SATURDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1911

Thanksgiving Services.

Union services were held on Thursday, in the Baptist Church.
There was a larger number than usual. The day was fine, encouraging many to come in who live at a distance.

Rev. W. L. Shaw delivered a most excellent sermon on the text found in Psalm lxxv. 1, "Unto thee do we give thanks, for that thy name is near thy wondrous works declare."

The speaker began by saying that there is something majestic and beautiful in thanksgiving; that the annual recognition of this feast was an indication that this is not a godless nation, that there is a God in our national constitution.

The average sermon preached this day will be boasting of wealth and power of our nation, of our resources and manufacturing industries;
instead of gratitude to God for individual and national blessings.

Referring to the farmer: he has been blessed; crops have been abundant. He plants the seed, which was produced for him, but he must wait for the dew and the rain to make it grow,—the process of which he is not aware. We cannot get along without the farmer,—on him depends all other labors, even our existence.

Under the blessing of God, man is being uplifted. Man is becoming kind and brother. Religion is crying "up" with the people, and is uplifting men to-day.

The condition of workmen was never better than to-day.
Referring to our wars, the speaker called attention to the fact that, especially the last one, was for humanity's sake. God has given to us a task never before equalled. Conditions prevailing to-day should fill us with holy zeal and largest measure of enthusiasm.

This is to us a "home day," and should be more than any other,
and around the festive board our hearts should overflow with gratitude for abundant blessings. What would the Nation be without the Home?
It is a divine institution.

We have been blessed with health, although some have been on beds of sickness. We have but to go into the hospitals to see that we are recipients of divine favor.

Thank God for the Bible; for the holy Sabbath Day. To what use do we put that day of rest? We should be thankful for miracles of grace. "Take my yoke upon you" is one of the many comforts to those in need.

The preacher spoke feelingly of the Apostle Paul, of his life and words; also of several of our great men departed,—Spurgeon, Moody, Tyler, Simpson,—who are now rejoicing in the blessed presence of the Trinity.

In closing, we should be grateful for the public school system, for our great country, for individual blessings, and the hope of a blessed immortality beyond.

The prayers offered were tender, full of gratitude, and reverence was made to homes from which dear ones had been taken.

The collection taken, amounting to about eighteen dollars, was sent to the New Jersey Children's Home Society.

A local paper in a small city or town is of more value to the community than all the comic colored sections of the big city dailies in the land. The local paper informs you of your own home town folks, the people you walk and talk with. Very little of the big cities' follies and news will be found in the local town paper, and even the children will read it without the danger of their minds becoming tainted with knowledge of things better left unprinted.

How dearly we pay for the things we get for nothing!
Some people never appreciate a favor until they need another.
If religion paid cash dividends, most of the churches would have to be enlarged.

Economy is all right, but don't waste a dollar's worth of time trying to save a penny.

There isn't much hope for the man who has no self-respect.

The invitation was not accepted,

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

For December 3, 1911.

BUILDING THE WALL.

GOLDEN TEXT.—Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, be strong.—1 Cor. 16: 13.

TOPIC.—Watching, working, praying.

Last Sunday we saw how well Nehemiah could pray. Now, we find that he was as good at working. That he was leading and directing work as he was at praying. There is a great truth hidden in the old proverb: "He that can pray can also work."

To do the best work of which he is capable a man needs to be properly fed, and he must be diligent in prayer. A man who does not pray may yet do a great deal of apparently good work, but it will not be done from the highest motive, and therefore will not be the noblest kind of work. It will not enable him. More over, the man who never prays has no power to fall back upon God for comfort and help when the difficulties of his work or of his condition overwhelm him, and his friends are unable or unwilling to aid him.

Nehemiah lived by prayer, therefore he was able to face and overcome opposition from strong and bitter enemies and lack of zeal among his own people. Stranded almost in a position of isolation he pushed the work ahead and completed it. He never lost courage or determination to succeed and he never spared himself or gave way to desolation. Like David, he encouraged himself in the Lord his God. (1 Sam. 30: 6.)

"Will they revive the stones out of the heaps of the rubbish that are burned?" Yes, they did just that, and the wall, which these "feeble Jews" built out of these stones, and which their enemies said a fox could knock down, stood strong and beautiful long after the walls of the mighty city of Babylon had been thrown down. Babylon was an expression of human might and of human vanity; Jerusalem was built upon the promises of God and of the glory of God.

This story of Nehemiah's has been repeated in different forms of expression by the enemies of God and of righteousness. In all ages and countries, "What do these feeble Jews do?" What do these feeble preachers of an old-fashioned Gospel? What do these feeble reformers? What do these feeble missionaries? What do these feeble evangelists? What do these feeble workers? Don't you know the world is against you, and you can't accomplish anything?

Satanism did not count God in on the side of the Jews, and therefore erred greatly in his estimate of their strength. He did not know that when God can get possession of a "feeble man," He can make him as strong as a man, He can make him as strong as a man, He can make him as strong as a man.

Reverend the stones out of the heaps of the rubbish which are turned to a very graphic description of the work that God is doing all the time in the world. He is turning the stones out of the heaps of human rubbish which are lying all about, with all the capacity for greatness or goodness apparently buried out of them by sin, and He is building with these living stones "the city of God" and the temple of His glory.

Modern chemistry has discovered that there are very valuable elements in what used to be considered waste matter. It has shown us a way to convert loss and refuse into wealth and refined men and women into jewels for the crown of Heaven's King.

Soy-bean straw has proved to be a better fertilizer for corn than corn fodder, and can be as cheaply produced. It has been proved time after time that all stock, cows especially, require a large amount of roughage kept in good health and give profitable returns all through the year. Let the roughage be of the best, and the concentrated part of the ration will average up a rather small portion, consequently the ration will be greatly lessened.

Advances to land all contamination, manure and other waste and refuse, and to use the fields no faster than they accumulate during the fall and winter. This system will not only keep the soil and water clean, but will also keep the soil and water clean, but will also keep the soil and water clean.

EPWORTH LEAGUE

TOPIC FOR DEC. 3, 1911.

PERFECTION THROUGH CHRIST.

John 1: 1-16.

"I'll we all attain unto a full-grown man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ." What a tremendous thought: what a sublime ideal! "I'll we all attain unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ." What a tremendous thought: what a sublime ideal!

But how can we hope to attain to so high a condition? Peter tells us, it is by diligently abiding in Him. He says, "Ye shall abide in Him, and the Father who sent Him will abide in you, and He will give you whatsoever ye shall ask in His name." We need to keep on adding one virtue and one grace to another by laying hold of the promises, and "abiding" in God's love for the attainment of each new rung of the ladder; which, like Jacob's ladder of old, starts from earth where we are and reaches up to Heaven. It is by making full and free use of the "precious and exceeding great promises" of God that we can become partakers of the divine nature.

Paul told the Ephesians he was praying for them that they may know what is the hope of His calling and inheritance in the saints, and what the exceeding greatness of His power to us-ward who believe—according to that working of the strength of His might which He wrought in Christ, when He raised Him from the dead. (Eph. 1: 19.)

The Church is Christ's body—the fulness of Him that filleth all in all. It is that in now in God's thought; for that working of the strength of His might which He wrought in Christ, when He raised Him from the dead. (Eph. 1: 19.)

In its fullest sense that result cannot be attained until we are all united unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ. And that will only be when we have all been "filled unto all the fulness of God." (Eph. 3: 19.) If we allow God's Spirit to empty us of self we will take possession of us and fill us. And every fresh surrender of our will to His will and every new act of obedience to His will and teaching will enlarge our capacity to receive and entertain this divine presence.

We can reproduce our Model only in proportion as He lives in us and we in Him.

A KINGDOM IN LAKE MICHIGAN. A kingdom was once set up on Beaver Island, in Northern Lake Michigan, and flourished for some years, when Jesse Strang, a prominent Mormon, had quarreled with the leaders of his church, and in 1846 fled with a few followers to that island. He and his followers were joined by others from Illinois and the colony from Illinois to the island. In the winter of 1846 they were sufficiently numerous to threaten control of the island. On July 8, 1846, Strang was crowned king with elaborate ceremonies. There was much controversy between the Mormons and the other inhabitants of the island, mostly Bohemians. While on a visit to Detroit President Fillmore heard of this little kingdom within the States of the United States. He sent an armed vessel to Beaver Island and King Strang was captured and tried for treason. He confessed his own defense, and made such an eloquent plea that he was acquitted. In 1850, he was re-arrested, and his kingdom fell with him.

The nearest approach to a milk industry of a single farm in the United States is the one at the largest dairy of condensed milk, which sells and delivers in New York about 2,000,000 quarts of milk daily. It also has a large herd of cows, and a large herd of cows, and a large herd of cows.

A few more animals on the farm will increase the profit next year. Animals are consumed for food, and convert them into high-priced articles of food. They furnish a market for your grain, hay and pasture plants, and have you feed and water them. They add interest and variety to farm life and often give incentive to your boys and girls to remain. Try a few more good animals.

Thanksgiving Day

TOPIC FOR DEC. 3, 1911.

PERFECTION THROUGH CHRIST.

John 1: 1-16.

Thanksgiving Day, coming with the regularity of a movable feast, is peculiar to the United States. Although it must be proclaimed by the President or Governor, and usually by both, and the time of year and the date itself are left to their judgment, so strong is the custom that the calendars for next year have denoted the day far ahead of any proclamation. On the last Thursday in November, the figures are printed in red. The banks know it will be that day, although there is nothing but precedent to establish it; business men know it will be a day of thanksgiving and never stop for reason why. The schoolboy, the football enthusiast, the farmer, the postman, all know Thanksgiving Day is the last Thursday in November.

As a generally observed national holiday Thanksgiving Day is barely fifty years old, yet its history is in a measure of much greater antiquity. Like many another custom, we owe this to those stern Puritans who "separated" and came to Massachusetts to make a lasting impression upon the social life of the new world. The history of the first Thanksgiving Day in the Massachusetts plantation has been variously given. In 1621, it is said, a day of thanksgiving was observed in acknowledgment of the Pilgrims' first harvest in America.

Those were trying days for the colonists. The year was one of great severity and scarcity. The people, we are quite told, "were necessitated to live upon clams and mussels and ground nuts and acorns, and these, got with much difficulty in the winter time. People were very much tired and discouraged, especially with the last batch of bread in the oven." Winthrop had early in the preceding July sent the ship Lion to England for a cargo of provisions, but after an interval of many months the ship was not forthcoming. On February 5, 1631, while the Governor was giving "the last handful of meal in the barrel unto a poor man distressed by a wolf at the door, at that instant they espied a ship arrived at the harbor's mouth, laden with provisions for them all."

A general fast day had been previously appointed, but the arrival of the Lion, bearing this sorely-needed relief, changed their mourning into joy, and, as Winthrop records in his journal, a day of thanksgiving was held "in all the plantations."

As we now have it, the festival dates from 1864, when President Lincoln issued a proclamation setting apart the last Thursday in November of that year as a day of national thanksgiving. In his proclamation, Lincoln said: "It has pleased Almighty God to prolong our national life another year, defending us with His guardian care against unfriendly designs from abroad and vouchsafing to us in His mercy many and signal victories over the enemy who is in our own household."

Each succeeding President of the United States has annually proclaimed a Thanksgiving day, and this is generally followed by similar proclamations by the Governors of the various States.

And takes less time by starting with the very best poultry raiser can afford.

Already the weather prophets are busy telling of what a long and cold winter we are going to have. They tell it each year. They tell it each year. They tell it each year. They tell it each year.

It is a mistake to feed cows and small pigs in the same lot with fat cattle. Every day the fat cattle will eat the small pigs and small pigs will eat the fat cattle. It is a mistake to feed cows and small pigs in the same lot with fat cattle.

The Philadelphia School for Nurses, 2219 Chestnut Street, announces that enrollment for the Spring classes will shortly begin. This institution is recognized and endorsed by the leading physicians everywhere. Free scholarships in the two year courses are available and provide room, board, laundering, incidental expenses and railroad-fare home on completion of the course. A home study course and a resident short course are also provided. The school provides full instruction under safe and wholesome conditions and opens the way to almost immediate financial betterment for those who need to increase their earning power.

A special short course class opens February 21st, 1912. This class is formed at the request of leading physicians, who are anxious that some provision be made to meet the increasing demand for nurses in all sections. This is an opening, which will be appreciated by those who need to quickly prepare themselves for self-support and nursing duty. An illustrated number of the School Bulletin, which is sent free to interested persons, gives all the details.

color fades or the paint cracks and peels off, or the paint won't spread right, or the paint covers poorly and you need three coats instead of two, or it wears out in a year or two, etc.
Further, inferior paint often leaves a surface in such bad condition that it's years before the damage done is really remedied.
When repainting is necessary you are put to considerable trouble and expense to burn off all old previous coats so that the new paint can be applied to a good foundation.
