy lover lowly laid?
Hear'st thou the groans that rend his breast?

The Singers.
God sent his Singers upon earth
With songs of sadness and of mirth,
That they might touch the hearts of men,
And bring them back to heaven again.

The first, a youth with soul of fire,
Held in his hand a golden lyre;
Through groves he wandered, and by streams,
Playing the music of our dreams.

The second, with a bearded face,
Stood singing in the market place,
And stirred with accents deep and loud
The hearts of all the listening crowd.

A gray old man, the third and last,
Sang in cathedrals dim and vast,
While the majestic organ rolled Conitron from his mouths of gold.

And those who heard the Singers three Disputed which the best might be,
For still their music seemed to start
Discordant echoes in each heart.

But the great Master said, "I see
No best in kind, but in degree;
I gave a various gift to each,
To charm, to strengthen, and to teach."

There are three great chords of use ear is tuned right
No discord in the three,
Most perfect harmony."

STORY OF THE CLOVER.

The Butterfly and Flower.
Native of This Country.

To the average man it is usually something of a surprise to learn that there are more sorts of clover than two—the red and the white, says the Philadelphia Record. As a matter of fact, eight or nine varieties, of various hues, are common in fields and by the roadside in the neighborhood of Philadelphia, all of them immigrants from the old world. The few species that are native to the United States are chiefly western in their range.

The pretty white or Dutch clover, of creeping habit, which is a favorite for lawns and places where a close smooth turf is desirable, has a tall cousin known as Alsike, or Swedish clover, which is one of the most charming of wayside blooms. It is distinguished from the white clover by its upright habit and the color of the flower heads, which are usually more or less flushed with pink.

Practically useless for pasture, but lovely as a nosegay, is the yellow, or hop clover, so called because of the resemblance of its flowers to hops. In age the flowers lose the brilliant yellow of their prime and change through tones of bronze to a warm chestnut brown, which is very charming.

Another species for which the farmer has no respect, and which is common on lean lands, is one with grayish green leaflets like tiny olive leaves, and oblong heads of dunn flowers, which are all but concealed by a cloak of long silky hairs. Common throughout Europe and western Asia, it is known in half a dozen languages by names that all mean "rabbit's foot," and rabbit's foot clover we call it here. It is believed to have been brought to the West Indies by Spanish explorers prior to 1547, and thence has spread well over our country.

Best known of all the trefolls is the common meadow or red clover, whose fat round heads of magenta bloom dot every summer mead. Beloved of men from time immemorial a feature in their festivals and in mystic rites, its value to the agriculturist seems not to have been recognized until about the sixteenth century, when its cultivation was first begun. During the middle ages it was reputed efficacious against the wiles of witches, and knight and peasant alike wore the clover leaf as a charm. The popular association of the clover leaf with good luck dates from the same ancient time. Revere the cross formed by the four leaflets was held to imply somewhat of supernatural virtue resident therein. Such a clover leaf was believed to make the possessor capable of detecting evil spirits; to insure safe return from journeys; to induce dreams of one's sweetheart and various sorts of pleasant fortune.

The fondness of bees for clover flowers is well known. The visits of those nectar hunters, probably suggested the old Anglo-Saxon name for the red clover, which was "honeysuckle," a term still current in rural England, and synonymous, doubtless, with Shakespeare's "honeysuckle."

The showiest of all our trefolls is the crimson or Italian clover, which in recent years has become frequent as a crop in Pennsylvania fields. It is a native of Italy and southern France. The flowers are not in round heads like the red clover, but in long spikes of so fiery a color as to have attracted the attention of flower growers, who employ the plant at times as a decorative annual in the flower garden.

A Robert Louis Stevenson's Prayer.
Lord, behold our family here assembled.
We thank Thee for this place in which we dwell; for the love that unites us, for the peace accorded us this day; for the hope with which we expect the morrow; for the health, the work, the food and the bright skies, that make our lives delightful; for our friends in all parts of the earth, and our friendly helpers in this foreign land. Let peace abound in our small company. Purge out of every heart the lurking grudge. Give us grace and strength to forbear and to persevere. Offenders, give us the grace to accept and to forgive. Forgetful ourselves, help us to bear cheerfully the forgetfulness of others. Give us courage and gaiety and the quiet mind. Spare to us our friends, soften us to our enemies. Bless us, if it may be, in all our innocent endeavors. If it may not, give us the strength to encounter that which is to come, that we be brave in peril, constant in tribulations, temperate in wrath, and in all changes of fortune, and down to the gates of death, loyal and loving one to another. As the day to the porter, as the windmill to the wind, as children of their day, we beseech of Thee this help and mercy for Christ's sake. From the Works of Stevenson.

The Causes of Headache.
It is probably no exaggeration to say that the great majority of habitual or frequently recurring headaches are the direct result of eye troubles—astigmatism or near-sightedness—which the proper fitting and wearing of glasses will prevent. But not all headaches are of this character—not all, even, of the often-recurring headaches, and it may be well to mention some of the other causes.

Any form of blood-poisoning is apt to cause severe headache. Indeed, this is the most common cause of the trouble, next to eye-strain. Such a headache is that which accompanies fever, or which occurs in cases of chronic lead-poisoning, kidney disease, habitual constipation, or sleeping in unventilated rooms. This is the headache also which occurs in gout and rheumatism, and in malaria.

Pain in the head of a most violent and persistent character may depend upon some disease of the skull, and of course any inflammation of the brain itself or its membranes will manifest itself by severe pain in the head.

A variety of paroxysmal or recurring headache, which resembles somewhat the eye-strain headache, and may be mistaken for it, is one due to catarrhal troubles in the nose, and especially in the large air-cavities in the forehead and face connected with the nose. This headache, like one kind due to eye-strain, comes on at a certain time each day, and increases in intensity for a while, then subsides; but its times differ from those of the headaches of eye origin. The latter are worse in the evening, but the nose headache comes in the early in the morning and gradually diminishes as the day wears on, to disappear at sundown.

Most of the causes of headache above mentioned act by inducing changes in pressure within the skull. The latter is, of course, unyielding, so the effects of pressure must be exerted upon the brain. These pressure changes, except in the case of a tumor or effusion of fluid or other material, are due to variation in the size of the blood vessels of the brain. Congestive headaches are such as are caused by mental excitement, over-indulgence in the pleasures of the table, or in tobacco, tight collars or severe coughing. Headache may also occur in anemia, but then it is probable that the blood contains some poisonous material. —Youth's Companion.

A WILD RIDE.
Broken Harness Gives a Stage-Coach a Perilous Descent.

The descent from the highest pass across the Blue Ridge Mountains thereabouts, known as Snicker's Gap, to the Shenandoah River is long and steady. At regular intervals a little elevation of solid earth, also known as a brake, has been banked up across the road, to keep it from being washed away by the heavy rains. A ferry, propelled by the river current, carries the stage-coach across the Shenandoah, which flows at the foot of the mountain.

One day the coach, well loaded with passengers and their baggage, had attained a fair speed, when an accident to the harness occurred. The driver could not turn the vehicle in against the high banks on either side without upsetting it, and perhaps maiming its occupants. There was nothing to do but to "keep the horses on their feet and guide them."

Every time he reached one of the mounds across the road he had to exercise the greatest skill in steering over it squarely; but by coolness and presence of mind he brought his load safely, although at a tremendous speed, down the mountain. From long experience he knew where it was possible to drive into the river without getting beyond his depth, and as he boldly plunged his team into the stream an effective brake upon its speed began to operate. It soon came to a standstill, and the terror-stricken passengers drew a long breath once more. Saw-bones came out after them, the harness and brakes were repaired, and the journey resumed.

It is not strange that this one occasion of the thousands of times this man had been down the mountain should stand out distinct in his memory. This is the way history is made up. Ordinary occurrences are forgotten while an unusual event is remembered, the marvellousness of it seeming even to increase with the years; and the history of nations is but the enlarged form of the history of every-day life.

Time is of no value to a man who fails to use it.

DIED THAT OT

Archbishop Chapelle

low P

A most regrettable

yellow fever epidemic

was the recent death

LOUIS P. CHAPPELLE

Chapelle

born in

63 years ago and was a member

one of the most aristocratic fami-

of that country. His health had been undermined by his arduous duties

apostolic delegates to the Philippines

Cuba and Porto Rico, yet despite that he threw himself heart and soul into the work of confining the epidemic to a small section of New Orleans and sacrificed his life in his efforts to aid

the stricken city.

Archbishop Chapelle leaves a record of faithful and enduring work, not only for his church, but for the nation.

When he was rector of St. Matthew's Church in Washington he was brought into constant touch with foreign diplomats accredited to our government.

Through his acquaintance he became profoundly versed in world's affairs.

He was a true statesman and took an intense interest in the progress of the United States. It was his broad-minded statesmanship and true catholicity of feeling that led to his selection as archbishop of Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Later he was transferred to New Orleans, and his great ability and knowledge made him the natural selection as apostolic delegate to Cuba and Porto Rico. The archbishop's work there was not only in the interest of the Catholic Church, but of vital importance to the United States, for he did much to overcome the hostile feeling held against this country by the Catholics of Cuba and Porto Rico. He was also the Pope's representative in the negotiations for the purchase of the lands of the Friars in the Philippines.

Archbishop Chapelle, as a friend and companion, was without a superior.

He was full of reminiscences, was a charming story-teller, had a very healthy love of humor and a keenly humorous eye. Moreover he had much tact. He was deeply beloved, not only by members of his church, but by all who came under his kindly influence.

In his death the Catholic Church suffers an almost irreparable loss and the nation loses a man who was great and good.

NOTICE OF REGISTRY OF VOTERS AND OF A PRIMARY AND GENERAL ELECTION.

Notice is hereby given that the several Boards of Registry and Election for the County of Atlantic, in the State of New Jersey, will meet on Tuesday, September 12, 1905, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, for the purpose of organization and proceeding to make a complete canvass of all the legal voters residing within their respective election districts entitled to vote therein at the next election.

And notice is hereby further given that the said Board of Registry and Election will also meet on Tuesday, September 12, 1905, at the places provided for the holding of the primary election in their respective election districts at one o'clock in the afternoon and continue in session until nine o'clock in the evening, at which time and places said Boards shall hold the primary election as provided by law, and shall also proceed to organize, and make up from the canvassing books two lists or registers of the names arranged in alphabetical order, together with the residence of all persons in their respective election districts entitled to the right of suffrage therein at the next election or who shall personally appear before them for that purpose, or who shall be shown to the satisfaction of such Board of Registry and Election by the affidavit in writing of some legal voter in that election district to be a legal voter therein.

And notice is hereby further given that a primary election will be held on Tuesday, September 12, 1905, between the hours of one o'clock in the afternoon and nine o'clock in the evening of said day, for the election of delegates to convention of political parties or for making nominations or for both as the case may be.

And notice is hereby further given that the County Board of Elections will be in session in the County Court House at Mays Landing,
New Jersey, on Thursday, November 2, 1905, and Saturday, November 4, 1905, from eight o'clock in the morning until five o'clock in the afternoon, (except from 12 until 2), of said days for the purpose of revising and correcting the aforesaid register of voters by ordering errors therefrom, or the same or names of any person or persons who shall be shown to the satisfaction of said Board for any cause not to be entitled to vote at the next election district wherein he is registered and of adding to said register the names of any person who shall prove to the satisfaction of said Board by affidavit or otherwise his right to vote at the ensuing election.

And notice is hereby further given that the Justice of the Supreme Court assigned to hold the Atlantic County Circuit Court and the Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Atlantic County, or one of said Judges, will set and hold a Court of Common Pleas at the Court House, in Mays Landing, on Monday, November 6, 1905, from eight o'clock in the forenoon until five o'clock in the afternoon, to revise and correct the registry of election of the several election districts of Atlantic County.

And notice is hereby further given that the Justice of the Supreme Court assigned to hold the Atlantic County Circuit Court and the Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Atlantic County, or one of said Judges, will set and hold a Court of Common Pleas at the Court House in Mays Landing, on Tuesday, November 7, 1905, from eight o'clock in the forenoon until seven o'clock in the evening, to inquire whether a person is entitled to vote in the election district in which he is registered.

And notice is hereby further given that the next general election will be held on Tuesday, November 14, 1905, commencing at six o'clock in the morning and closing at seven o'clock in the evening.

Done in accordance with an act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, entitled,
"An act to regulate elections, revision of 1898." Approved April 4, 1898, and the supplements thereto and amendments thereof.

By order of the County Board of Elections.

FRANK E. ADAMS, Chairman.
