

Adjourned tax sale to-day.

N. S. Hicks is employed in Monfort's shoe store.

F. J. Homan is spending some time in Brooklyn, N. Y.

The issuing of canning certificates has been discontinued.

A. S. VanHise greeted many of his old friends on Sunday last.

N. S. Hicks has purchased the Blake house, on Grape Street, near Third.

C. Morton Crowell has arrived overseas, as one of Uncle Sam's Merchant Marine.

An interesting card was received from Geo. W. Lobley, dated at France on Sept. 14th.

Mrs. C. F. Crowell is spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. J. G. Craig, at Juniata, Pa.

Louis Wahrendorf, one of the popular young men of Folsom, died of influenza on Sunday last.

Mrs. Vina Kears and Miss Bertha McCrea have moved into the McAnney house, on Third Street.

All drills of the local Militia Reserve are called off until further notice, on account of the epidemic.

A bouncing boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Eugene A. Minet, of DaCosta, on Wednesday, Oct. 9th.

Dr. W. B. Peet, of New York City, an extensive owner of land in Hammonton, was one of this week's visitors.

News has reached here that Elmer W. Lenz was seriously injured in an automobile crash, in France.

Carrying out its plan for safety, the Board of Health has forbidden the collection of laundry by those in that business.

One of Bader & Hooven's trucks was damaged by fire, yesterday afternoon, both fire companies being called out.

Joseph Bowker, one of the best of our young men, living with his family in Philadelphia, died on Thursday of pneumonia.

The Boston Shoe Store has a new manager, the little fellow arriving at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Goldfarb on Monday last.

The large munition plant near Perth Amboy took fire and blew up, last Friday night, killing and wounding hundreds. A score of blasts were felt here.

The exhibit of captured German relics, on the special train, Monday morning, was very largely attended—in spite of the damp cold day. The guns and addresses doubtless sold many more Liberty Bonds.

Town Council can hold no public meetings until the epidemic is over. They passed no bills Wednesday evening, having no quorum, two members being sick and one dead. They expect to pass the bills next Wednesday.

James W. White, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. White, died Monday after long illness, culminating in influenza. James had many friends here, who were sincerely sorry that so good a young man should be stricken down.

Samuel A. Holland, one of our older residents, passed away on Friday, Oct. 4th, of pneumonia, after a short illness. Mr. Holland was a man of quiet tastes, and had a pleasant word for all. Six children, all adults and living here, survive him.

Hammonton Branch of the Needlework Guild will hold its annual meeting on Thursday, Oct. 24th, in Odd Fellow's Hall, provided the ban against public gatherings is lifted. Mrs. Gibbons, of Ardmore, will be the speaker. Members are asked to see that garments are handed the Directors as soon as possible.

Adjourned Tax Sale

Notice is hereby given that the Sale for Unpaid Taxes has been adjourned until Saturday, October 12th, at 2.00 p.m., in Town Hall.

A. B. DAVIS, Collector, Sept. 28, 1918.

Health Notice.

Influenza is still on the increase. People are not realizing the actual danger. Your doctors are now overworked. One doctor is now making over fifty calls a day.

Keep away from infected houses and persons. You can be of little help. Keep happy. Keep well-clothed, drink plenty of water and lemonade, wash face and hands every chance you get. Gargle mouth and clean nose three or four times a day.

Don't ask your doctor to make calls if you can go to his office for medicine. Insp.

A Call For Prayer.

In the absence of public worship in our Churches to-morrow, and realizing the great need of Divine help in these days of sorrow, let all unite in prayer to-morrow at eleven o'clock, petitioning that the hand of death may be stayed, that the sufferers may be returned to health again, that the sorrowing may be comforted; and that His arm may be about our boys at the battle front, giving them victory and a safe return home.

Charles C. DeMarco, one of the junior members of Town Council, a Justice of the Peace, contractor and builder, an active Republican worker, and one of the brightest of the young Italian citizens, died on Saturday last, of pneumonia. He was well-liked by all, was progressive in his ideas, and exerted considerable influence for good among his people.

To the Voters of Hammonton:

I have been a resident of this town for thirty years, and off and on for twenty years I have worked on the roads of Hammonton. Owing to the experience I have had in this work, and listening to the solicitation of friends to run for the office Overseer of Highways, I offer myself as a candidate. I will run on stickers, and I shall thank all of those who will vote for me at the coming election. If I am elected, I pledge myself to do good, honest work.

Yours sincerely,

FRANK SCAMOFFO.

Paid for by Frank Scamoffo.

To the Voters:

I wish to announce to citizens that I am a candidate for Overseer of Highways. I have had considerable experience in road work, and being a long resident of the town, believe myself to be qualified to fill the position acceptably. Soliciting your support on Nov. 5th, I am,

Yours for good roads,

WM. R. WESCOAT.

THE WRONG TURN

By James Carlos Bowen

TURN left past stone watering trough and cross wooden bridge. Beth right past church on hill. Schoolhouse on other side of road. Long stretch of meadow ahead.
Dyer's Mills was 1.5 miles. That was what the road book said. Catherine read it carefully. Both, who were driving, took the turn as directed, increased the speed of the little automobile, and they purred on across the meadow. In the back seat Amy and Louise contentedly leaned against the cushions and admired the scenery.
They were college classmates, and all except Beth were from the West. The four were spending their summer vacation together at Beth's home in an old Massachusetts town, and on this day had set out in Beth's little car to visit a certain Cousin Will, recently married and settled on his uncle's old farm in northern New Hampshire. They greatly desired to see the young bride, and to see Cousin Will in the role of a young husband.
For this same Cousin Will had been very much a favorite with them all at the time of the Christmas reunion the year before, when he had visited Beth's family.

In half an hour they came to Dyer's Mills, but found the town apparently deserted. It was hazy, and the road a goal was in sight at the postoffice on the street; and Beth drove forth Cousin Will's letter, for further directions.

"It says," she announced, "that they live on a country road to the left of Dyer's Mills. So it must be this left hand turn."

They took the turn and drove on at a fairly good pace, for the road was getting low. Catherine took charge of the letter, and occasionally referred to it as they bumped on over the country road.

"From what he writes," Catherine said, "we shall know the place when we get there by the two tall Lombardy poplars in front of the house and a new bay window; and he says that the barn is on the other side of the road from the house."

"We can't miss that," Louise said and laughed. "Be on the lookout for two tall Lombardy poplars and that new bay window."

Again they rocked and bumped over the rough road, pulling up a hundred yards or more below the Hicks house.
The deputy and two of the men with him went forward to the house and knocked. A harsh voice that the girls at once recognized demanded to know who was there.

"The sheriff," replied Mr. Bascom.
"I have a warrant to search this house."

"Show your head inside and I'll blow it off!" was the prompt answer.
The deputy in the name of the law ordered him to open the door.

"That's all very well," broke in a strong-featured individual, "but for real and uncanny terror give me the howling of the lion, or the sharp tramping of the elephant, or the howl of the wolf, or the low, menacing hiss of the snake, creeping up on the still night air as you lie alone, inert, and helpless in a new-born babe."

"They looked at him with great interest. "Have you really slept in the jungle and heard these sounds?" asked one of the lanterns.

"Well, not exactly," he replied, as he bowed towards the door. "But I slept with my window wide open and my life is close to the Zoological Gardens."

There was a lot of talk about it at the time. A young fellow from one of the farms out that way had been paying attention to the girl and wishing to marry her. He had been driving him off because the old skink wanted the girl to stay and keep house for him. They say that a light took place there one night. Afterward Heinz told several persons that his stepdaughter had slept with Blaise—that was the young fellow's name.
Anyway, he and the girl disappeared.
Some suspected foul play, but nothing was done about it.

"You don't suppose that could have been the stepdaughter we heard crying out?" Both exclaimed.

"It doesn't seem very likely," said
the postmistress explained. "These young fellows heard a woman's deputy sheriff's house, and in response to their knocks he appeared at the door and asked somewhat gruffly what was wanted."

"There's some sort of trouble up at the Cephs Hicks place, Mr. Bascom," the postmistress explained. "These

Soy Bean Flour, a Little Known but Valuable Substitute

By U. S. Department of Agriculture

THE WAR situation, with its need for finding new foods and new uses for old foods, has fixed attention on the soy bean crop to such an extent that its name may be heard nowhere but in the kitchen. Soy beans have been used and liked in the United States for many years in those regions where they have been grown, and more recently have been used by canners for general trade.

The soy bean, which is well known in the Orient as a valuable food staple, contains much oil and no starch. Oil is obtained by pressing it out of the beans. This leaves a press cake, which still contains some oil and all the rest of the food material originally present in the beans. The cake is ready to use in flour, which is of high food value and can be used in many ways in cooking. It has been on the market to some extent for a long time, and used for special purposes. It is now becoming a considerable food item which is well worth knowing and using.

Experiments with the soy bean flour in the experimental kitchen at the Office of Home Economics show that palatable dishes can be made using this as one of the ingredients.

The soy bean flour can be used in practically all of the ways suggested for other wheat flour substitutes. In using it the housekeeper should remember that it is rich in protein and fat, and should be combined with starchy substances like rice, potatoes or corn flour. The use of this flour, as suggested in the recipes which follow, saves the wheat which would normally be used. Because it contains considerable fat no added fat is needed in the following recipes.

Soy Bean Biscuits.
One cup soy bean flour.
One cup wheat flour.
Four teaspoons baking powder.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-half to one-half cup water.
Mix and sift the dry ingredients and sufficient water to make a soft dough that is stiff enough to handle.
Roll and bake in a hot oven for fifteen minutes. Biscuits made with wheat flour substitutes are better if rolled slightly thicker than the dairy kind usually made.

THE LITTLE PHARISEE

By Janet Westcott Howell

FROM a comfortable little rocker in Mrs. Newton's cozy living room Letha Knowlton looked out at the February day.

"I really should be running along,"
she said, "but it's so good to be here, and I haven't seen you in weeks.
Letha and I have been wanting to run in some evening when Mr. Newton was at home, but we never seem to have any free time."

Mrs. Newton smiled. "It's hard to find a free evening. Don't think of going yet—you just got home as late as a good wife, and some tea after a while. It's only a few minutes after three."

Mrs. Newton was the principal of the large high school where Letha Knowlton taught, and the two women were warm friends.

"Isn't this Mr. and Mrs. Wade coming down the street?" asked Letha, looking out of the window.
"Are they coming here, do you suppose?"

Mrs. Newton's face showed Letha's thoughts. "No, they're not in the habit of fruit-fluting, and it was very evident that Letha regarded her politeness as a joke. Throughout the meal the talk was of other things. Letha and

STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

TRENTON, NEW JERSEY

October 5th, 1918

Instructions to Local Boards of Health for the Restriction on the

Spread of INFLUENZA

To Local Boards of Health:

Influenza is now epidemic in all sections of this State. The causative agent of this disease is contained in the excretions of the throats and noses of persons who are suffering from or who are carriers of the infection. The congregation of people in crowds increases the liability of the exchange of these secretions.

In order to restrict the further spread of influenza, local boards of health are hereby instructed, under authority contained in Chapter 288 of the Laws of 1915:

1. To prevent, as far as practicable, all public gatherings during the duration of this epidemic of influenza, and for this purpose to order closed all churches, theatres, moving picture houses, dance halls, pool rooms, lodge rooms, saloons, soda fountains and other places where numbers of people congregate.
2. To advise the Board of Education to close schools whenever, in the judgment of the local board of health, the prevalence of the disease in the locality makes this procedure advisable.
3. To advise the public to avoid unnecessary travel in public conveyances and to refrain from social activities which will result in the gathering together of numbers of people.
4. To require that all cases of influenza and pneumonia should be isolated in bed during the acute stage of the disease and that all discharges from the throat and nose shall be disinfected.
5. To prohibit public funerals of persons who have died of influenza and pneumonia.
6. To prohibit the use of common towels, and to enforce the law forbidding the use of common drinking cups.
7. To require that all eating utensils which are used for more than a single service in places where food and drink is offered for sale, shall, after each use, be boiled or cleansed in some other equally efficient manner.

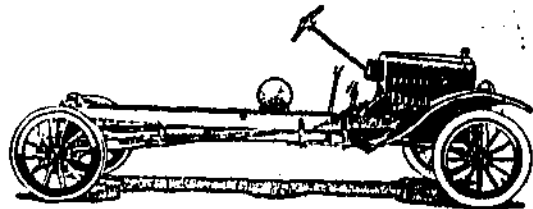

In some places where overcrowding exists due to an abnormally large transient population, hospital facilities will be urgently needed, and boards of health in such localities are urged to arrange for medical and nursing service and provide hospital accommodations for those who cannot procure proper care and treatment in their homes. The U. S. Public Health Service is prepared to furnish medical relief in places where it is most needed. Application for assistance should be made to this office.

J. C. PRICE, M. D., Director of Health.

Monuments Headstones and Markers Finished and Ready To Letter and Erect Immediately.

Now is the opportunity to purchase a cemetery memorial. We have over 500 completed monuments, headstones, markers, corner posts, etc., in our warehouse and show yards in Camden and Pleasantville, the largest and the finest stock we ever carried. We manufactured these goods prior to the present advance in price of material and labor and are selling them much less in price than we can manufacture them to-day and because of this these goods are being sold rapidly.

Call at our yards in Pleasantville or Camden and make your selection. We are equipped with every labor-saving device to letter and erect them promptly. We have the electric crane, surface cutter, polishing mill, pneumatic tools, plug drills, etc., and can manufacture most anything you want in special work, as we also have a large supply of rough stock on hand for this purpose.

Call and purchase now. Orders are coming in so fast we expect to have all we can handle this year by Nov. 1st and the sooner you call the better display you will have to select from.

The government has placed the monumental business on the non-essential list and if they force our mechanics to change to essential work manufacturers of monuments will have to close their plants until after the war. This will mean goods in our line cannot be secured until after the war at any price and conditions will be such that for many years thereafter the price must be in advance of present prices, therefore, it is to your interest to purchase immediately.
