The barn and other outbuildings on W. L. Black's "folly farm," near Nesco, took fire very mysteriously, last Sunday afternoon, while the owner was on the grounds; and despite all that he and few volunteers could do, they burned to the ground, consuming a horse and a large amount of hay.

A sword, brought over to this country about three hundred years ago by the ancestors of Mrs. Wm. F. Bassett and her late husband, was displayed recently before the school children, and is now on exhibition at the Pilgrim Society's headquarters, at Plymouth, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Moody had the remains of their daughter removed from Philanthropic Cemetery, Twelfth and Dickinson Sts., Philadelphia, to the Arlington, at Lansdown. She was buried in 1881, and the removal ordered because the ground had been sold for $67,000.

Oscar Thompson is suffering from a broken shoulder-blade, three ribs and pelvic bone fractured, his head lacerated, the result of a fall from a load of hay, on Wednesday evening. The horses were evidently frightened by the slipping load, started to run, dragging the driver along the hard road.

Finding a chunk of black material, resembling charcoal, at the Park, Lewis White, aged fourteen, brought home yesterday, and tossing it to the ground, about noon, it exploded with a loud report. At once everybody looked skyward for German zeppelins. Happily, the boy was not badly injured, though nearly frightened to death, and was found hiding in the cellar. His shoes were scorched, and his face slightly bronzed.

Sunday evening, Lloyd Austin was riding down Central Avenue. He remembers crossing Grape St., but nothing further. Later, Mr. Babcock found the young man, lying unconscious, his head covered with blood, in front of Mr. Bernshouse's residence,—his bicycle against the curb, some ten feet distant. He was taken home, and recovered consciousness some time after, under ministrations of his parents and Dr. Miller. How the accident happened, no one knows,—whether struck by an auto, or thrown violently from his wheel. No bones were broken,—only cuts and bruises about his face and head.

ROYAL BELGIAN CONSULATE.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 2, 1914.

A. S. ANDERSON, Consul.

Mr. H. J. Hoff,

Hammonton, N. J.

Dear Sir: I have your favor of the 1st inst in regard to contributions of sweet potatoes by the farmers of Hammonton and vicinity, and I think your suggestion is an excellent one, and I would say that if the farmers deliver the potatoes in barrels to the railroad company they will deliver them free of charge to the steamship pier from which they will be shipped free to Europe.

There is no danger of their being sold in this country and the proceeds sent to Europe. In fact, we are receiving quite a lot of money with which we are buying things in the United States and sending the goods to the Belgians.

We had a letter from a party in Bordentown, offering to ship corn and potatoes in sacks, and I immediately wrote to the Belgian Consul in New York, asking whether they could care for them, and they said undoubtedly they could, but they are not quite ready to name the ship and pier, so could not give full directions until some time this week, when they will send me a telegram advising where it should be sent.

Therefore, if your committee desire to secure a car and deliver the goods right in the car on the side track, by the time you have such a collection as you desire to ship I shall probably be able to tell you exactly where to send it.

I desire to thank you for the Belgian people and the Belgian sufferers for your generosity in this direction, and it would be of special interest to me if you would let me know what you succeed in shipping.

Yours very truly,

A. S. ANDERSON, Consul.

Regular meeting of the Women's Political Union, Tuesday, Nov. 10, at 8.00 p.m., at the home of Miss Mary Conkey. A good attendance urged, as important business is to be transacted.

An attempt was made to burn Edward G. Bernhouse's property, Wednesday night. The fellows had started a fire in a lot of corn fodder, back of the barn, but it burned itself out without doing much damage.

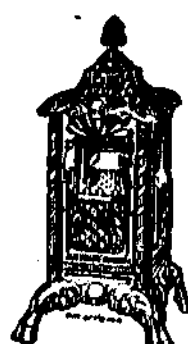

The tuberculosis exhibit in Union Hall this week was very interesting both to young and old. In the afternoons, the attendance was largely scholars; and evenings, the hall was filled to its limit.
