were royally entertained on Tuesday evening by Mrs. Chas. Cunningham, at her pretty home on Second St., about twenty-five being present. The dining room was tastefully decorated with their colors, blue and white, the supper being served at six. The gavel which Mrs. Rider had presented had an apropriately engraved plate attached, and used for the first time. Mrs. Wm. Doerfel was duly honored, and stood under a bridat bell made by Watkis & Nicholson. A fine silver fork was presented to the bride.

10 The County Teachers' Institute was attended, last Friday, almost exclusively by local teachers, as those at other points were required to teach until noon; hence could not get bere in time. They should have been given the entire day. These who attended, including a tew other residents, were very much pleased with the lectures given, particularly that of Dr. Chapin. In the even'g, the Baptist Church was pretty well Blled, and the audience well repaid for their attendance. Saturday morning, in High School Auditorium, teachers from all over the county were present, and doubless gained many excellent ideas from Dr. Halsey's address on medical inspection, also 'Dr. Scudder's two lostructive addresses.

The Civic Club Fair programs were sent out this week. Next come similar teadets for the Hammonton Dramatic Company.

First of all, the text speaks of our morality. In saying he has a desire to depart," Paul is not thinking of go-"Gepart," Paul is not thinking of going from one place to another on the earth, but of going back to mother

Again, the text speaks of our immorbility. Paul has a desire to depart, and to be. "He has no thought of ceasing to be, when death comes. Death does not end all. We here reproduce a photograph showing the burning of a gorgeous boat specially built, according to Chinese custom in royal funerals, to convey the spirit of the late Dowager Empress of China across the mystic river beyond which is believed to He the heavenly Nirvana. The boat cost about $40,000. On the bow stood a huge figure representing the guiding spirit of Heaven, and just behind it was the imperial yellow chair. On the deck were four pavilions, the first containing effigies of some twenty-five court ladies of her mujesty's train, the second a number of robes actually worn by the Empress, the third efficies of priests and the fourth the imperial throne. #### Christian Citizenship.

The work outlined in this departmeut would bring the two words of its title into living relations, and so mould Christian public sentiment that town, city, county, state, and nation may know and practice the righteousness that expiteth the nation. Its methods, through the printed and spoken word, are to make its students familiar with laws for the protection of morals, and with the powers and limitations of officials as well as the rights of citizens; to prevent the establishment of the dispensary or other unrighteous substitute for the saloon, to promote prohibition, to combat gambling, polygamy and profanity, and to build up, through personal conviction and co-operative action, a people whose God is the Lord. MR. EDITOR: Kindly allow me a small: space in your columns, for the last time on this question, in reply to Mr. Wood's article of last week.

Again I say that there was no money mentioned, so far as I know; nor was 1 in any position to make any offer, as Mr. Wood has stated. I would not do anything of the kind, as I am not in the bribery business in any form.

Mr. Wood also states that when I went to see him about the DiGiscomo license, that before answering he asked me if money was to be used. That is not so. He said he thought the place ought to have a license, and he would vote for it. Then, as I was about to icave, he asked whether money was to be used, and I snewered, "I suppose so, if necessary." I had not been told to do so, but I knew of other cases where money had been used, and thought such might be the case again ; but I had no authority to say so, as money was nevet mentioned. -

Mr. Wood says if money was used he would not vote for the license. Why was he so anxious to know? What was he looking for ?
