CLOTHING that will appeal to you

If you appreciate good clothes, and at the same time look over thoroughly the suit or overcoat you buy,—see that the inside trimmings, as well as the outside cloth, shall be the right kind; see that it fits right, and that style is not put aside. Our Clothing will comply with such a close and critical examination. And, by the way, note the prices of Suits and Overcoats, and see if you are not saving a few dollars.

Men's Suits at $10, in many patterns, either single or double breasted.

Men's fine suits at $12 and $12.50, in black and fancy worsteds.

Men's suits at $15 and $16, of new style of striped black goods, and also in mixed goods.

Men's Cravenettes at $10, $12, and $15. They are very popular this season. Let us show you one.

Young men's suits at $5, $6, $9, $10.

Men's suits at $7.50, of splendid wearing materials.

For swell and neat dressers we know of nothing better than the Stein Bloch Suits, and if you see the make, style, and fit, and note that they are made of pure wool, you will admit that there are none better.

We have them at $15, $18, $20, $23, $25 and $28.

Dutchess Trousers. Do you know in what they differ from all other trousers? Every pair, from $2 up, is guaranteed: ten cents if a button comes off; one dollar or a new pair if they rip. Price, $2, $2.50, $3, $3.25, $4, $4.25, $4.50, and $5.

Dutchess Working Pants at 95 c, $1.25, and $1.50

OLD Favorites

The rain's the dreadful thunder,
The clouds were rent asunder,
By thunder's bitter powers;
The night was dark and dark,
Our poor devoted bark,
Till next day there she lay
In the Bay of Biscay, O!

New daisies upon the billow,
Our opening timbers crack;
The waves were wailing pines;
None stops the dreadful bark,
No eling to alighty shores
Each breathless seaman crows,
As he lies in the Bay of Biscay, O!

At length the wish'd for morrow
Broke through the haze;
Alas! in silent sorrow,
Such heav'd a bitter sight
The dismal scene to view
Hurl'd horror to the crew,
As she lay on that day,
In the Bay of Biscay, O!

Her yielding timbers sever,
Her plucky sides are rent,
When heaven, all bounteous even,
Her bow'd her sides to rent,
A sail in sight appears,
We hail her with three cheers;
Now we sail with the gale,
Till the Bay of Biscay, O!

The light of other days,
The light of other days,
For grief with heavy wing hath shaded,
The light of other days,
The world which morning's mantle
Shines forth with purer rays,
But the heart ever feels in sorrow
The light of other days.

The light of other days,
The light of other days,
For grief with heavy wing hath shaded,
The light of other days,
The world which morning's mantle
Shines forth with purer rays,
But the heart ever feels in sorrow
The light of other days.

The Would-Be Greats.

"If I had John D.'s money," said the son of a swain,
I'd make the people happy from Oregon
to Maine;

Instead of always trying to pile up more and more I'd make the world quite cheerful at my side's door.

And when hard-worked people were robbed of all their Because dishonest bankers absconded, I'd be glad

To give them back the money I took them years to save;
I'd help the weeping orphan and teach him to be brave.

I'd make the whole world brighter and cause the sun to shine
More kindly on the people if John D.'s charity was mine.

But I'm a swain,
Just like John D., you see,
And talks about what he would do if he were rich John D.

"If I was John D.," said Dan
Hutchinson,
I'd be long in getting the grand
dukes on the run;

I'd make the world happy by granting every wish;
And every day I'd mingle among 'em,
And skin 'em.

I'd give 'em a republic and be their protector;
If that alone would suit 'em, and everywhere I went

I'd bet you that they'd bless me; they'd throw their hands away
And peace 'ud start to reign in trouble is to-day.

I'd stop the strikes and riots, and people near and far
Would honor me and love me, if I could be the czar.

But Dan cannot drop
His work to go and stop
The trouble other people have he runs a better shop.

"If I was in the White House," said
William Henry Cook,
I'd bet you those relations would get it in the neck.

Now, kind, I don't say 'Tiddy ain't doin'
fairly well,
But I'd cut 'em with 'em if I was him a spell.

I'd ask 'em to the railroads, and in a little while I'd make 'em carry people for half a cent
a mile.

That's plenty, and they know it; if I was them things
I'd look 'em to their mortal And, as for taxes, they'd shiver.

"I'd be 'clipped to-morrow,' exclaims wouldn't you?
I'll say that 'Tiddy's honest; he might be rather, though."

But William Henry's life
Is spent far from the strife
Of public office he remains at home and minds his wife.

FLIES CARRY BACTERIA.

Tests Show that They Are Capable of Spreading Disease.

The story that flies were entirely harmless and were useful in the role of scavengers was prevalent for many years. But with the coming of bacteriology this was exploded and the fly was looked at askance, though the exact amount of harm which the fruiting insect did was unknown, says the New York Herald.

There have been many experiments made to ascertain this fact, but the most recent were carried on at Johns Hopkins University. A box which had been divided into two parts was prepared. In one side was exposed some food material, which was infected with a species of harmless bacteria easily as soon as they were seen to alight upon or eat of the food which had been infected. The result was that the bacteria which had been deposited there and produced characteristic colonies.

These experiments were further carried out by placing a dish of molasses with which had been a mixed yellow bacteria in one side of the box with a dozen flies. Half an hour later the door connecting the two sides were opened and the flies allowed to come in contact with the sterile nutrient. As soon as this was accomplished the dish was covered and put away to develop. A few days later it was examined and a hundred colonies of yellow bacteria had formed on the sterile nutrient. The same experiment was repeated with red and violet cultures with the same result. It was proved that the germs from which these colonies grew came from the infected material in the first compartment and not from accidental sources. Other groups of flies were allowed to come in contact with the nutrient, but with no result. The result was that the dishes of nutrient in this case produced no colonies.

THE FUTURE CZAR OF RUSSIA.

This picture of the future Czar of Russia, only son of Czar Nicholas, was taken at Ekaterinburg, fifteen miles from St. Petersburg. At the time the little fellow was practically a prisoner.

"I had John D.'s money," said the son of a swain,
I'd make the people happy from Oregon to Maine;
Instead of always trying to pile up more and more

A Little Lesson In Patriotism

Frederick Lyman Tremaine was still a student in college when the firing on Fort Sumter aroused the North and South to war. His only desire was to give his services for the union, but his father refused to allow him to enlist because of his extreme youth. It was in vain that he protested his desire. When the President's second call for troops, Tremaine's first duty was to assist in the defense of the fortifications around Washington. For fifteen months he devoted himself zealously to this work. The exposure and the climate told on him and he was stricken with typhoid fever.

After his recovery he was placed in the cavalry. His first battle was the terrible one of the Wilderness, and in that he distinguished himself by the most gallant conduct, under fire. He won honors at Chickamauga. It was in this battle that a spent shell was hurled against him, wounding him severely. Throughout the entire campaign he fought bravely and in every one of his battles, and in every one of his battles he displayed his courage and disregard of his own life when he might be able to win the fight.

It was in the battle of Hatcher's Run on the 10th of February, 1865, that Tremaine received the wound that caused his death two days later. He died in the City Point Hospital, Virginia, giving up his life for the cause he served almost at the time that the cause was won.

FARMERS' WAYS IN JAPAN.

How They Live, Work and Have Their Belongings.

Straw which American farmers throw away Japanese farmers would utilize. The average shoe usually lasts about eight miles of travel.

In Japan in former times it was usual to measure the distance by the number of shoes it took to cover the distance. The Japanese farmer usually dwells in a comfortable, rustic, thatched-roof house, without a particle of dirt.

The transparent paper walls of his house, made of bark from the mistle-bush, are as white as snow and light and keeps out the wind.

He enjoys good food served in dainty but inexpensive dishes made of native woods.

Even in the houses of the poorest there are no visible signs of poverty. There is no square in agricultural Japan. The humblest peasant farmer is clean, industrious and comfortable.

The area of fence corners abandoned in many American farms to wild weeds, pig roots, etc., would furnish a comfortable living to a Japanese farmer.

In Japan, when a Japanese farmer receives a telegraph pole to be erected, he usually uses it to support a great cornucopia to modern reform.

Only the exceedingly rich have fences around their farms. Not because of the cost of the fence, but the value of the ground the post and picket would consume.

If a border is required it is customary to plant mulberry trees.

A farm laborer only receives from 10 to 15 cents a day and rice, but, nevertheless, is happy and contented.

Frederick Cook.

"And now," said the young man who loved and won, "I suppose I'll go to my father."

"Oh, that's necessary," replied the girl; "just put on a bold front and ask an interview with mother."

DID NOT TALK POLITICS.

A deaf and dumb man who lived in Virginia described in Mr. Wise's book, "Recollections of the Civil War," in connection with a kind act of President Cleveland.

The man's name was Turner. He was in a way, a remarkable character. He broke down with a stroke and lay down, and though he could not yell at them and confuse them, as so many dog-breakers do, his pupils were singularly well trained. He was a man of unusual intelligence, interested in literature and in politics.

After Harrison's election he was made postmaster at the little town where he lived. It was the place above all others for which he was fitted. No instruction or requirement of the department escaped him, and his office was a model in respect to reports, details and the observance of requirements. He was the proudest man I ever saw. Outraining that little office and finding that his work in it was so satisfactory, gave him a new hope in life.

When Mr. Cleveland came back into power, the Virginia Democratic Congressmen gave notice that "the victors belong the spoils." Poor old Turner wrote me doleful letters, saying that he would surely be turned out.

One cold evening in the winter before Mr. Cleveland's inauguration, I found myself standing by the side of Mr. Cleveland at the Rector Station in New York. It was snowing.

"Ah, Mr. President," I said, "this is an unexpected pleasure! Unless you are so proud of your victory that you will not speak to Republicans."

"Hello, Wise!" said he. "Oh, no, I'm not so proud."

"Mr. President," said I, "if any one had told me I should be talking to you, I should have resented it, but here I am among the earliest to ask a favor."

I then told him about the deafmute who was such a fine dog trainer. That interested him, particularly the way in which the man used his whistle and made signs with his hands. I then told him the story of his appointment and the pride he felt in his postoffice.

He listened attentively and finally said: "Of course, he ought not to be turned out. If it was you, of course you'd like to go. But robbing a poor fellow like that of the only thing he is fit for, would not be politic, but postmaster-general you see him, and if he doesn't help you, I will."

Mr. Cleveland remembered his promise, and when "Virginia Democrats" pressed almost too strong for the postmaster-general, the President interfered, and insisted that the deaf and dumb man should keep the office. Turner died in office after Mr. McKinley's election.

MRS. ARTHUR PAGE.

An American Woman of the British Smart Set.

We hear a great deal in one way or another about the pitiful failures and misadventures of American girls who marry foreigners. But there is another side to the story. ## THE LOWLY WAY.

The lowly life's the best life—not wantin' any wings; The prince have to be pleased; it's killin' time for kings; The king takes off the big crown, but never rests his head; The powder's on his pillow—the bomb's beneath his bed!

Notice of Registry of Voters and of a Primary Election and General Election.

Notice is hereby given that the several Boards of Registry and Election for the county of Atlantic, in Districts outside of cities having over thirty thousand inhabitants, will meet on Tuesday, September 4th, nineteen hundred and six, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, for the purpose of organization, and to proceed to make a complete canvass of all the legal voters residing in their districts entitled to vote therein at the next general election.

And notice is hereby further given that the said Boards of Registry and Election in Districts outside of cities having over thirty thousand inhabitants will also meet on Tuesday, Sept. 11th, 1906, at the polling places provided for holding the primary election and general election in their respective election districts at one o'clock in the afternoon, and continue in session until nine o'clock in the evening for the purpose of transcribing and making up from the canvassing books two lists of registers of the names to be arranged in alphabetical order, together with the residences of all persons in their respective election districts entitled to the right of suffrage at the next general election, or who shall personally appear before them for that purpose or who shall be shown to the satisfaction of said Board of Registry and Election by the affidavit in writing of some legal voter in that district to be a legal voter.

And notice is hereby further given that the said Boards of Registry and Election in all districts outside of cities having over thirty thousand inhabitants will also meet on Tuesday, Oct. 30, 1906, at the polling places provided for the holding of a primary election and general election in their respective districts at one o'clock in the afternoon, and continue in session until nine o'clock in the evening for the purpose of revising and correcting the original registers and of adding thereto the names of all persons entitled to the right of suffrage in that election district at the next election district who shall appear in person before them, or who shall be shown by the written affidavit of some voter in such election district to be a legal voter therein.

And notice is hereby further given that the Boards of Registry and Election in all districts in cities having a population exceeding thirty thousand, will meet on Tuesday, September 25, 1906, at the polling places provided for the holding of the primary election and general election in their respective election districts at one o'clock in the afternoon, and continue in session until nine o'clock in the evening, for the purpose of registering the names of all persons in their respective election districts entitled to right of suffrage therein at the next general election who shall personally appear before them for that purpose, and such other persons as shall be shown by the written affidavit of a voter resident in that same election district to be lawfully entitled to vote therein at the ensuing election.

And notice is hereby further given that Boards of Registry and Election in all districts in cities having a population exceeding thirty thousand will meet on Tuesday, October 9th, 1906, and on Tuesday, October 23rd, 1906, respectively, at the polling places provided for the holding of primary election and general election in their respective election districts at one o'clock in the afternoon and continue in session until nine o'clock in the evening, for the purpose of revising and correcting the register of voters, and of adding thereto the names of all persons entitled to right of suffrage in that election district at the next general election who shall appear in person before them and establish to the satisfaction of a majority of the Board that they are entitled to vote in that election district at the next general election therein, or who shall be shown by the written affidavit of a voter residing in the same election district to be so entitled.

And notice is hereby further given that a primary election will be held in EVERY ELECTION DISTRICT IN THE COUNTY OF ATLANTIC ON TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1906, between the hours of one o'clock in the afternoon and nine o'clock in the evening at the same day for the election of delegates to various conventions of political parties or for making nominations or for both, as the case may be.

Notice is hereby further given that the County Board of Elections for the county of Atlantic will be in session in the County Court House at May's Landing, New Jersey, on Thursday, November 1, 1906, and on Saturday, Nov. 3, 1906, from eight o'clock in the morning until five o'clock in the afternoon (recess from 12 o'clock until 2 o'clock) of said day for the purpose of revising and correcting the aforesaid register of voters by ordering erased therefrom the name or names of any person or persons who shall be shown to the satisfaction of said Board for any cause not to be entitled to vote at the next general election in the District wherein he is registered, and of adding to said registers the names of any persons who shall prove to the satisfaction of said Board, by affidavit or otherwise, his right to vote at the ensuing election.

And notice is hereby further given that the Justice of the Supreme Court assigned to hold the Atlantic County Circuit Court, and the Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, or one of said Justices, will be and hold a session of the Court of Common Pleas at the County Court House in May's Landing, on Monday, November 6th, 1906, from eight o'clock in the forenoon to five o'clock in the afternoon, to revise and correct the registry of election of the several election districts of Atlantic co.

And notice is hereby further given that the Justice of the Supreme Court assigned to hold the Atlantic county circuit court, and the Judge of the Court of common pleas of Atlantic county, or one of said Justices, will sit and hold a session of the Court of common pleas at the Court House in May's Landing on Tuesday, November 6th, 1906, from eight o'clock in the forenoon to seven o'clock in the evening, to inquire whether a person is entitled to vote in the election district in which he is registered.

And notice is hereby further given that the next general election will be held on Tuesday, November 6th, 1906, commencing at six o'clock in the morning and closing at seven o'clock in the evening.

Done in accordance with an Act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, entitled "An act to regulate elections," Revision of 1898, approved April 4, 1898, and the supplements thereto and amendments thereof.

OAK HALL

If you have not bought your fall suit, don't fail to see the OAK HALL stock.

Men's suits begin at $10 for an all-wool black cheviot and end at $30 for the very finest suit in high-grade worsted.

We're putting the emphasis on the line we're showing at $15. It is the best range we've offered for years at this popular price. The fabrics are dark hard twisted worsteds. The fit, linings and tailoring are strictly first class.

It makes a very safe investment for the man who wants his money to tell to the utmost.

Young Men's Clothing

An exceptionally clever showing in chevots and worsteds at $12, $15 and $16.50.

Boys' Suits With Knee Trousers

In Sizes 8 to 17 Years

These suits are cut on the same lines as the clothing for young men. For example, even in clothing for boys, the coats carry the broad shoulders, form fitting back (if desired) and flare skirt. $4.50 to $12.

Boys' Sailor and Russian Suits, in the new cloths. It is not too early to think of a fall reefer or overcoat for your boy. Everything in top notch shape in the department for boys' clothing.

Upon the purchase of a certain amount we pay excursion cartfare to Philadelphia and return.
