Mrs. Vylla Poe Wilson, organizing Secretary of the Woman's Navy League, from Washington, will address the local organization and their friends on Monday eve'g, Dec. 6th.

Charles Snyder recovered his automobile, early last Wednesday morning, at Nazareth, Penna. It will be remembered that it was stolen from Bellevue Garage nearly three months ago.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church will have a continuation of their sale of aprons and fancy articles, on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 4th, in Littlefield's office. Also a cake sale.

The Rev. Everett van Driht was recently a guest of a party made up of residents of Haddon Heights and West Collingswood, on an auto trip to Valley Forge. Mr. van Driht formerly served as pastor in both places.

A young doe was seen in various parts of town last Friday, both sides of Bellevue Avenue, sleeping in barns and hedges. It was evidently lost. One appeared between the railroads, a good-sized buck, which it is said someone had shot in the eyes, blinding it.

John Rizzotte, an employe at Winslow brick yard, was struck by the Reading newspaper train, at 13th St. crossing, early Wednesday morning, while on his way to work, and instantly killed. He leaves a wife and five children. Coroner Cunningham held an inquest yesterday. The deceased is a cousin of Nene Rizzotte, who was killed while riding over the same crossing two years ago, also cousin of John C. Rizzotte, one of Hammonton's best-known farmers.

Mr. J. R. Holman died early on Saturday morning, Nov. 20th, in Jefferson Hospital, Philadelphia, aged 79 years. This was entirely unexpected, as he was yielding to medical treatment, and had arranged to return home on Saturday. Pneumonia developed on Friday, and at midnight the telephone brought word of his serious condition. Dr. Crowell and Andrus R. Holman went up early in the morning, but life had departed. Mr. Holman was one of our best citizens, a Christian man, a successful farmer, a good friend. He bore his age well—appearing more like a man twenty years younger. Funeral services were held at his late residence, on Middle Road, on Tuesday afternoon; burial at Oak Grove Cemetery.

Mrs. Clara Wilson of Philadelphia, formerly of Hammonton, is visiting her friend, Mrs. D. W. C. Russell.

There will be a Christian Science service held in the Women's Civic Club House on Sunday afternoon, at three o'clock.

Dr. Tucker, the evangelist and Bible-reader, will probably be in Hammonton from Dec. 16th to 23rd, and hold union classes.

The second number of the Lyceum Course will be given next Wednesday evening, in the form of a lecture, by Montaville Flowers. The subject,—"Color-Guard and Picket-Line," deals with the Japanese question, which is causing much thought the country over.

The afternoon meetings of the Junior Band of Girl Pioneers have been discontinued, on account of the Director being unable to secure an assistant. Members who wish to do so may transfer their membership to the Senior Band, and attend Friday evening meetings.

In order to show that the work of the cooking classes has a practical value there will be a sale of macaroni and cheese, ready to serve, on Thursday and Friday afternoons, December 2 and 3, in the rooms of the classes, on Bellevue Ave. Those wishing to procure the same will place the order with Miss Forman.

Fire Company No. 1 was summoned to DaCosta about 7.30 on Thanksgiving morn, the Bischoff barn, across from Doert's, being on fire. Such headway had been gained that the building, with hay and other contents, soon went up. The chemical engine, ladder truck and about fifteen men went down.

Hammonton runs a chance to secure two very desirable enterprises. The first is the Baldwin Locomotive Works, from Eddy-stone, employing several thousand men. They are looking Hammonton over. The other is, the State authorities, with Prof. Rider, are to go to Winslow to-day, with the view of locating an Experiment Station on the large estate.

William Bernshouse, one of the oldest Odd Fellows in the State, represented our local Lodge at Grand Lodge meeting. The officials had received a copy of resolutions adopted by our Lodge, relating the facts of his membership,—fifty-five years,—and testifying to his faithful work. An impromptu reception was given him, with many a brotherly hand shake and complimentary words.

On Tuesday, Nov. 30th, a conference of Sunday School workers from all sections of the lower half of the state will be held in Hammonton. Morning and afternoon sessions will be held in the M. E. Church, and the programmes are arranged for workers. An evening meeting will be held in the Presbyterian Church, open to the public. Speakers of ability will address the evening congregation. Dinner and supper will be served, at a nominal cost, to delegates and guests of the conference, by the ladies.

The closing services of the fifty-sixth anniversary were held in the M. E. Church on Sunday last. The ten days series of meetings were of more than usual interest. The people rejoiced in having with them a number of men who had been popular pastors of the church. The crowning result was the fund for church building improvement, which was raised Sunday morning. In this Pastor van Driht and the District Superintendent, Rev. F. A. DeMaris, made appeals. Members of the church were heartily generous in their response to the appeal. It was estimated that about twenty three hundred dollars would be required to carry out the plans for improvement and alteration, and in a short time almost twenty-one hundred dollars were raised.

POMEROY was not in the habit of taking very much notice of his fellow typists who from time to time took down his letters.—indeed, until the coming of Miss Pansy Clare he had regarded them with little more interest than the typewriters which they operated. Pomeroy was a tall, dignified man, he was unmarried. A tall, dignified man, he regarded considerably older than his years, for he had known struggle, hardship, and privation. It was, indeed, only during the past few years that he had contrived to secure a decent portion of this world's goods, and the idea of marriage had never entered his thoughts.

Pomoroy was a changed man. Everybody said that he looked ten years younger. He trod the ground with the step of a boy—his eyes held a marvellous light.

"Getting engaged seems a better rejuvenator than a dozen hair restorers," observed Allardye, at the club.

"You see, old man, I told you that it would be all right."

But it was not all right. For a few days later something happened which caused Pomoroy to go sick with an-

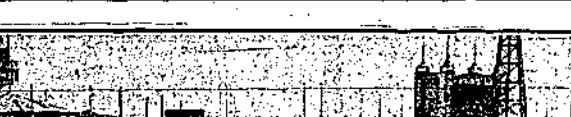

It happened thus. He had chanced to go unexpectedly to the day office of the typewriter man, and there, after a long time, he saw the man who had been the typewriter operator. As he entered he saw a sheet of paper on which she had written typins, and thrust it into a box.

Now, he did not speak of this to any, but it served to make him feel that he was not alone in his situation. To whom had she been writing when he entered the room? He was looking for a woman, and then, when he found her, he was so much surprised that he was not alone in his situation. He was puzzled, wretchedly so, and he was not alone in his situation. He was puzzled, wretchedly so, and he was not alone in his situation. He was puzzled, wretchedly so, and he was not alone in his situation.

Yet there was more to come. A few days later, when he again entered the day office, he saw the man who had been the typewriter operator. As he entered he saw a sheet of paper on which she had written typins, and thrust it into a box.

"Dear," she murmured, "please, please don't ask me."
"But I do ask you, and I want to know. Come, dear, can't you see how wretched I am?"
"—I—don't want to."
She hung her head petulantly.
"You—you shall know some day," she murmured, "after—after we are married."

Many young people never seem to be quite sure about it when to shake hands or introduction. You often see furthest offerings of hands that are both awkward and odd. But if everyone kept to the old rules there would be nothing to be kind, and the rules are, after all, very simple. You generally shake hands on being introduced nowadays, but in the past you were not sufficient to an elderly person, or one of low rank, may shake hands from politeness, but it is for them the first move towards doing

The Editor would further point out that it is a serious attempt at fraud to submit a MS. concurrently to two publications."

Percy drew his pocket diary out and turned over the pages slowly. "I wrote it in Hilly in September, it was typed in Hilly in October, it was typed in town in October, and was sent to the 'Event Journal' just before Christmas," he said. THE CIVIL WAR MORTALITY

Commenting on the loss of life in the Civil War from various causes, General Francis V. Greene says in "The Farmer's Magazine":

"How paltry seem the 5,000 killed and wounded in the War of 1812, the war in Mexico, or the war in Spain compared with the 14,000 killed, 15,000 at the Chickasaw, 10,000 at Antietam, the same Frederickburg, 16,000 at Chancellorsville, 23,000 at Gettysburg, 16,000 at Vicksburg, 37,000 in the Wilderness, and 26,000 at Spottsylvania! The grand agency of destruction far surpasses the imagination, accounts have been for more than one generation. In 1862, 93,000 killed by bullets, 186,000 killed by disease, 25,000 dead from other causes, a grand total of 304,000, out one in nine of every man was the uniform."—Clipping.

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God, in His wisdom, to remove from our midst to join the loved ones gone before him, our Brother Jesse Treat; Therefore be it

Resolved, That while bowing to the will of Almighty God in removing our beloved brother, we deeply deplore his loss to our Camp, and join our sorrow with that of his family and friends in this bereavement. As a brother and a member of this Camp, he won respect and love of all; and in passing away the Grand Army and our Camp lost one of its most useful and enterprising brothers.

Resolved, That the Charter of this Camp be draped in mourning for thirty days, and these resolutions be written in the Recording Secretary's books of our Camp, and a copy be tendered the family and each of our town papers.

Resolved, That we tender to the family and friends of our beloved brother sympathy and condolence in their severe affliction, and may Almighty God guide and assist them to become reconciled to their loss, and help to bear their bereavement, with the trust that they will meet again in the world above.

After discussion, in "Committee of the Whole," of matters not yet ripe, Council adjourned at 10.30.

What the Navy League Is.

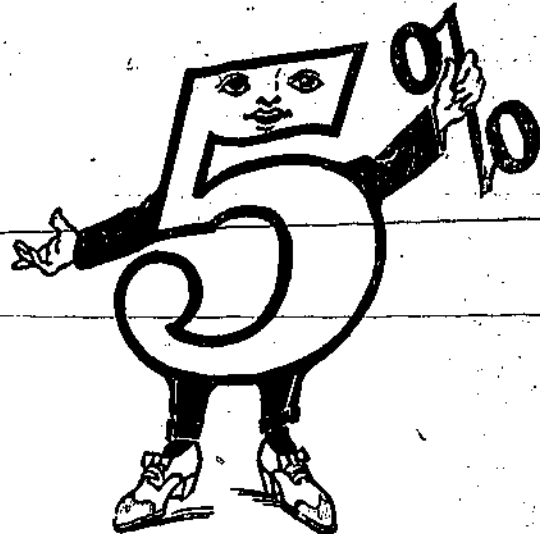

The Navy League is an association of people who wish to keep war out of the United States, and believe that the surest way to do it is to maintain a navy so strong that no military nation can send its troops across the ocean to attack us. It has no connection with any business or political organization of any kind, and is not pro anything nor anti anything, but just plain American. It has no favors to ask and no views to express except this: It insists that whatever else politicians may do or leave undone, they do not fail to provide such a navy as will insure this country against the horrors of war in the homeland.

The League was founded and chartered in 1902, and has more than 12,000 members besides more than 40,000 women members of its Woman's Section. Among its officers and members are Admiral Dewey, Theodore Roosevelt, Cardinal Gibbons, the Rt. Rev. Philip M. Rhinelander, and Dr. Lyman Abbott, while many of America's most prominent women are members of the Woman's Section.

There are four classes of membership.—Annual, at $2 per annum; Contributing, at $5 or more; Life, at $25; and Founder, at $100. Woman's Section membership is free, but individuals may contribute to the support of the work. Members receive "Seven Seas," the League's official organ, which is popular and attractive, besides being of recognized authority.
