A little two-year-old daughter of Angelo Costa, on Cottage Avenue, while playing in the yard early last Monday morning, ignited a piece of paper in a heap of hot ashes, and set her clothing afire. Her remains were brought home that afternoon, and buried in Greenmount on Wednesday.

A landlord returning home after an absence of several weeks saw one of his tenants sitting on a stone wall, whistling merrily. The moment that he greeted him, however, the man recoiled and began abusing him. "Why," whar's the matter, Pat?" he asked.

"No matter, is it?" was the answer.

"Matter enough, when your steward as afore, evicted me, had luck to thin?"

"I evicted you—what for?"

"The old liar pretended me cabin wanted repairing, and as Oi wouldn't let him, shure he put me out."

"Never mind, Pat," said the landlord.

"I'm not a cabin, but Oi want a landlord. I have always wanted is vacant, and I'll lot on have that at the same rent."

"No, thank you your honor," said Pat.

"I'll evict the cabin, and I'll have it."

"But why not? What is to hinder you?"

"No, your honor," was the reply.

"OI rather have me grievance."

that which Lord Houghton used to tell. When settled at his small living in a Yorkshire, Sydney willingly assisted his brethren in that neighborhood in their clerical duties. On one occasion he dined with the incumbent on the preceding Saturday. The evening passed in great hilarity, the Squire, for so he was called by name, being conspicuous for his loud enjoyment of the visitor's jokes.

"I am very glad I have amused you," said Sydney Smith at parting; "but you must not laugh at my serious sayings."

"I should hope I know the difference between here and a church," remarked de Squire, a little tartly, perhaps.

"I'm not so sure of that."

"I'll bet you a dollar on it!"

"And you," said the divine.

Next day the minister ascended the pulpit, apparently suffering from a severe cold, with his undertaker to his face, and at once sneezed out the name "Kershaw!" several times in various intonations.

This ingenuous assumption of the readiness with which a man would recognize his own name in sounds unintelligible to the ears of others

IRVING.

Washington Irving, in his early life, had a longing to go to sea and pirate. He determined to make an attempt, but wisely decided to save himself for it by preliminary experience. He began by eating salt. That made him sick. He then for a night or so on hard boards, made him sore. It was enough, and he no more desired to go away. FORD, the UNIVERSAL CAR.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The following prices f. o. b. Detroit, effective Aug. 2, 1915:

Ford Runabout	$390
Ford Touring Car	$440
Ford Town Car	$640

No Speedometer included in this year's equipment, otherwise cars fully equipped.

There can be no assurance given against an advance in these prices at any time. We guarantee, however, that there will be no reduction in these prices prior to August 1, 1916.

Profit-Sharing with Retail Buyers

On August 1, 1914, we made the announcement that if we could make and sell at retail 300,000 Ford cars between August 1, 1914 and August 1, 1915, we would share profits with the retail purchasers, to the extent of from $40 to $60 on each car. We have sold over 300,000 Ford cars in the time specified, and profit-sharing checks of $50 each will be distributed as rapidly as possible after August 15, 1915. Retail purchasers who have not yet mailed us their profit-sharing coupons, properly endorsed, should do so without delay.

Our plan to profit-share with retail purchasers of Ford cars during 1914-15 has been most successful. We thoroughly believe in it, but, realizing the uncertainty of conditions generally makes it advisable to defer any announcement of future profit-sharing until a later date.

We are, however, confident of our inability to reduce costs for several months; and therefore can offer no profit-sharing for cars delivered during August, September, and October, 1915.

"HIGH SHOE DAY," October 2nd

Time to Discard Low Footwear — Shoe Dealers Declare
That Style Edict demands High Footwear should Be Worn — Preservation of Health and Greater Comfort are also Important Reasons.

When you step blithely forth toward your place of business this morning, Mr. Man, or you, Madam, to do your shopping, look first at your feet.

If they are still clad in oxfords or pumps that have housed them all summer, then take warning.

Better hie yourself to Monfort's Shoe Shop and get a pair of high shoes, lest you be made to feel the shame of those who continue to wear low shoes after October 1st.

For October morn has been declared the official date for putting on the gypsy button or lace boot for Milady, and the cloth top English or other style for mere man, and discarding the pump or oxford.

If you are a man, you know what the boys down at the cigar store do to the fellow who comes in, about September 15th, wearing a straw hat. He usually goes home without the hat.

Such strenuous methods could hardly be used against out-of-season low-cuts, but it is better to be on the safe side and get a new pair of high kicks.

There seems to be a logical reason, based on health, for the high shoe edict. Reputable physicians have for years declared that exposing the ankles in cool weather is responsible for many of the common Fall and Winter ailments.

The nerves leading from the ankle are far more sensitive than the average person imagines. If you don't believe this, rap your ankle smartly with the stove poker, hit it against the side of a brick building, knock it against a chair, or let your next door neighbor kick it.

These sensitive nerves are very susceptible to sudden changes of heat and cold. Rheumatism, severe colds, and sometimes even pneumonia, result from wearing low cuts too late in the Fall season.

Many will make the change from reasons of appearance. It does not look well to put on a new Fall suit, coat and hat, and finish the costume with a pair of low cuts that have evidently been doing duty most of the Summer. The women, especially, who are wearing short wide skirts, will don new high boots for this reason.

But most folks will change because their own comfort suggests it. You can never tell, in October, when a chill blast will be coming around the corner to set your exposed ankles a-shaking.

So, for more reasons than one, a person wearing low shoes after to-day will feel distinctly outre, as they say in the novels.
