Hammonton Schools are divided as follows, with Rhyland E. Salisbury as Supervising Principal:

No. 1, High School, Miss Caroline E. Alden, Preceptress; Miss Ora W. Salisbury, first assistant and music. Second Grammar, Miss Eunice H. Brown, teacher. First Grammar, Miss Mary P. Conkey. Second Primary, Miss Helen F. Backus. First Primary, Miss Lydia B. Hewitt. Kindergarten, Mrs. D. B. Berry.

No. 2, Main Road, Miss Henrietta R. Brown.

No. 3, Union Road, Miss Nellie Tudor.

No. 4, Middle Road, Miss Nora B. Monfort.

No. 5, Lake, Miss Mabel Dorphley.

No. 6, Magnolia, Mark A. Pressey.

No. 7, Rosedale, James P. Scullin.

Of course we were disappointed that our choice for Assemblyman--M. L. Jackson--was not nominated. Hammonton was entitled to the office this year, and was promised it by men who should have influence enough to control the delegations; but words are cheap, and a historical personage once intimated that all men are--not truthful, and our delegation found the situation complicated. Capt. Wesley C. Smith, reluctantly accepted the nomination. He is said to be a worthy man, upright in all his dealings, well qualified. Let's do our best, give him a rousing majority, and thus heal all divisions.

"Many of the citizens of Rainsville, Indiana are never without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house," says Jacob Brown, the leading merchant of the place. "This Remedy has proven of so much value for colds and croup in children that few mothers who know its worth are willing to be without it. For sale by druggists."

The Weather:

Special Forecast for New Jersey.

Lower temperature, heavy frosts, and high thin winds, are predicted for South Jersey, especially in the vicinity of Hammonton. Vessel owners, landlords, farmers, business and professional people would do well to make immediate provision for cold wave, purchasing stoves, ranges, and heaters from S. E. Brown & Co., whose goods are known to be the best of their class. All stations in territory described will continue to display cold wave signal till further orders.

By order
A. D. V. R., Supt.

Doctor S. DeMill and wife, of English Creek, will soon occupy their residence (the Ellis place) on Bellevue Avenue. The doctor comes here to regain his health, but will not practice his profession.

Fire drill, this (Saturday) evening, at 7:30 o'clock. Bell will tap at 7 o'clock. All firemen are requested to be present in full uniform.

By order of Fire Marshal,
S. E. BROWN.

Fred Schuchardt has been re-nominated for Assemblymen by the Democrats. Well, the only thing we have to say against Mr. S. is that he is a Democrat. We want only Republicans on guard at Capitol next Winter.

The D. F. Lawson house, on Orchard Street is for sale at a reasonable price, partly furnished, on easy terms. This is a handsome house, well finished, good location. Call at this office. Will be rented, to a choice tenant, subject to sale.

It may not be generally known, but they say that a trolley road is to be built from Camden to Atlantic City; has already reached Kirkwood, and will pass through Hammonton south west of the Reading road, in the vicinity of "Boston Heights."

Brother Hall, of the Times Democrat, in his report of the Democratic County Convention, omitted the most important resolution of all, viz: the ninth resolution, offered by Wm. Rutherford, and adopted unanimously,--censuring United States Senators Smith and McPherson, for their gross sell-out to the sugar trust, and recommending hereafter the election of U. S. Senators by direct vote of the people. Why not publish it, Bro. Hall?

"I would rather trust that medicine than any doctor I know of," says Mrs. Hattie Mason, of Chilton, Carter Co., Mo., in speaking of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. For sale by druggists.

SATURDAY, OCT. 20, 1894.

Republican Nominations.

For Congressman,

Hon. John J. Gardner.

For Assemblyman,

WESLEY C. SMITH,

Of Absecon.

For Coroner,

George Seuff,

Of Egg Harbor City.

J. C. KILLIAN.

I wish to publicly thank my many friends throughout the County for their support at the recent Republican Convention.

Although the situation was controlled as usual by Atlantic City, the nominees for Assembly, Capt. Wesley C. Smith, is a straightforward, upright man, and I hope all my friends will do all in their power to increase his majority.

M. L. JACKSON.

A rally of the Y. P. S. C. E. of Hammononton, at the Presbyterian church on Wednesday evening, Oct. 24th, at 7:30. An interesting programme will be provided. Everybody is invited.

At the Baptist Church to-morrow evening, Pastor Killian will preach especially to the young people, who are cordially invited. Topic, "The battle of life."

The first frost of today account, this season, was seen on Tuesday morning. It was not heavy and did no material damage, but made farmers bustle to get their sweet potatoes out of the ground.

New advertisements this week: Frank E. Roberts, groceries; E. Stockwell, closing out specialties; Walter H. Ellis, bicycles; M. L. Jackson, pork and sausage; J. S. Thayer, music teacher.

The Ladies' Social Circle of the Universalist Church will give one of their favorite Bean Suppers, with entertainment, in the church, on Thursday evening, Oct. 25th. Admission, Twenty-five cents.

During church service, last Sunday evening, while all the family were away, John McCullough's house, at Folsom, was entirely destroyed by fire.

Very little was saved, merely a few articles from the front room. Loss stated at $1500, with only $900 insurance. The origin of the fire is not known, but is supposed to have caught from a defective chimney.

The Fire Company met on Monday evening with President J. M. Austin in the chair. Roll called and those present noted:

Sam'l Anderson, Jr., S. B. Holland, Wm. C. Andrews, Geo. King, J. M. Austin, James W. Logan, Mauley Austin, F. A. Lehman, Chas. W. Austin, Chas. Myers, Wm. H. Bernhouse, John Marshall, S. E. Brown, E. W. Westerland, A. T. Briggs, John Stokes, John Baker, E. L. Tills, John Diger, Edw. J. Trafford, H. M. Holland, John Walters.

Minutes of last meeting read and approved. Committee on proposition of Wm. Hood and D. S. Cunningham reported favorably. Report received and the candidates balloted for and elected.

Messrs. E. L. Titus and Herman Fiedler made application to be placed on the retired list, having served seven years. Wm. C. Andrews was excused from meetings and fire drills on account of his work for the Reading Railroad. Receipts for the evening, $6.75.

Adjourned. C. W. AUSTIN, Sec'y.

List of uncollected letters in the Hammononton Post-Office, on Saturday, Oct. 20th, 1894:

As dear men crave for song, and blind for sight,
As weary sons of toil long for the night,
And as the fettered spirit longs for flight,
I long for—thee.
—London Spectator.

BY HARRY W. FRENCH

It was not very dry, either in her jungle lair or in the large camp, when ordered to start at a distant point and informed that a detachment of troops bound for the same destination, would cross the broad belt of jungle above the lateral upon a certain day, passing within ten miles of the place where I was then stationed.

It was a rare opportunity to see someone of the wildest country in India, and, sending my servants and luggage by a longer and more traveled road, I mounted my horse at daylight upon the appointed day and rode out into the jungle alone to join the detachment.

It is astonishing how quickly discomfort will dispel the apprehension of danger. Before it had been dark an hour I began to consider the chances of meeting no matter what as more agreeable than the bed I had selected.

A heavy dew was forming. I was cold and wet besides being decidedly tired and sleepy, and recalled with many longings a cave which I had noticed not far away. With my saddle on a pillow and my blanket for a mat upon the smooth, dry floor, which was visible just inside the mouth, I should be almost as well off as in a native bungalow.

For two or three times in the night woke enough to change my position and fall asleep again, but when the south of the cave showed a faint gray light, I awoke with a painful start.
 Morning, I woke suddenly, all overcome from some sort of a dream, and found myself in a most uncomfortable state of apprehension. In vain I tried to shake the dream from my mind, all the effect of the dream. I pinched myself and turned and twisted the saddle, but all to no purpose. Something or other had given me such a thorough fright that further sleep was impossible. No more sleep was to be mine. I could not imagine that it was anything at all, yet I felt my courage steadily ebbing and cold shivers creeping up and down my limbs, the spite of every energy of will.

came to conviction that something was making that noise, and I lay down in the darkness beyond me.

By that time my imagination was thoroughly aroused and my nerves completely under its control that I was in a state of delirium. I was indeed I did collapse, a moment later when my eyes sought that blackness and suddenly rested upon two great yellow balls of glowing light down the pitchy depths of the cave.

What was that? What can be doing my back. Whatever it was behind those eyes, it had me at rare advantage, for it could doubtless see in the slightest motion against the light that I was making. I was so sure that were those two balls of yellow fire.

It was some time before my senses reached a reasonable state where

I did not dare to look away for a moment. I instantly after I once discovered the whereabouts of my neighbor, but just as I was there, with my face turned away from the entrance, estimating the chances of my making a leap out of the cave and a dash for my life, I saw a man in a white shirt and trousers suddenly came to the conclusion that I was the creature meant, business, and did not wish to part with me, the chanceman, for in my favor would be about as many chances as a mouse would have on a smooth floor with a cat behind him, no hole in front. If not, I was doubtless as well off there as anywhere, so I decided to sit still and see what would come of it. Slowly it grew lighter, and little by little poached horn, protruded from the massive paw under her chin. "Aha! you treacherous beauty." I said to myself, then suddenly paused to think of the revolver under the blanket, and wonder if, after all, she were not quite as honorable about it as I.

It was a long time before she moved at all. Then very deliberately, and with the most evident satisfaction, she began to lick her bewinked lips and those two great paws. With a shudder of horror I noticed that she was content with blood, but secondly covered her mouth with her tongue.

She closed the operation by sitting erect, and I felt justified in doing the same.

"A comical look of surprise crept over her face as she watched me. She hung her head on one side, partially closing one eye, then hung it on the other outside in a scrutiny that under some circumstances would have been ludicrously amusing."

"Her curiosity was evidently aroused. Cautiously, she came a little nearer, making my blood run cold. She sniffed the blanket, poking it gently with her paw. Another step and the handsome animal would have been in my arms."

"Evidently she was not hungry, but from pure curiosity bent upon investigation, and as if I could only have in-

For an instant every muscle glinted and she stood stock still, evidently in doubt. I, too, was very serious in doubt, but the next moment I seemed to realize that the sensation I was experiencing was not a premonition in a gigantic way that sounded like the first thunder of an August afternoon. Seeing that she enjoyed it I pushed a little harder, and when I sensed a little more of the same I pushed harder after the fashion of a large cat—a most admirable companion of my boyhood. I began to scratch in right good earnest and in less than ten minutes had almost finished. Maximite, the New Explosive.
A new explosive called maximite was invented by Hudson Maxim, was tested the other day in Harlem, New York City. The inventor claims that on ounce of maximite is equal to one hundred of black powder, and that from ten to twenty seven ounces of the explosive is equal to four to a pound of dynamite. The tests showed that the explosive will not freeze, that it is smokeless and does not ignite easily. Ninety thousand cases of this new explosive are

A quantity of the medicine was placed in a nail of ice and salt together with a bottle of water. The water froze solid, but the cold had no effect upon the maximate, which was taken from the ice and exploded.—St. Louis Star-Saying.

A Small Fortune in Apricots.
A. E. Newby will make a small fortune this season out of Ventura apricots. He has just paid his freight 200 tons, for which he paid $15 a ton, or $3,000. He will make 300 tons of dried fruit, worth $240 a ton. After making expenses he will doubtless clear up $30,000 or $40,000 out of the venture.—Ventura (Cal.) Free Press.

THE NEXT NAVAL BATTLE

an Affair of a Few Minutes With Survivors to Tell the Tale.

There has not been an engagement between two fleets since the days of the sailing ships, and the replacement of the wooden walls by heavily armed battleships; and the ability of the latter to withstand the shock of onset was not only a tactical but a moral writer in the United States Service has predicted that ironclads will in short work of one another. A battle will last ten minutes. The fleet will be composed of a hundred or a combined rate of 28 knots an hour, two and a half or three minutes to elapse before the fleets meet, will involve the most tremendous and agonizing tension. The combatants forward in the terrible battle

The big guns will be discharged within 500 or 600 yards. The detonation of their huge shells will probably, in the explosion of a powder magazine, reduce the already wrecked ship to a hopeless chaos, destroying all her organization and the nerve thread that conveys the captain's orders to the engine-room. Even if the armor resists the blow, the shaking the transmission of an ironclad, one of the most delicate work, would probably, if it did not hurl it overboard, stun or kill every man in it and wreck all its complicated mechanism. This will con-wreck the largest warship ad-

such accuracy that nine success-shots were recently planted in a sp-

These guns are meant for coast defense, but it will be but a short time until they are adapted for use on ships. When things get to that point that two navies, three miles apart, can can with a single discharge blow each criminality of war will bring about its own end. That says the Montreal

The Blackfeet make them with anklet a long tongue. Anklets, frequently colored cloth, horse-haired and bands three prongs from the heel, are made of sheep's hair, marking the toes, and each prong represents a band. Blackfeet, Bloods and Piegiens. A Startling Adventure Which Turns tracks of a railroad. The sound of an approaching train was what my father William-on-trouble... He was calling William to the aid of the young man, watching everything, promised him support, hoping to do some hold to which he could elude until the horror that threatened him had come and gone.

Nearer and nearer he rolled to the foot of the mountain, gashing petrol as he went, and then the air from the engine smote his face; the clods blinded him; he made frantic dives into the earth and bled himself; he made the tracks low just as the last car whizzed him, and, while, missed him.

thought to the subject. Mr. Carlyle and Lord Tennyson smoked pipe because they were men enough to smoke pipes—but we do not, suppose, that cigarettes would have made a decadent of Mr. Carlyle or an impressionist" of Sir Joshua Reynolds. The style and character of Sir J. B. MacCarthy remained the same, whether he drank lemonade and tea, or port and quinine.

Old Satchells boldly avers that MacCarthy "brandy makes the poet, but his poetry would have had the same complexion had he regaled his muse with whisky or champagne and crotolans but favorite dishes," we know a great deal, but are psychosocially not too far apart. Appreciation of cookery does not account for the state-male qualities or defects of James. Whatever Mr. Gladstone's favorite food may be, probably none of it is "meat-and-read," "eat or celebrate" by Homer, and it is not to be thought that he takes graced cheese in his claret, like Nestor. In short, food and genius have nothing to do with each other. The great poets, novelists are not to be distinguished at dinner time from mere critics. Saturday Review.

Persons who are familiar with the country know where to find in their cut and mounted any idea of the difficulties involved in the search by those who would penetrate the interior of that part of the Andes where the celebrated emerald mines are situated. The scenery is of extraordinary beauty, but in two days' riding the traveler is obliged to follow some of the most treacherous mountain paths, and the way over precipices where a single step would dash him to his death.

The emerald mines, says Albert Reclus in "Travels and Adventures in the Andes," are situated in the highlands of the north, in a basin

Very minerals are found in the same, but by cutting down the veins, the precious veins of crystals are uncovered; this is calcite, a crystallized form of lime. The emeralds sometimes embedded, and some of the best of the world are cut by cutting down the side of the mountain, and the work is done by natives, mostly poor.

Still a Baby at Eighteen.—A young Frances, the daughter of Mr. Mrs. Henry, of 1012 Aspen street, Philadelphia, who was born May 18th, child at birth was an unusually tall and well developed baby, says the inquirer, and for the first eight months she showed signs of the abnormality in children. There was no complaint of growth, no lack of appetite or anything else that could for a moment make either the parents or any one attending to her, doubt the fact that it was not natural and normal in respect. Indeed, in health and attitude the little one has never been in any trouble. At the age of 8 years, when her development was fairly physical, stopped at together, and the little one would, in a few days or probably a few months, reward the mother thought was a waste of energy. Time went on and the child improved. Local doctors, specialists and doctors innumerable visited and consulted, but all to no avail in giving the child renewed life. Everything possible has been done to make the little one comfortable, and she seems as happy and bright as any as the ordinary babe. She is but little, even when placed beside the house. She is happy and she hears other children singing and playing around her and will hum herself. One of her eyes has

NOTICE OF REGISTRATION AND ELECTION.

Notice is hereby given that the several Boards of Registry and Election of Atlantic County will meet on at the place where the next election in their district will be held at ten o'clock in the morning and remain in session (recess from one to two o'clock) until nine o'clock in the evening, for the purpose of making up from the canvassing books two lists or registers of the names, residences, and street numbers if any, of all persons in their respective election districts entitled to the right of suffrage therein at the next election, or who shall personally appear before them for that purpose, or who shall be shown to the satisfaction of such Board of Registry and Election to have legally voted in that election district at the last preceding election therein for a member of the general assembly, or who shall be shown by the affidavit in writing of some voter in that election district to be a legal voter therein.

And notice is hereby further given that the said Board of Registry and Election will also meet on Tuesday, October 30th, 1894, at the place of their former meeting, at the hour of one o'clock in the afternoon, and remain in session until nine o'clock in the evening, for the purpose of revising and correcting the original registers, of adding thereto the names of all persons entitled to the right of suffrage in that election district at the next election who shall appear in person before them or who shall be shown by the written affidavit of some voter in said election district to be a legal voter therein, and of erasing therefrom the name of any person who, after a fair opportunity to be heard, shall be shown not to be entitled to vote therein, by reason of non-residence or otherwise.

And notice is hereby further given that the Court of Common Pleas will be in session in the Court House at May's Landing on Thursday, Nov. 1st, 1894, for the purpose of revising and correcting the aforesaid register of voters, by ordering erased therefrom the name of any person who shall be shown to the satisfaction of the Court, for any cause, not to be entitled to vote at the next election in the election district where he is registered, and of adding to said registers the names of any person or persons who shall prove to the satisfaction of the said Court, by affidavit or otherwise, his right to vote at the ensuing election.

And notice is hereby further given that the next general election will be held on Tuesday, November 6th, 1894, commencing at six o'clock in the morning and closing at seven o'clock in the evening.

Done in accordance with an act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, entitled A "further supplement to an act to regulate elections," approved May 27th, 1890, and the amendments thereto.

Giovanna Balista Buocella, an Italian laborer, on Monday evening made a criminal assault upon Lizzie Colombo, a nine-year-old girl. The child's screams brought help, her brother mauled the villain unmercifully, her father choked him half to death, then the two tied his hands and brought him before Squire Atkinson, where he acknowledged his crime, was locked up over night, and in the morning sent to May's Landing in Constable Bernshouse's care. The father said: "I first thought I would kill him, but remembered that I would be punished, and had better let the Squire take charge of him." The culprit is a villainous-looking fellow, and from his own statements needs to be taken care of. In his pocket was found a heavy wooden handled table knife, ground sharp and to a point, in a metal sheath,—a murderous weapon.

A country editor, in a fit of desperation, dashed off the following: The wind bloweth, the water floweth, the farmer soweth, and the Lord knoweth that we are in need of our dues. So come a runnin', ere we go a-gunnin', for this thing o' dunning' gives us the blues.

There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended, as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Hardly a week passes but some member of the family needs it. A toothache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism or neuralgia quieted. The severe pain of a burn or scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment, before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept at hand. A sore throat can be cured before it becomes serious. A very troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or so. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved, or a pain in the side or chest relieved without paying a doctor bill. Procure a 50 cent bottle at once, and you will never regret it. For sale by druggists.
