Campaign Notes.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Oct. 24, 1912.

What Roosevelt accomplished while President:

1. Holliver-Hepburn railroad act, enabling the Interstate Commerce Commission to control the railroad rates.

2. Extension of forest reserves.

3. National Irrigation act.

4. Improvement of waterways, and preservation of water power sites.

5. Employers' liability act.

6. Safety appliance act.

7. Regulation of hours of labor of railroad employes.

8. Establishment of Department of Commerce and Labor.

9. Pure food and drugs act.

10. Federal meat inspection.

11. Navy doubled in tonnage and greatly increased in efficiency.

12. Battleship fleet sent around the world.

13. State militia brought into co-ordination with army.

14. Canal Zone acquired, and actual work of construction begun on Panama Canal.

15. Development of civil self-government in insular possessions.

16. Second intervention in Cuba, the island restored to Cuba.

17. Financial affairs of San Domingo straightened out.

18. Alaska boundary line dispute settled.

19. Reorganization of Consular service.

20. Settlement of the coal strike of 1902.

21. Government upheld in Northern securities decision.

22. Conviction of post-office grafters and public land thieves.

23. Directed investigation of Sugar Trust customs frauds and the resultant prosecutions.

24. Suits begun against Standard Oil and Tobacco Trusts for violation of Sherman Law.

25. Corporations forbidden to contribute to campaign funds.

26. Keeping the door of China open to American commerce.

27. Bringing about close of the Russo-Japanese war, by the treaty of Portsmouth.

28. Avoided threatened hostility created by Pacific coast prejudice against Japanese.

29. Negotiated twenty-four treaties for general arbitration.

30. Reducing the interest-bearing bonds by more than $90,000,000.

31. Inaugurated movement for conservation of natural resources.

32. Inaugurated meetings of the Governors of States.

33. Inaugurated a movement for improvement of country life.

These are some things which Mr. Roosevelt accomplished, and thus improved largely the conditions of life.

What can Gov. Wilson show in his record? Take, for instance, the Trust evil, in which he had by far the most important field in this country, and failed entirely! He makes the excuse that he had so much opposition in the legislature that it would have been useless.

I have been examining the record, and it appears that there was at least one Republican who favored regulation of the Trusts; and that the Governor had sufficient controlling influence to carry thro' other bills.

It seems to me as if, to use a bit of Latin, "Veni, vidi, fugi," would exactly represent his position toward Trust regulation.

Let us take up this political situation and compare it with ordinary everyday business, and try to use our common sense.

We have offered us Theodore Roosevelt, who has in the Progressive platform a plain straightforward statement of what he proposes to do; and we have also in his record of accomplishments, while President, more done towards improvement of business conditions than any other four Presidents ever accomplished.

We have opposed to him Gov. Wilson, with the Democratic platform, which, between Bryan and Tammany, was so made up that it is difficult for any one to decide what it does stand for, or does not; and Wilson's speeches express generalities only, and do not make any of it clearer.

In fact, in a speech at Cleveland he went through a sort of serio comic farce of introducing the Democratic party, which reminds me of a burlesque political performance by the Democrats in Van Buren's time, when a delegation was represented as interviewing "The Saint of Sandy Hill" to ascertain certain of his political views, and reported back that "He talked of Hungary and of hay, but really, from all he said and all they saw, they could not tell where he stood."

If a man with ordinary business facilities wished to construct an expensive home, and had a choice between a mechanic whose record for successful work in that line was of the best, and another who had made some failures and could show little successful work, how long would it take to choose the man?

Why should a voter hesitate between two such candidates?

In talking with a man about my age, recently, he said that Wilson suited him; and in reply to a question about him, said that he paid little attention to what was reported; did not believe any of it.

A man has a right to choose among candidates; but can there be a more ridiculous proposition than to refuse to believe anything, no matter how well authenticated?

And what does it mean? Simply that he rejects all that would tend to discredit his favorite; but is disposed to accept what is unfavorable to his opponent.

WM. F. BASSETT.
