Relatives are expected on from his old home, Massachusetts, to attend the funeral, which will probably be on Monday.

Mrs. Bertha Bank, mother of our esteemed townsman, departed this life on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 15th, after much suffering, in Philadelphia.

Mrs. W. J. Elliott, Sr., died on Thursday morning, Nov. 20th, aged seventy-four years. Among our early settlers—about forty years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott were well known to all, including a daughter and several sons. Mrs. E. was a member of the Baptist Church.

A customer said, the other day, that she couldn't see why any woman should go out of town to buy coats. She was so surprised to find so many styles, such a nice collection, marked so low in price that she could not help making this statement.

We hear these comments very often, and frequently wonder ourselves why every body does not take advantage of these wonderful saving opportunities.

We succeeded, however, in convincing the majority that out-of-town shopping is useless. Our buyer keeps in touch with the leading makers of ladies' coats and suits, and as soon as they have special lots, and especially samples, they immediately notify us.

Remember, we only sell one of a kind in the better grades of suits and coats.

There are coats of zibeline, chinchilla, and astrichan, at $6.00, $7.50, $9.00. Collars and cuffs trimmed, with fancy large buttons. 3/4 and full length, belted, and plain back.

Matt. 25: 31-46. Last Sunday's gospel looked forward to the Day of Judgment. It brought us the Lord's solemn warning how to prepare for it. This gospel unfolds for us a wonderful and startling picture of the Judgment itself. In it Jesus Christ Himself tells us what that Judgment will be like. And we hold that His description is not a parable but a revelation. We believe that here is a real description of the mode in which that great Judgment will be conducted. Surely these words deserve our most careful and earnest attention: for we know that this is a scene in which every one of us must play his part, that we must all appear before the Judgment throne of Christ and that the Judgment there pronounced will determine our future bliss or doom. Now with so clear a picture before them, let us consider that no many people have so far as the mode of that Judgment! For it certainly is the hope of many that in spite of their careless, Christless lives, they will somehow slip through and be saved in the end. Yet Jesus says plainly that this will not be so. The Judgment will be a separation. It will pronounce eternal doom as well as eternal bliss. And it will be a righteous Judgment. Men will get there what they deserve. We note here:

- 1. That Christ will pass Judgment on a Dead Faith. 2. That He will pass Judgment on a Selfish Life. 3. That this Judgment will be final. 4. That the Judgment will be a separation.

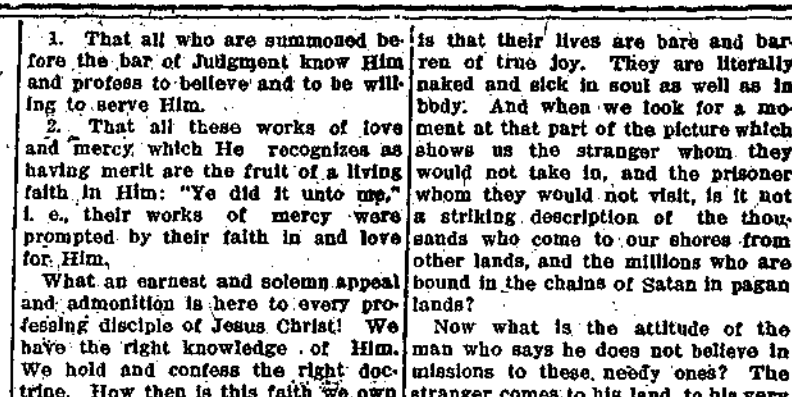

The mode of Judgment may at first appear strange, for here we note that the Lord's Judgment is not a mere trial, but a separation. It is a final separation. It is a separation that will determine our future bliss or doom. Now with so clear a picture before them, let us consider that no many people have so far as the mode of that Judgment! The mode of Judgment may at first appear strange, for here we note that the Lord's Judgment is not a mere trial, but a separation. It is a final separation. It is a separation that will determine our future bliss or doom. Now with so clear a picture before them, let us consider that no many people have so far as the mode of that Judgment! For it certainly is the hope of many that in spite of their careless, Christless lives, they will somehow slip through and be saved in the end. Yet Jesus says plainly that this will not be so. The Judgment will be a separation. It will pronounce eternal doom as well as eternal bliss. And it will be a righteous Judgment. Men will get there what they deserve. We note here:

VINE DAINY AND ATTRACTIVE HANDKERCHIEF YOU CAN EMBROIDER FOR YOUR FRIENDS FOR CHRISTMAS.

Handkerchiefs are ever acceptable gifts, for one can never have too many of these useful articles. A bit of hand embroidery on a gift not only adds greatly to its attractiveness, but also makes the gift all the more appreciated if it is the handwork of the giver. It shows that time and thought have been given to the recipient and it is not the least commendable gift which is bought at the last minute.

Pattern No. 14580 contains five simple and attractive designs for handkerchiefs, each twelve inches square. These may be de-

Blue crepe with embroidery in soft color and buttons and loops for trimming was used for this design. The blouse is low and finished with a small collar, and outline a chemise which will look well in net, chiffon, shadow lace or other contrasting material. The pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches waist measure. It requires 2 yards of 44-inch material for an 18-year size.

A woman, coming down the garden walk, was horrified at seeing her son standing on his head against the garden wall.

"Johnnie, you wretch," she cried, "what are you doing now?"

"Standing on my head," replied Johnnie. "Didn't yer tell me to play at sunset that wouldn't wear my boots out?"

"I want to insert a big advertisement in your paper," said a business-like gentleman bustling into a newspaper editorial sanctum. "It's about a fine new brand of whisky."

"Certainly, sir," cried the editor, springing to his feet and rubbing his hands. "Business is booming, and he went to the speaking tube and said to the foreman compositor, in a whisper:

"You need not set that editorial of mine on 'The Curse of Drink' this week."

During a winter visit to Florida a Carnegie attended a service in a little negro church. When the congregation sang a hymn, Mr. Carnegie dropped a five-dollar bill upon it. After the contents of the plate had been counted, the clergyman arose and announced:

"Brethren and sisters, the collection this evening seems to figure up six dollars and forty-four cents; and the five-dollar bill contributed by the gentleman from 14 North is genuine, the repairs on the sanctuary will begin immediately."

scalloped edge may be carried out in yellow or white and a yellow ribbon, long enough to tie around the waist, should be run through the large eyelets at the top of the apron.

This apron is nineteen and one-half inches long and twenty-one inches wide and should be made of muslin, batiste, handkerchief linen or cross-barred muslin.

These aprons may be cut apart and used on towels, pillowcases, bureau-covers, dish-covers, counter-tops or sofa-covers.

Pattern No. 14645 will be supplied to readers for 15 cents. Address: Pattern Department, 615 West 43d street, New York.

9752. GIRLS' SACK NIGHT DRESS WITH OR WITHOUT YOKES FOR SHORTER SLEEVE.

The sleeve may be finished in wrist or elbow length. The pattern is cut in 5 sizes: 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. It requires 4 yards of 36-inch material for an 8-year size.

"A woman came into the hospital the other day, and she was so cross-eyed that the tears ran down her face."

"He couldn't do anything for her, could you?"

"Yes; we treated her for bacteria."

A NEW SORT OF HIGH SCHOOL.

The new Washington Irving High School in New York is unquestionably the finest public school building ever erected. It is eight stories high and occupies half a city block between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets. The school can care for 2,000 pupils and there are 225 teachers. Six high schools in Manhattan have been abandoned, and the pupils assembled in the new building. The building cost $550,000. It contains every modern appliance and equipment, and there is no end of novelties. For the course in housekeeping, the domestic science department, there is a seven-room apartment, fully furnished and ready for occupancy. There is a kitchen and pantry, dining room, living room, bath room, bed room, nursery and parlor. Classes of more than a dozen pupils take turns in caring for the apartment, and carrying the groceries, meats and provisions for the parlor.

There is also a complete equipment for banking, where the students learn how to deal with a bank, and learn something of the "man" in which a bank is conducted. With bank books they carry imaginary accounts, against which they write checks from time to time.

Like a great garment working factory, the seven large sewing rooms, where two hundred girls are taught sewing on as many machines. In this department classes are given two hours instruction every two or three days.

Adjoining the library is a book-binding plant, where the students learn how to bind books, and "first aid" to an injured book. There are more than two hundred typewriting machines in the rooms where stenography is studied.

In the departments of zoology, there are cages for the animals that the school borrows from the New York Zoological Park for study. Young women who intend to take up department store work after they give up school, learn how to handle a business course, in which they can learn everything that they will need to know later. There are cash registers, cash drawers, and a complete stock of balance sheets. The pupils practice waiting on customers, and are taught how to deal with trying or haggard customers.

On the roof, there is a large conservatory, with growing plants and flowers, in which the students can study botany and horticulture. The conservatory is a dining room, where seven hundred students can lunch at the same time. Food is served at a nominal price.

The old-fashioned desks have been abolished in the furnishing of the building. Pupils sit in chairs before a table, two students at each table.

On the heights of one of the Palisades cliffs there was a new observatory, where the coming of Halley's comet was observed. For weeks five-year-old Halley had been heard about it. One night his father found him from sleep, and took him in his arms to see it.

"Wake up, Bobby! Wake up! You see the comet?"

"Bobby! Bobby! Bobby! You see the comet?"

"Yes," he replied, "it's all right, except that I never had a comet. Otherwise it is all right."

"Now, John," said the teacher to a little boy who had been very inattentive during the lesson. John was instantly on the alert. "Tell me," thought the teacher, "who is the miserable individual who gets clothes, food, and lodging, and yet does nothing in return?"

John's face brightened. "Please, sir," said he, "the baby."

Ex-President Roosevelt was once shown a picture of himself in battle. He was represented as waving a sword on horseback, in one of the fights in Cuba.

"It is a good picture," he was asked.

"Yes," he replied, "it's all right, except that I never had a sword. Otherwise it is all right."

"Then he said, 'I have heard of a customer who never had a sword. Otherwise it is all right.'"

Every time we see a customer's face it means a line of a customer's face. Then he said, 'I have heard of a customer who never had a sword. Otherwise it is all right.'"

"But today I don't care a rap; I backed a horse yesterday, and have now drawn $500."

This stylish design may be suitably developed in chambray, crepe, silk, satin, velvet, lawn, serge or any other material. The pattern is cut in 5 sizes: 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30 inches waist measure. It requires 4.5 yards of 44-inch material for a 24-inch waist.

FAIR NOTES.

(From the Rural Farmer)

bananas, which were found only in a few seashore towns a generation ago, are now common in every region of America.

The ripening of fruits plays of important part in their availability and in some of the problems of transportation on this subject is much to be desired. Some fruits, like the apple, may be allowed to ripen almost fully on the tree and may be kept in the ripened condition for relatively long periods.

Other fruits, like the berries cannot be kept in the ripened condition for long periods. In the case of the banana, the fruit may be picked and transported advantageously before the final ripening has begun; and this process can then be controlled in the market and home as the conditions demand.

The physical changes, like the variation in color of ripening fruits, are familiar, since they are evident to the senses; but these alterations are merely indicative of changes in the chemical make-up of the fruits under the conditions which determine ripening. Heat, moisture, air and light may all participate in determining the characteristic changes that ensue.

Laboratory investigations in recent years have given clearer indications of the changes that take place in the ripening of fruits. The actual ripening of the fruit is the transformation of the starch into sugar, the conversion of soluble tannin compounds with their astringent properties throughout life summer and autumn without ripening the fruit in two length. It may also be noted that in the English word "ripen" the root is the same as the Latin word "ripa," which means a bank or shore.

Does $100 Look Good to You?

I will save you that much and more if you are looking for a piano or player piano. What's the use of buying a second-hand piano when you can have a new one of better grade at the same price.
What's the use of buying cheaper quality, when you can have the best direct from the factory at the same cost, or less?

Don't be old-fashioned and say,

Look into my proposition and see is no reason they cannot be. I

MR. EDITOR:

The cost to individuals of connecting with the sewers, installing bath rooms, and other necessary improvements, will be a great hardship to many. The sidewalk bills are yet to be paid, taxes are high and promise to be higher. Why cannot the town ask for bids and give the contract to the lowest bidder?
One of our local plumbers could afford to do the job, as a whole, much cheaper than he could do it for individuals, first in one part of town and next perhaps a mile away.
With an adequate force of trained men, working from house to house, much time would be saved, and if the material was bought in quantity it would save money. Each property owner would pay his just share.
Of course, the ordinance that all within certain limits must connect with the sewer will be enforced, or the whole expense of putting in the sewers will be useless. A few un-sanitary places will spread disease as easily as if there were no sewers.
Why cannot this be done? Will not Council take up the matter and act? The action just taken, to connect the sewers to the curb line, is an excellent one as far as it goes;
why not run it to the house?

WE DON'T SELL CHEAP TAILORING

Primarily because our customers are not the "cheap" kind—they have learned from costly experience elsewhere that the best is the most economical. We have never been obliged to represent adulterated fabrics as "pure wool," nor to offer "sweat shop" garments with the argument that we can save you money through poorly-paid, inexperienced help.

SHOES and RUBBERS

Cheap clothes, like cheap jewelry, soon show their actual worth, and the man who is deceived thereby is not wise. Everything is sold according to its relative worth,—you rarely get more than what you actually pay for.

UNDERWEAR

If we offered you "strictly pure cream butter" at 15 cents a pound, and you later found it to be a cheap oleomargarine, you'd lose no time in exposing us.

HOSIERY

Shoes for all

Pajamas and Night Shirts.

MONFORT

We pride ourselves on our Pure Leather.

HATS, CAPS AND SHIRTS

Many well-meaning people make the mistake of expecting $2 and $3 value for $1, due to the impossible claims of over-anxious dealers.
They later come to realize that their money was wanted more than their future business.

NECKWEAR

Cheap clothes are either lacking in the quality of woollens or in skimping of workmanship.
High-grade artist tailors like those with Ed. V.
Price & Co., cost money, and are worth it.
Don't let any "smooth" salesman convince you to the contrary.
