Why I am a Teetotaler.

First, I believe that Sir William Gull was right when he said that alcohol was "the most destructive agent" known to the faculty, and I have no wish to destroy myself prematurely.

Secondly, I think that even one's individual example, so far as it goes, may lead others to abstain from taking this destructive agent into their systems.

Lastly, As I have taken, and will take, some part in the attack on the legalized liquor trade, I think I can do so more effectively by showing that I consider alcohol to be my own enemy, as well as the enemy of the nation.

—Sir Wilfrid Lawson.

"I figured it out years ago," said a prosperous farmer, "that with very moderate drinking I'd drink an acre of good land every year; so I quit." Here is a temperance lecture in a small parcel, convenient for handling.—Youth's Companion. Are there many farmers around Hammonton like him?

Reform in Our Schools.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN:—Many of the younger people of Hammonton go to Philadelphia in order to learn advanced book-keeping and stenography. The expense is heavy to some, and it occurred to me that our High School should have a department devoted to teaching at least the first rudiments of those studies. Book-keeping is now taught, but much of the "higher grade" education in that direction in Philadelphia might be added here.

In one of the western counties, in 1885, a contest between the pupils of several towns occurred, and much to the surprise of all, the pupils from a back country village easily carried off the honors. Of course, the teacher was called upon to explain his method. I cannot now recall his exact words, but they were something like the following:

"My plan is to give composition, if not all the time, then during as much of the time as possible. For instance, I inform the children that the next lesson will be 'How to travel by railroad from Chicago to St. Louis, mentioning the towns, rivers, etc., passed on the journey.' The result is that each child must write, will endeavor of himself to spell correctly while writing, will closely examine the map, will learn to punctuate, and gain knowledge, as well as losing as little time as possible. I take each child, point out the errors, and perhaps compel him or her to revise and rewrite the article. The composition combines writing, spelling, reading, punctuation, and geography, as well as grammar to a certain extent. Any subject may be selected, according to the age of the pupil. Advanced children may be required to give several compositions, until some historical subject, for instance, invasion of England by the Spanish Armada, has been fully reviewed. When I teach history I lecture, first reading to the children from the book. In teaching of the discovery of America, I go to the board or map, point out the Spanish port of Palos, and from that starting point show the route of the voyage, and mention the occurrences. It is not then necessary to compel a child to 'study' and rack its brain, for the whole matter is shown almost at a glance."

The teacher who stated the above demonstrated in public test the efficiency of his method. Having served on the Hammonton school boards for about twelve years, I know something of the schools. Hammonton, however, differs not from other school districts. The number of "learned ignoramuses" who annually graduate from our high school may be said to be legion. They can be seen and heard at any time and place, betrayed by "It is me," "Who does this?" "Who does he work for?" "Between you and I," and other expressions, while their knowledge of matters and things in general is very limited.

Our present Board of Education has long considered the subject of reform in some manner. There are too many studies, especially in advanced courses, and not enough of the "three R's." Every member of the board is aware of this fact. Mr. Holdridge has endeavored to improve wherever possible. Unfortunately for the board, the principal, and the pupils, the State Board, the County Superintendent, and even the parents are to be considered. The power of our board is limited, and the desires of parents cannot be overlooked without creating a storm of opposition.

It is claimed that the field for stenography is overcrowded. So it is, but not with those who are capable. Any one can learn short hand and the manipulation of a typewriter, but to take down notes and transcribe the words into grammatical English, with correct spelling and punctuation, are accomplishments. As the Illinois teacher depended upon "composition" almost entirely, he first made his pupils competent, depending upon perfection in the mechanical appliances later.

In writing this, I am not condemning our board or teachers. I am sure that each member and teacher will endorse what I have stated. The question is, how to improve. Will the parents agree to have more of the "essential" and less of the "classical"? Every parent should consider this matter well.

I favor the school meetings being held at night, as it permits those who are busy during the day to attend. I have seen a few men vote thousands of dollars for schools because the majority of voters could not attend the annual meetings in the daytime.

Let us ventilate this subject, and in a fair and friendly manner.

P. H. JACOBS.

No Democratic Ticket.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Nov. 10, 1900.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN:—Noticing the item in your issue of last week, that the Democrats of this town intend to put a ticket in the field next Spring, permit me to state that while I know nothing of individual statements, or reports, the rules of the Democratic Club of this town distinctly and plainly forbid anything of the kind. The objects of this association are to bring together all Democratic voters in the town, the advancement of Democratic principles, the installation into political campaigns, both National and State, of every honorable effort to secure a full vote and pure elections.

While publishing the above, we disclaim any intention of introducing partisanship into local elections, believing as we do that such a course would not be for the best interests of this community. If any individual speaks for the Club or party, it is without authority. Party politics in our town elections would be disastrous, we do not have too many good men now from whom to select, hence should not confine our choice to men whose only qualifications are that they vote with the dominant party.

When things are "the best" they become "the best-selling." Abraham Hare, a leading druggist of Belleville, O., writes: "Electric Bitters are the best-selling bitters I have handled in 20 years. You know why? Most diseases begin in disorders of stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, blood and nervous system. Electric Bitters tones up the stomach, regulates liver, kidneys and bowels, purifies the blood, strengthens the nerves, hence cures multitudes of maladies. It builds up the entire system. It has pleased Almighty God to bring our Nation in safety and honor through another year. The works of religion and charity have everywhere been manifest. Our country, through all its extent, has been blessed with abundant harvests. Labor and the great industries of the people have prospered beyond all precedent. Our commerce has spread over the world. Our power and influence in the cause of freedom and enlightenment have extended over distant seas and lands. The lives of our official representatives and many of our people in China have been marvellously preserved. We have been generally exempt from pestilence and other great calamities; and even the tragic visitation which overwhelmed the city of Galveston made evident the sentiments of sympathy and Christian charity by virtue of which we are one united people.

Now therefore I, William McKinley, President of the United States, do hereby appoint and set apart Thursday, the 29th of November next, to be observed by all the people of the United States, at home and abroad, as a day of thanks giving and praise to Him who holds the nations in the hollow of his hand. I recommend that they gather in their several places of worship and devoutly give Him thanks for the prosperity wherewith he has endowed us, for seed time and harvest, for the valor, devotion and humanity of our armies and navies, and for all his benefits to us as individuals and as a Nation; and that they humbly pray for the continuance of his divine favor, for concord and amity with other nations, and for righteousness and peace in all our ways.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done in the City of Washington, this 29th day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and twenty-fifth.

WILLIAM McKINLEY.

By the President: JOHN HAY, Sec'y of State.

BY THE GOVERNOR.

Governor Voorhees says to the people of New Jersey:

The century draws near to its close. We await the beginning of the era to come. As a people we have been blessed. We have been guided in safety through imminent peril. We have found strength in times of trial. We have averted dangers that threatened. Governments have come and gone since the dawning of the morning of its birth, yet our nation still lives. Its people have broadened in power and in influence.

They have increased in knowledge and in happiness. They clasp to none in comfort enjoyed. Their toil is rewarded. Opportunity is not withheld. They are better in thought and in deed. The claims of fellow-men are respected. For the poor, the unfortunate, and the dependent there is a deeper regard. The Christian spirit more abounds. All have been blessed in mind, in body, and in store.

The watchful care and guiding hand of the Wise Ruler of Nations has attended us. His mercies and blessings have not been withheld in the year that ends the century. For those of the past, and for those which we now enjoy, we should give thanks and praise to the Giver of every good and perfect gift.

Therefore I, Foster M. Voorhees, Governor of the State of New Jersey, do hereby designate Thursday, the 29th day of November, instant, for public thanksgiving and praise. I do recommend to the people of this State that they abstain, so far as possible, from their usual labor, and assemble in their homes and places of religious worship, there to acknowledge and return thanks to Almighty God for his goodness and his mercy, and to invoke his continued favor in behalf of our Nation, our State, and its people.

WANTED. Active man of good character to deliver and collect in New Jersey for old established manufacturing wholesale house, 100% year, surety. Industry more than experience required. Our reference, any bank in any city. Enclosed not addressed stamped envelope. Manufacturers, 3rd floor 331 Dearborn St., Chicago.
