License Unconstitutional.

A synopsis of a lecture delivered by Prof. Ditt, Tuesday evening, Nov. 7.

If the unadulterated fermented grape juice in days of Solomon, the wise man who spoke as he was moved by the Holy Spirit, created woe, sorrow, contention, babbling, wounds without cause, redness of eyes, what would the Spirit say to-day, if he should speak as to the evil effects of the highly adulterated Milwaukee beer and Louisville whiskey?
It is estimated that in the use of the intoxicating drinks of our own day, a more deplorable state of habitual drunkenness is caused by three months hard drinking than were caused by three years use of unadulterated fermentations. This renders the traffic in strong drink in our day twelve times as deadly and ruinous in its effects as was the traffic in Solomon's time. Hence, the Christian people are under moral obligation to fight the traffic with twelve times the energy that was needed in the days of Solomon.

The 5th and 28th chapters of Isaiah seem to have been written in accurate description of the licensed traffic in strong drink as it now exists in the U.
S. A. Many seemingly good people say that to license a saloon is a good thing.
Thus they place themselves under the woe of heaven. "Woe unto them that call evil good, and good evil; that put darkness for light, and light for darkness." Then there are many persons, and many in high official life, who justify 500,000 wicked men, authorizing them to operate 250,000 licensed dramshops, enabling them to sell at retail $1,200,000,000 worth of rum to drinking classes in one year; and all for an accursed reward. The government's reward is $1.10 per gallon revenue on distilled spirits; the state's reward is a lucrative tax; the municipality receives from $200 to $1000 for granting a year's lease of life to each saloon. "Woe unto them which justify the wicked for a reward." Thus "the covenant with death and the agreement with hell" is ratified. The government says,—I will be satisfied with the internal revenue as my reward; the state says,—I will be content with a tax as my reward; and the municipality says,—the license fees will satisfy me. These three are the parties of the first part in the covenant.
The bartenders say,—we will strive to be content with two billion dollars as our annual reward; Death says,—I will try to be satisfied with the bodies of one hundred thousand habitual drunkards each year, to be increased in proportion to the increase of population; and hell, opening her yawning mouth, says,—I will strive to be satisfied with their souls as my reward. Amen, saith the Congress of the United States. Amen, saith the several State Legislatures.
Amen, saith the municipalities. Amen said President McKinley and Canteen Griggs. Amen, chuckled the barman.
Amen, groaned death. Amen, crinkled hell.

Hence the saloon is a public nuisance, because of what it is, and does. A public nuisance may exist either in a legal or a moral sense. In a legal sense it is "that which annoys, offends, and inconveniences any great number of persons in a locality, damaging them in their physical health, in their intellects, in their industrial life, or in their property." In a moral sense it is "that which damages or corrupts the morals of any great number of persons in a locality." The licensed saloon does all this, and is therefore a public nuisance in both the legal and the moral sense.

We also discover that the friends and promoters of license are themselves conscious that the licensed saloon is a public nuisance, because of the many prohibitory restrictions which they have been compelled to insert in the text of the various license measures. Each and every such restriction is a confession that they know they were dealing with a nuisance. First, they forbid a licensed saloon to be located nearer than 200, 300, or 400 feet from a church or school in cities,—the distance varying in different states. Here you see that friends of license place prohibition in a circular form, with a radius of 400 to 800 feet, an acknowledgment that prohibition protects the church and school better than license.

Second, they have prohibited the sale of liquor to an idiot,—thereby protecting him the entire year.

Third, they have protected the insane by a similar clause.

Fourth, in states where there are Indian Reservations, the red man is protected.

Fifth, the licensed saloon may not sell to minors,—a concession that probi-bition protects our boys and girls better than license. If not, why did they insert it in the text of the law? How long are the friends of license willing to adopt the principles of prohibition, which they bitterly denounce as "sumptuary legislation," and "unjust interference with men's liberty," to protect our boys and girls? Until the boy is 20 years, 11 months, 29 days, 23 hours, 59 minutes, and 59 seconds old; then, when the clock ticks another second, and passes him from his minority into his majority, the liquor man may sell to him, provided he doesn't happen to be a born-fool, until he becomes an habit-ual drunkard or manufactured fool, at which time restriction number Six comes into effect, saying to the saloon men,—he is a habitual drunkard now, made so in the licensed saloon.

Stop now; put him under prohibition—sumptuary legislation and unjust interference—in order to get him back to the condition he was in when the clock ticked him into "liberty." Prohibition to protect our boys and girls in their minor state; license to make them habitual drunkards when of age; probi-bition to restore them to sobriety.

Seventh, they have prohibited the licensed men from selling on 64 days in the year—52 Sundays and two election days. Now, that which the promoters of license have adopted in order that we may have quiet Sundays and elections, that which is wise and good for the best 64 days in the year, should also be wise and good for all the people during the remaining 311 days in the year.

Thus you see that each restriction is a confession that the friends and promoters of license were all the time aware that they were dealing with a public nuisance, both in the legal and in the moral sense.

Now we have proven the licensed saloon to be a public nuisance from the stand-point of the friends and promoters of license, and are ready to make the startling announcements that when once a public nuisance has been pointed out, there is no recognized principle at law in all England or in the United States, that does not provide for its abatement. Notwithstanding this fact, our corrupt law-makers have chosen to license in an unconstitutional manner the saloon,—the most damnable form of public nuisance that corrupt men or fallen spirits can possibly invent. I will cite a principle at Common Law.
"Whatever is enacted into Statutory Law should, when executed, administered, and enforced, tend to promote either the educational, the industrial, or the moral and social welfare of the people." For, says Blackstone, "Law is that which is enacted by the supreme power of the state, commanding that which is right, and prohibiting that which is wrong. For that is not law which contravenes the law of God." I hear also the voice of the Supreme Court of the United States: "No state can bargain away the public health, the public morals, or the public safety; the people themselves must not do it, much less their servants; government was ordained with a view to their preservation, and cannot but protect them."

All this is more than sufficient to prove to every candid mind that the saloon is a nuisance and license unconstitutional.

In Japan, vaccination is compulsory, and the government makes its own lymph, issuing it without charge. No vaccination at stated periods is rigidly enforced. Only calf lymph is used.

The Transvaal War.

The outbreak of actual hostilities in the Transvaal has general attention on the questions at issue. The grievances of the "Outlanders" are the cause of the rupture of friendly relations. The most prominent, briefly stated are these:

First. Although the Outlanders, or foreigners, outnumber the Boers three to one, and although they pay ninety per cent of the taxes, only about two per cent of them have secured the right to vote.

Second. Although surrounded by armed Boers and half-armed savages, the Outlanders are not allowed to carry arms.

Third. They must patronize the monopolies created by the Boers, although these monopolies charge exorbitant prices for necessary articles.

Fourth. They are maligned by the police, and forced to try their claims before partial courts, in which the English language is forbidden.

The Transvaal's defense is that these are merely domestic affairs, in which, by the conventions of 1851 and 1854, Great Britain pledged herself not to interfere. Technically this is true. But England answers that by the same conventions, the Boers agreed that the Transvaal should forever be open to all white immigrants, and that these immigrants should be well-treated. She asserts that no civilized nation can allow its citizens to be robbed by a foreign government, and issues her interference not upon treaties, or conventions, but upon the natural right of nations to protect their subjects.

The popular feeling in America is very much what ex-President Harrison expressed when he said of the Transvaal situation: "Our sympathies go out to the small boy when the big boy is thrashing him, even though the small boy richly deserves the thrashing." It is unquestionably true, however, that the grievances of the Outlanders are real, and that notwithstanding the rollicking character of the Boers, the government of the Transvaal is narrow, exacting, and unjust in its dealings with foreigners.

The United States welcomes the subjects of all civilized governments to its shores and treats them with generous hospitality. Should either our political parties put into its platform such gross conditions as have been practiced by Boers in their relations to foreigners, the policy would be indignantly condemned, and the defeat of the party assured at the polls. The treatment of immigrants by our people is a short-sighted policy--both domestic and international--of the Transvaal government.

England in her statesmanship is anxious for her own interests. It is a dominant quality; a quality at which, however, other nations cannot consistently throw stones. But whatever may have been the ulterior motives of her colonial secretary in his insistent demands upon the Transvaal, in supporting him in this unhappy struggle, England represents the rights of the individual under international law, and exemplifies the duty of every nation to protect, always and everywhere, the lawful interests of its subjects. Your's Companion.

A young man in a neighboring town advertised for a wife, under an assumed name. His letter answered the advertisement, also under an assumed name. Then photographs were exchanged, and now the young man thinks there is no harm in advertising, the sister will not put her thoughts on paper, and the old folks think it's pretty hard to have two fools in one family.

Volcanic Eruptions. Are ground, but this eruption has robbed life of joy. Buckle's Arica have cured them; also Old Running and Fever cure, Ulcers, Boils, Pains, Gums, Warts, Burns, Scalds, Chapped Hands, Chills, Heat, Pile Cure on earth, Ulcers, Ulcers and sores, 25 cts. a box. Circumstances. Sold by Dr. U. M. Crowell, Druggist.

All persons who watch the heavens, and gaze in admiring wonder on the glittering stars so frequently apparent runway stars, dashing among their fixed fellows, leaving trails of light behind, and then, usually in a second or two, disappearing completely. The astronomer knows that these shooting stars are not really stars. Real stars are distant and distant stars shining by their own light; these are cold, dark bodies, which become hot and visible when they strike the air surrounding the earth.

The velocity of motion is, on the average, about twenty-five miles a second, and so when they dash into the earth's atmosphere the friction of the air produces a temperature of many thousand degrees. The result is that these bodies are usually very small, they are completely evaporated and disappear.

Astronomers find that at certain intervals the earth encounters a group of these "shooting stars," and the inhabitants are treated to a display never equaled by man's protechic exhibitions. If calculations are correct, one of these meteors is to strike the earth on the night of Tuesday or Wednesday next, Nov. 14th or 15th. Their movements and location are not sufficiently known to make the predictions absolutely correct, but it will pay anyone to prepare to see this grand show. The best time to see it is between midnight and dawn; and in order that Hammononton may not be compelled to sit up all night, arrangements have been made with Night Marshal Garton to toll the fire-bell in case the display is visible on either of the nights mentioned. If you hear it, get up and look for something fine.

National Export Exposition. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has arranged for special excursion rates to Philadelphia on October 11 and 12, November 8 and 9, and December 11 and 12. Round-trip tickets, good to return within ten days, including day of issue, will be sold on above dates from Atlantic City, and intermediate stations at rate of single fare for the round trip, plus admission to the exposition (no rate less than one dollar). For specific rates apply to Ticket Agents. The National Export Exposition surpassed all expectations in the extent and variety of its exhibits, and in its cost of construction and attendance. The Implement Building, containing a marvelous display of steam machinery, is particularly interesting to agriculturists. The band concerts and diversifying midway furnish delightful entertainment for all.

Bismark's Iron Nerve. Was the result of his splendid health. Indomitable will and tremendous energy are not found where Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder are out of order. If you want these qualities and the success they bring, use Dr. King's New Life Pills. They give you every power of brain and body. Only 25 cts. at Crowell's Drug Store.

Cheap Excursions via Philadelphia & Reading R.R. The National Export Exposition is more than a mere show, it is a grand school of instruction as to the manufacturing ability and "ingenuity" of the United States, and all presented to the eye in such a way that it affords amusement as well as instruction. For the pleasure seeker there is the Chinese Village, Oriental Theatre, trained acrobats, etc., in fact, all the best shows from the midway of recent expositions, and when to this is added Grand Concerts every afternoon and evening by some of the best bands and orchestras of the country, our readers can easily see it is well worth a visit.

Arrangements have been made by the Philadelphia & Reading Railway to sell special excursion tickets from this vicinity to Philadelphia, on Oct. 13 and 20, Nov. 3rd and 17th at the low rate of single fare for round trip (with a minimum of 75 cents) including admission coupon to the exposition. These tickets are to be good going only on specified train morning of sale, and good returning on any regular train the same day. For full information as to rates, time of trains, etc., consult ticket agents, or address Edson J. Weeks, Gen'l Passenger Agt., Philadelphia.

There will be a corn supper, and busking box on Saturday evening, Nov. 18th, at the home of Daniel Westcott, Westcottville, in honor of Mrs. Daniel Westcott's birthday, and the completion of the new barn. All friends are invited.

The pastor of the Presbyterian Church will preach to-morrow, morning and evening, on "Lessons from the Jewish Tabernacle." There will be an opportunity at each service for persons to sign a petition for the expulsion of Mr. B. H. Roberts, of Utah, from the House of Representatives.

The residence of Mr. Townsend (Beverage house), on Horton Street, was invaded by a burglar, on Tuesday night. He evidently entered by a front side window, ransacked the whole house, and departed by the back door, taking nothing but Mr. T.'s best coat. Other garments were handled, but left. The family slept soundly, and knew nothing about the visit until next morning.

Rev. Thos. W. Himes, of Philadelphia, who has been occupying the Universalist pulpit for the past two Sundays, will preach again to-morrow. His discourse will be upon a very interesting topic,--"The future world; where is it? who enter it? what form do they bear?" All who desire to hear an exposition of modern liberal religious belief, upon these points, are cordially invited to be present.

Grand Army Post hall was the scene of an enjoyable social gathering, last Saturday evening. The Post adjourned early, and soon some thirty or more members of the Woman's Relief Corps, and several Sons of Veterans entered the hall. They received a cordial welcome, and quickly took charge of affairs. Games followed, with vocal and instrumental music, and several recitations and readings. A cake-walk and refreshments were also on the program, and the "boys" say--"come again, ladies."

Early last Sunday morning, Miss Belle Hurley, daughter of the late Daniel Hurley, came down stairs, carrying a lighted lamp. Just what occurred no one knows, except Miss Belle, and she is not in condition to explain. Some of the family heard a strange noise, and hastening down to investigate, they found Belle with her clothing in flames. The fire was extinguished with difficulty, the sufferer removed to a bed, and Dr. Hodges quickly summoned. It was found that Miss B. was frightfully burned, from her chest to her feet, and slaps have apparently healed between life and death; and though some favorable symptoms have developed, her recovery is yet doubtful. A broken lung, rumor says, is the only clue to the cause of her and accident. Miss Belle is well known among the young people, and all classes feel a deep sympathy for her and the family. On Friday morning she was pronounced better.

There are more than half a million registered bicyclists in France. Each one pays a tax and carries a license. This number does not include motor cycles, which are numerous. Motor cycles are to be used by postmen for collecting letters, in Paris.

Lost wealth may be restored by industry, the wreck of health regained by temperance; forgotten knowledge restored by study; but who ever looked on a vanished hour, or recalled his neglected opportunities—Heaven's record of wasted time?

His Life was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: I was taken with Typhoid Fever, that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave me great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise. This marvelous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung trouble. Regular size 50 cts. and $1.00. Trial bottle free at Crowell's Drug Store; every bottle guaranteed.

Does it Pay to Buy Cheap?

A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to another climate? Yes, if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the only remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Boesche's German Syrup." It not only heals and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ of disease, but allays inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest, and cures the patient. Try one bottle. Recommended many years by all druggists in the world. Sample bottles at Crowell's Pharmacy.
