The Road Money.

ED. REPUBLICAN.—I will endeavor to be as brief as possible this time, as I do not consider it necessary to continue a discussion which can result in but little benefit at this season of the year.

You evidently, in your reply in your last issue, failed to view my letter from a proper standpoint, and I will call attention to a few of your remarks, but first let me say that no credit, (should any be deserved) attaches to me more than to the other members of council.

I never accused any party or parties, of "kicking." I simply stated that the "up-towners" did not "kick."

If council built the three miles or more of road, leaving the remaining twenty or more miles untouched, it shows that we at least have three miles or more of road to nothing (or very near it) last spring.

The "Jacobs plan" of roads, as you term it, is estimated by the State road commissioner to cost about $2000 per mile. Our road cost only $800 per mile.

Yes, weeds are a nuisance, but why should the town cut down the weeds in front of one man's property and allow them to grow elsewhere. If the weeds over the whole town were cut down, at last year's rate, it would amount to over $1000. I admit that even on upper Bellevue pedestrians complain of pollen, as you state, and the same, perhaps, applies to Broadway, Plymouth Road, Chew Road, etc.

Last Monday it rained. At six o'clock p. m., the water was a pond in front of one store, although the gutters are "latest improved covered brick." All that anyone living near that corner had to do was simply to raise the boards, give ten minutes work, and the water would have flowed. But they prefer the water. It would cost the town several dollars, as the road overseer would have to be paid to "supervise" the labor.

Your allusion to "work in the pit" having been paid to Mr. Hood in the total sum is correct, but unfortunately for your point, while I included it in my cost for Bellevue and Main road I did not include it for the other roads.
So, as you can see, the other roads really cost more than I ascribed to them, as my figures were exclusive of "work in pit," but included for Bellevue and Main roads.

I inquired of those who have had experience in digging and loading in the pit, and they inform me that one man can easily dig the gravel and load a wagon in one hour. Now, if $407 was the sum spent for "labor in pit" it is equivalent to one man working over 271 days at $1.50 per day, and digging and loading 2710 loads of gravel. Mr.
Hood's bill for "stripping" was almost insignificant. It takes about 500 loads of gravel for a road gravelled seven feet wide. But let us claim only 2000 loads as "labor in pit" is equal to the gravel for four miles of road. Where was the gravel placed? Some of us fail to discern it, and would like to be informed.

We have been paying for roads every year, and had none. It is better to avoid the item, "labor in pit" when one can start for the pit with no "supervision."

I am not opposed to spending money for drains, weeds or any other improvement down town, but business in Ham-monton will prosper more when the farmers have good roads, and I notice the happy countenances of our downtown people who ride with their families on our new roads, hence all classes are benefitted.

Let us all agree to fix more roads in the same manner next year, in other portions of the town.

The Council did not expend all the road money by the will of the members.
The most expensive part of Main road, probably costing $300 or $400, was incurred as I stated before, by the instructions of the road committee not being obeyed.

I have heard so many compliments paid council for the new road beds that I am satisfied, when the town meeting is held, the people as a whole will approve of what has been done by an overwhelming majority. Next year we should go ahead and spend the road money in the same way, as this time it was used to the best advantage.

P. H. JACOBS.

Mr. J. persists in misunderstanding.
We admire good roads, and would vote a reasonable amount to make them; but when the people appropriate only sufficient money to keep present roads in good repair, we still contend that council has no right to use that money in building improved roads in any part of town,—leaving no money to make needed repairs elsewhere. Council cannot disclaim responsibility for any part of the expense, as they voted to pay the bills, holding no one for the "misunderstanding" or disobedience of orders.

If our county road, built at cost of $2000 per mile, requires the constant supervision of a man who is now paid $300 per year for service, what will Mr.
Jacobs' road, at $800, cost for like supervision? If as is a fact, this $2000 road costs on an average of more than ten dollars per month, additional, for repairs, in this second year of its use, what will the $800 road cost? Yet Mr.
Jacobs says it will require nothing. A cheaper road means either cheaper materials or cheaper work; and cheapness usually includes "poorness."

This is not a profitless discussion, as it is intended to arouse interest in the matter, and at next town meeting voters will be ready to give more de-cise orders to their servants in Council.

EDITOR SOUTH JERSEY REPUBLICAN:

We, the undersigned, read in your issue of Sept. 24th,—two factions were at work, one for Lewis Evans for Senator, led by T. C. Elvins, the other for Samuel H. Kelley, led by Edw. W.
Strickland. The last sentence is entirely untrue, as not one of us was in favor of the nomination of Mr. Samuel H.
Kelley for Senator. We respectfully request you to make this correction in

ATLANTIC COUNTY Orphans'

Court. September Term, 1898.
On application for rule to show cause, etc., Luman H. Parkhurst, Administrator of Edward R. Sprout, deceased, having exhibited to this Court, under oath, a just and true account of the personal estate and debts of said deceased, whereby it appears that the personal estate of said Edward R. Sprout is insufficient to pay his debts, and requested the aid of the Court in the premises;

It is ordered that all persons interested in the lands, tenements, and real estate of said deceased, appear before the Court, at the Court House in May's Landing, on the 15th day of December next, to show cause why so much of the said lands, tenements, hereditaments, and real estate of the said deceased should not be sold as will be sufficient to pay his debts or the residue thereof as the case may require.

GLORY OF THE NIGHT.

The silver gleam of the stream Went through the cavern of the night, And, hushed, beneath the stars, my dream A secret led to a silent light.

The moon's cold gleam shone not down Upon the shadowed path of life, But round its silver disk—my crown Of pearls and silver blazonings.

And while it trails down the tide My senses, smothered 'neath the gloom, And silence that gulf all beside,
Hail the white glory of its plume—

Flail the clear straight of each wing Round in the frost of time's diadem, A hand grasp of the dusky Bookman.

DEADLY OCTAVE.

"I see by your face, doctor, that you think it a very serious case.
Is it not so?"

"Well, Mrs. Delmege," I replied, in as cheering a tone as possible, "there is really no immediate cause for anxiety.
Your daughter is undoubtedly in a good state of health; her nerves are upset and she wants rest and total freedom from worry."

"But," said Mrs. Delmege, "what can she have to worry her? She was always, as you know, in the best of health and good spirits until the past few months, when she has gradually fallen into this condition?"

"I should like to see Dr. O'Connell," I replied, rather hesitantly. "He has said, you say, been attending Miss Delmege for some time past?"

Dr. O'Connell, the local practitioner, lived but a short distance from Denmark, Mr. Delmege's residence.

"We will send the trap over there at once with you if you wish," said Mr.
Delmege.

"Do so," I answered. "I am anxious to see him as soon as possible." I had a lengthy conversation with the doctor. He was a smart, intelligent-looking man, and had the reputation of possessing a larger share of ability than is usual in a country practitioner.

The result of our conversation was that I decided to remain for some time in Denmark for my things to be sent on.
The case was a rare one, and I wanted to admit to Miss Delmege's parents. The danger was not immediate; but if my diagnosis of the case, with which Dr. O'Connell quite agreed, was correct one—the girl's life was doubtless in danger.

Miss Delmege was a young girl of about 18, and extremely pretty; she was an only child, and the idol of her parents. She had suddenly, some months ago, fallen ill, rather suddenly, becoming subject to violent headaches, attended by continued sore throat and pains in the eyes.

At length Mr. O'Connell, the local man, advised calling in another man, and, I believe, my old friend Mr.
Delmege's, was sent for.

Ten days or so passed by after my arrival in Denmark, during which time I carefully studied and watched the progress of the case. It was —of the nature from which Miss Delmege was suffering, and at the end of that time I was fairly puzzled to give an answer to the question as to what the cause was of the nature of the illness was.

"Can we do nothing for my poor daughter?" exclaimed Mr. Delmege, during one of my visits. "Is she to die under our very eyes?"

I determined then to tell Mr. Delmege my opinion of the case, as there was nothing to be gained by concealing it any longer from him.

"I have made," I said, "a most careful diagnosis of the complaint from which your daughter is suffering, and there is in my mind not the slightest doubt that it is the effects of an acute poisoning."

"Mr. Delmege started at me in horror.
"Poisoning?" he exclaimed.

"Yes," I continued. "All her symptoms are those exhibited in acute poisoning. The mystery is how she is getting it. She eats exactly the same food as you eat; it cannot, therefore, be in that way. I have examined critically the paper on the walls of her bedroom; I have subjected every thing to the most careful examination; I can think of, in fact, to a most minute inspection, and in no way can I ascertain any traces of the poisoning."

"I confess I feel helpless to strike on any likely theory at present, but at all events I would advise your taking your daughter for change of air somewhere.
If the matter is decided improvement will come, I can only tell you I would not bring her back here until I have ascertained the source of the poison, which is undoubtedly being administered to your daughter in such a way that it imperceptibly affects all others in your household."

Mr. Delmege stood agape at what I told him.

"Indeed," he said, "oh, who would want to injure my poor Agnes, who never did harm to any one in her life?"

"Tell me," I asked, "in her life any one who would gain directly by her death?"

"No, no," Mr. Delmege replied, horrorstruck by my question. "Ah, but let me see," he went on, "as if I could harm," "There is Mr. Hunt. He is a traveller for 10,000, who was left to Agnes by her aunt. If she should die before she becomes of age the money goes to Mr. Hunt or his children. In the event of her surviving that age, the money becomes absolutely my daughter's. But I cannot believe that Mr.

Hunt would do that. He has always been very obliging in many ways—indeed, it was Mr. Hunt who chose that new piano for Agnes, as we were unable to go to London ourselves at the time."

"Is he well off?" I inquired.

"I really cannot say," answered Mr.
Delmege, "not very. He is connected with some chemical business, I believe, or was at one time. But, doctor, if he had wished to injure my child, he had no opportunity of doing so, for he never comes here, though we have often asked him; in fact, we really hear very little about him, and see him less."

"I certainly did not appear likely that Mr. Hunt could be the author of Miss Delmege's sickness; but at the same time I could not shake off the feeling that in some way or other he was connected with it."

"Well," I replied, after a little consideration, "I will tell you what to do.
Take your daughter at once away to someplace for a change of air. Seasoning, by the way, is a charming thing, near the sea, and the air is most brackish. I must return to London for a short time, and when you are settled at Seacombe I will run down to have a look at my patient."

After a short time I ran down to Seacombe, and was as delighted as her parents to see the almost complete recovery that the change of air had wrought in my patient.

"I'll tell you what, doctor," said Mr.
Delmege, "I will just take your advice about remaining here for a bit. I have been taking a house here for the winter; the climate is mild, and I dare say we all need a little change after our recent anxiety. I will send to Denmark for some things, though the house we have taken is small, but we won't require very much, and we can all have her place; she is never really happy without it."

"Very good," I said. "I think it is the best thing you can do. Your daughter seems to have quite recovered." I did not like to damp his good spirits, but in his joy at his child's recovery Mr. Delmege appeared to forget the deadly nature of her complaint, and as I returned to London I could not help thinking that the steady hand that held the pen at Denmark would soon or later find a way to carry on its murderous work, no matter where its victim might lie.

In this instance I was only too correct. About a month afterward I received a wire from Mr. Delmege to come to Seacombe at once.

Putting off all my other engagements, I journeyed down by the next train, and got to Seacombe in the afternoon.

The house Mr. Delmege had taken was small, but very prettily situated in about an acre of ground, commanding a very lovely view of the bay and lighthouse beyond.

I met him in the hall. He was in a terrible state.

"My poor child—she is as bad as ever," he exclaimed.

Miss Delmege was lying on a sofa in a darkened room. She was suffering from great headaches and pains in the eyes; her throat, too, was very con-stricted. It was pitiful to see the poor thing so, and her patience under all her sufferings.

I gave something to ease the pain in her head and send her to sleep. Sitting by her I noticed—indeed, I had noticed it before—that her nails were yellowish as it is every other way. The

NOTES

The early output of cigars from the Philippines is 140,000,000. The cheapest brand in England is worth 1/2 cents a pound loaf. There is more machinery made in Philadelphia than any other city in the world.

LI HUNG CHANG'S DISGRACE

Stripped of His Robes of Office by the Chinese, Li Hung Chang, whom the Emperor of China has stripped of his robes of office and dismissed from his post as foreign minister owing to his intrigues with Russia, is no stranger to the vicissitudes of fortune.

THE BALLADS OF THE JAPANESE WAR

When the troops march by, I'd like to be in Washington, beneath the flag, with the stars and stripes, and the colors of the nation.

TOPICS

All well-travelled Spanish women are taught to handle the sword from their earliest years, and as a result they are noted for their admirable figures and easy walk.

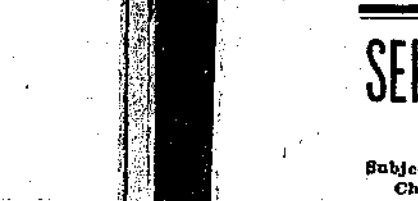

SHEEP

What's good to stop a shot of hair? The sheep. The sheep is a creature of habit, and it is a creature of habit that it is necessary to stop a shot of hair.

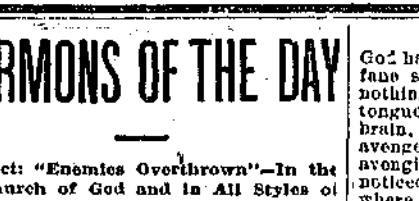

NO WOMAN IS EXEMPT.

Regularity is a matter of importance to every woman's life. Many a man, however, endowed in the belief that it is necessary and not alarming, when in truth it is all wrong and indicates a degeneration that may cause serious trouble.

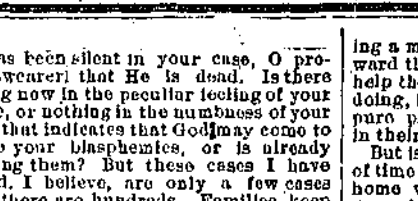

SERMONS OF THE DAY

Subject: "Eminent Overthrow." In the Church of God, there is a great deal of talk about the eminent overthrow, but it is a subject that is not very generally understood.

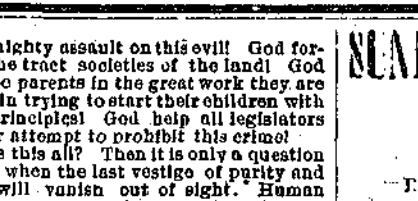

FARM

Such implements as harvesters and hay mowers are such that they cannot be given them when they are out of use. All machines, implements and tools should be thoroughly cleaned when at the end of the season, wiped dry, and then placed under shelter.

Niagara Falls
The last two ten-day excursions of the present season to Niagara Falls via the Pennsylvania Railroad will leave Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington on September 15 and 20, 1898. An experienced tourist agent and chaperon accompany each excursion.
Excursion tickets, good for return passage on any regular train, exclusive of limited express trains, within ten days will be sold at $10 from Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, and all points on the Delaware Division; $9.00 from Lancaster; $8.50 from Altoona and Harrisburg; $8.00 from Sunbury and Wilkesbarre; $5.75 from Williamsport, and at proportionate rates from other points. Excursionists will travel by special train of Pullman parlor cars and day coaches. A stop-over will be allowed at Buffalo, Rochester, Canandaigua, and Watkins returning.
Tickets from Atlantic City and other South Jersey points, and on the Delaware Division, will be good for passage to Philadelphia on day preceding date of excursion.
Tickets for a side trip to the Thousand Islands (Alexandria Bay) will be sold from Rochester, good to return to Rochester or to Canandaigua via Syracuse within five days, at rate of $5.50.
Tickets for a side trip to Toronto will be sold from Niagara Falls at rate of $1.00 via rail and boat, good only on day of issue.
For time of trains and further information apply to nearest ticket agent, or address Geo. W. Boyd, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia.

Tours to the Upper South.
September 28 and October 19 are the dates selected by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for its two early Autumn tours to the Battlefield of Gettysburg, picturesque Blue Mountain, Luray Caverns, the natural Bridge, Virginia Hot Springs, the cities of Richmond and Washington, and Mt. Vernon.
The round-trip rate, including necessary expenses, is $65 from New York, $68 from Philadelphia, and proportionate rates from other points.
Every tour covers a period of eleven days, and will be in charge of one of the company's Tourist Agents. He will be assisted by an experienced lady chaperon, whose charge will be ladies unaccompanied by male escort.
Special trains of parlor cars are provided for the exclusive use of each party, in which the entire round trip from New York is made.
For detailed itinerary apply to Ticket Agents, or to Tourist Agent, 1196 Broadway, New York, 789 Broad Street, Newark, N. J., or address Geo. W. Boyd, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia.
