FOR SALE BY

JOHN MURDOCH

Bellevue Ave., Hammonton.

THE first customer Miss Peterson waited on was a capacious old lady with duplex eyeglasses, who seemed fixed in the opinion that the bashful, gentle, little saleswoman meant to be a snob. Miss Peterson, however, was a devotee of gingham, before she found one that seemed to suit her. At this she stared. Then she carried it out to the door for closer inspection. "I don't like it," she said, and, fingering it, folded it up and handed it back to the girl, snappish: "Do you mean to tell me, young woman, that this is a fast color?" Miss Peterson was frightened. There was a menacing challenge in the stout customer's eyes. "Yes, ma'am," she said, "it is." "Please, ma'am, I'll go and ask the manager," said the demure girl. "Humph! There's some doubt about it, then," said the snarled face of the customer. "I'll let it go. I thought it looked cheap."

And the indignant customer bounced out of the store, leaving little Miss Peterson with tears in her eyes and a cooling sense of—her own inefficiency.

"When they ask you things like that," she murmured her quickly and wisely, "don't answer them, honey. Don't look so habbergasted."

"He thought the waist all right, walked respectfully for his parcel and walked out without further embarrassing the saleswoman," said the manager, next morning Dorothy's heart was filled with pride.

She had already exchanged two of her sales of the day before, and she suspected that the waist didn't fit after all. The young man saluted her with quiet courtesy and bough a belt.

Thereafter, Miss Peterson's customers, and a love of a pendant purse. And thereafter for nearly two weeks—a day passed that he did not come to buy something for his mother. Dorothy found him waiting with all sorts of guesses about him. He certainly very handsome. He must be well off. What a good son he must be—always getting pretty things for his mother. "And good son," she thought, "always making a mistake."

She was blushing furiously when he walked with his musical good-morning and "I'd like to buy some alk glee

"Well 'em yes," said Mrs. Gilliam, the saleswoman of Benton & Brown's dry goods emporium; "all these goods are guaranteed. We haven't got any misde stuff in the store."

But little Miss Peterson was getting discouraged. She managed to run her sales up to $8.00 the second day, but when Saturday night came the manager put her off without a word of a sale, and she was painfully aware that he wasn't satisfied.

"Go after the men," advised Mrs. Gilliam one day, when she saw Dorothy hang back while another girl captured a spruce-looking male purchaser; "the men are easy. They buy quick, and if you can help them to a bit they'll never forget it. Don't be so bashful."

The illustration shows a man in a suit and hat standing at a counter, talking to a woman behind the counter. The man is looking down at something on the counter, possibly a package or a piece of fabric. The woman is looking up at him. There are other people in the background, but they are less distinct.

Oh, here's to the man with a hand like a hammer,
And a fist just as big as his heart;
To the big, manly chap, be he banker or cowboy,
Owning railroads or driving a cart;
To the man who looks steady 'till straight in your eye,
And as you go grip like a vice—Such men as decided long since, once for all,
That they'd rather be men than be men.

But his heart you'll find good as a nugget
of gold,
And he'll always be faithful to you—
Then here's to the man with a hand like a hammer
And a soul that is loyal and true.
He may not be versed in the dining

AROLINE VERNET was of that order of women to whom their admirers are wont to apply such adjectives as "regal," "magnificent," "imperial."

Many lovers sought to win her, and many were disappointed when rumor announced her engagement to young Frank Reade.

To be sure, Frank was handsome as a Prince and brilliant as to wit and money were poor, hadn't even "expectations."

Early orphaned of both his parents, he was educated for the law by a rich uncle, who made it understood that such education was all he gave to give Frank.

His presumptive-heir was another

"Well, these considerations and the latter, but she was patient, and she had hastened before accepting the young man, but his attraction of mind and person proved too much for her worldly wisdom, and it was an engagement.
 "Only she stipulated that it should be temporary until Frank should have accidently come to support her in good style.
 Of course, Frank must needs go away to seek his fortune. He went to Europe. There was a tender parting between the young couple, and the Carolina, stern and despondent, Frank brave and hopeful.
 "Don't think of my absence, dearest," he urged cheerfully. "Think of the time when I shall return with a frank-ling.
 "Return when you will, Frank," sobbed Carolina, "you shall find me true. I will wait for you faithfully."
 Frank Rende went to Europe, and for a month Carolina was inconsolable.
 However, time passed, and she grew at the end of a month Carolina had so far recovered from her grief as to accept an invitation to Mrs. De Smith's soiree.
 At that soiree she met Albert Rende, the cousin of Frank, and she was Mr. Rende was a rather good-looking young man. She saw at once that he was destined to become her adorer. Because he was Frank's cousin—reason enough why she should like him.
 "You speak to me of Frank," said Frank; "Albert did Mr. Rende allude to his cousin, but I never was ignorant of Miss Verne's engagement to Frank.
 I have begun from their first meeting to devote myself to her, and Miss Verne, with all her faults, has such attainments, that I did not hesitate to did not discourage him.
 And when occasionally she heard some comment from "society" not flattering to her constancy she said indignantly—
 "Of course she must go about with someone else, and who could be a more proper escort than Frank's cousin?"
 So she continued to "go about" with Albert Rende. Of course, you see the result. The young man, who had understood the fascination of the presence she had yielded her selfhood, but saw that he was gone, wordiness had resumed its sway, and ambition began to suggest that Albert was a better match than Frank.
 "Society," that acute and cannibal-istic body, had long foreseen the event and was not in the least surprised when Miss Verne authorized the information. Rende, and society thought it a fortunate proceeding.
 And Carolina married Albert Rende.
 They went to live with Uncle Jackson, who gave the bride a set of diamonds, and she had the happiness (though generally she was not) of being married to Frank in Europe a paper containing the marriage notice. What a crushing

A Casual Sitter.

One of the close friends of the late Dr. Evans, of Philadelphia, the "Americanist," writes that he generally called on him in London at the Hotel, the great Paris photographers, who made a specialty of photographs of royalty. The Philadelphia Press states that it was through Dr. Evans that Gladstone and the King were brought together. In an interview, talking about the peculiarities of royal affairs, Nadar mentioned the present King of England.

"The Prince of Wales," says the King, "he said: was one of my closest an successful alters. He always said, as if principally bent on lounging about, the studio and hearing me talk about my old days, my boyhood and my career, that he was better than all that sort of thing. The stage of Paris during the Franco-German war, and the manner in which Dr. Evans assisted in Hugonin's escape, especially interested him.

"Then, before he left, he would casually suggest that we try a negative or two. The result was always good, because he felt thoroughly at home and natural. But his talk was always about his boyhood and his boyhood books or pictures. If I could tell him a good story about Sir Frederick Ligonier or about Whistler he enjoyed it. If I mentioned their success in their art he looked bored.

Miles of Crystallized Salt.

In the midst of the Colorado desert, a little to the north of the Mexican border and 200 feet below the level of the ocean, there is a vast expanse of more than 1,000 acres in extent, producing a surface as white as snow, and beneath the monotonous glare of the sun so dazzling that the naked eye cannot stand it. This is the salt flat, or dry lake bed, and extends for miles about Salt Lake, an ocean of blazing, blindingly white.

John W. Street of Mount Vernon, Ill., who was arrested at Evansville, Ind., for the murder of a woman, has been made a plan that he was 58 years of age, and was the father of thirty-two children, and that he was not guilty, still dependent upon him for support.

A conclusive proof of guilt, he was released.

President Harper has told the students of the University of Chicago that before the end of the year he expects to have plans complete for a great school of technology. Hitherto curricula of study have been made by Dr. Harper, "now, with the addition of the new school, the curriculum of the incoming student is brought into real university life at the start. Besides the new school, the plan is to have that before the end of the year the plans for a great school of technology will have fully worked out."

The total number of persons of foreign birth in foreign percentages in Chicago is 1,244,452. The number of voters of foreign birth is 511,048. Of these 227,635 were native born and 273,909 of foreign birth. Of the native white voters 111,048 were of foreign birth, and 12,184 of foreign percentages. This appears to be the 511,048 voters, 25.5 per cent of foreign birth or percentage, and only 111,884 of native parents.

Chicago's negro vote does not include 13,895 negro voters.

How to Vote.

One would scarcely know that a very important general election will occur next week, were it not for the posters. We meet no candidates on the usual swing around the circle; men are not talking politics on the corner; and no public meetings have been arranged in this section, so far.

But where's the use? Intelligent voters know what they propose to do, and a bitter campaign would not effect many changes. General prosperity has made people satisfied with Republican rule, and in this county and district, at least, attempts to convince men that a change is needed would prove futile.

Republicans are not faultless; far from it; but their chosen leaders do not have that unfortunate faculty for making bad blunders, with deplorable results, with invariably characterize our Democratic friends whenever they gain temporary power.

All things considered, we do not see what better our voting readers can do, than to vote the straight Republican ticket, next Tuesday. See the names published above.

In some parts of New Jersey the campaign fever is raging. State Senators elected this year will vote for the next U. S. Senator, and that fact interests an ambitious Democrat, who is inspiring a brisk fight. In some districts the vote for Congressman is close, and active work is being done by both parties.

In many states a governor is to be elected, and the papers are full of tidings from these bloodless battle-fields.

Levi B. Joslyn is making extensive improvements to his residence, on the County Road. The one-story addition is being raised to admit another bedroom and bath-room, a new garage is to be added on the east side, and the corner piazza to be extended across the front.

Our Town Council established a new record, Saturday night. Called to order at 8.30, they adjourned at 9.15. In fact, their five meetings this month left little to be done at this regular meeting.

After five months of idleness, the coal miners worked five days; then nine-tenths of them took a day off, on Wednesday, to celebrate John Mitchell's birthday. Yet they complain of irregular employment.

The Halloween social at the residence of Chas. Vander, Wednesday evening, was pronounced a success by the many who attended. Appropriate songs, recitations, and games were the features of the evening.

Rev. John H. Boswell, of Ocean City, gave an illustrated temperance lecture, Monday evening, in Jackson's Hall. His subject was "The foe we fight." The lecture was illustrated by a large number of photographic views, taken from life. Mr. Boswell handled the subject with characteristic earnestness, and in a way unlike most temperance lecturers of the day. He believes the way to win men to an alliance with a party pledged to the overthrow of the liquor traffic is not by ridiculing the old parties, but by persuading the old and educating the young. He illustrated the passion of Christ, his death, and resurrection, as the power to save those whom the saloon tried to destroy. His forceful arguments, as they fell upon the ear, reinforced by the pictures as they appeared through the eye, could not fail to leave upon the mind of his hearers the lessons he designed to convey, viz.: "That the power of God is the remedy for the production of the saloon (the drunkard), and the punishment is the only remedy for that which makes the drunkard (the saloon)."

The improvements on Frank N. Thomas' Third Street house, mentioned in the column two months ago, are well under way.

Our Sunday Schools.

Last Friday was Sunday School day in Hammononton. In the afternoon, the workers met in the M. E. Church, and were addressed by Miss Baldwin, State Primary Superintendent. At the evening session she taught the primary lesson, and also gave an interesting description of the National S. S. Convention, held at Denver, Col.

Following, an election of officers of the Primary Union took place:

President, Rev. F. L. Jewett, of the M. E. Sunday School.

Senior Vice-President, Robt. Steel, of the same.

Normal V. P., N. C. Holdridge, of the Baptist S. S.

Council Member, Miss E. Verrier, of the same.

Primary V. P., Miss B. Thomas, of the Presbyterian S. S.

Secretary & Treasurer, Miss Anna Walther, of the same.

At the same session, the Township S. S. Association held its annual meeting. The following officers were then elected for one year:

President, Wm. O. Hoyt.

Vice-Pres., Robert Steel, Miss B. Thomas, R. H. Goff.

Sec. & Treas., A. T. Trafford.

It is intended to hold three meetings during the year—at Rosedale, Hammononton, and Columbia.

Supervising Principal Newton C. Holdridge was nearly paralyzed with fright, Wednesday evening. Seated at the table, preparing his work for next day, the door-bell rang, and what seemed like a multitude of people pressed in, scarcely giving the astonished Principal opportunity to say "good evening." He soon recovered his self-possession, however, and discovered that the invading host was not a band of strikers, but the Board of Education and teachers, who had come as a surprise party, to spend the evening.

They took possession of the house, and proceeded to enjoy themselves. Misses Dickey and Monfort favored the company with singing, Miss L. M. Chapman with a declamation. Dr. Wass and Mr. Osgood were nearly ready to sing when Mr. Cunningham suggested that the refreshments were ready. After partaking of these, Mr. Adams thought they were too full to sing, to which suggestion Mr. Tilton readily agreed.

Rumor has it that Mr. Cogges started in the automobile, and that it ran away with him, for up to the hour of going to press, neither he nor the auto has been seen.

Members of Shaumarkin Tribe, No. 87, are planning to take part in the Red Men's parade at Atlantic City, on Thursday next, Nov. 6th. A full attendance is desired at Tuesday eve. meeting, as several important items of business will come up, including final arrangements for the parade. All the Tribes of Atlantic County expect to go down.

A FARM FOR SALE.—at English Creek, fully across cleared, good house and barn, six hundred dollars cash. Mrs. ATWELL LEE, May Landing, N. J.

Also, a house and lot at May Landing.

Moving pictures, by the Edison Stereo Projecting Kinetoscope, in Union Hall, Monday evening, Nov. 10, under auspices of the ladies of the Presbyterian Church. ## ELWOOD NOTES.

Last Tuesday evening, a grand rally for Prohibition was held in the M. E. Church. Rev. S. W. Steckel showed stereopticon views, and Rev. Dr. Boswell lectured. Mrs. Mawer also made a short address.

Henry E. Carver is threatened with typhoid fever. Dr. Bider is attending. Mrs. W. B. Harkinson, of Atlantic City, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Harkinson.

Wonder who that Hammononton dode was, who was down here last Sunday? His high silk hat seemed to attract much attention; even the dogs stopped to take a second look at him, but some of them turned and ran away.

Tuesday morning, ordination services were held in the Presbyterian Church, to ordain as elders Messrs. Howard H. Bozarth and Chas. Sallman, Jr. Rev. Mr. Bridges, of Bridgeton, made an address. Later, appropriate exercises were conducted for laying the corner stone.

There was a very pretty wedding in the M. E. Church at Cross Keys, on Wednesday, Oct. 29th, when Austin J. Bozarth, of Elwood, and Miss Edith D. Fiesler, of Cross Keys, were married. Miss Mamie Fiesler, of Camden, was maid of honor, and Robt. S. Smith, of Elwood, best man. Miss Laura Bozarth, the groom's sister, and Miss May Fiesler, the bride's sister, were bridesmaids. Ushers, Arvine E. Phillips, of Elwood, and Albert C. Rosenberger, Philada. The wedding march was played by Miss Greta Lumis. The church was prettily decorated with chrysanthemums and festoons of autumn leaves. The ceremony was at one o'clock, in the presence of about one hundred persons. Rev. G. L. Dobbins officiating. Rev. H. T. Fiesler, the bride's father, gave her away.

The bride wore white silk, tucked, and trimmed with lace. Her veil was of white tulle, and hung about her in graceful folds. She carried a bouquet of white roses, lilies of the valley, and asparagus fern, tied with white satin ribbon. The maid of honor also wore silk, and carried white "mums." The bridesmaids wore white Swiss with pink satin bow, and carried pink flowers.

A wedding breakfast was served, of which about fifty partook.

About 4.15 p.m., the bride and groom with the maid of honor and best man, left the paternal home, amid showers of rice and old shoes, white streamers and many cheers. They will make a tour in the South, stopping in Washington on the way.

Basket-Ball.

The Shield of Honor Basket ball team defeated the cracker-jack High School team, last Saturday night, in a very fast game, by a score of 33 to 15.

Shield of Honor will play their first game for the championship of Atlantic County, to-night, for a silver cup. Everybody come, and help the boys win the prize for our town. Admission, 15 cents; reserved seat, 5 cents extra; children under five years old, free. Dance, 10 cents.

At Harrisburg session of Juvenile Court, held October 20th, Clinton Hippensteel, a boy about twelve years old, was convicted of removing waste from journal boxes on Sept. 25th, and was sentenced to House of Detention for two months.

The Baptist ladies put on sale, in the Real Estate Building, yesterday (Friday) afternoon, a fine lot of cakes, aprons, and fancy goods. This afternoon and evening they will have an additional supply, and have a call to help pay off the parsonage mortgage.

There is a difference of opinion as to the date of "Hallow 'en," most of those who spoke of it saying that it occurred Oct. 30th. It is the eve, or vigil of All Saints' Day, which is always Nov. 1st, hence "hallow eve" is the night of Oct. 31st.

The first car of anthracite coal was received at Stockwell's yard on Tuesday. Part of it was for heating employees, and the balance was for sale in quarter-ton lots, where most needed. Plenty more on the way, and may be here to-day.

Stone is being hauled for the retaining wall on lower Central Ave.

The new engine and dynamo have arrived at the power house.

Mr. A. B. White, of Washington, D. C., is visiting his old home.

Our cross-walks were raised, this week. A good job.
