THE LOVE OF GOD.

Like a cradle rocking, rocking,
Silent, peaceful, to and fro--
Like a mother's sweet looking dropping
On the little face below--
Hush! the green earth, swinging, turning,
Jarless, noiseless, safe and slow--
Falls the light of God's face bending
Down and watching us below--
And as feeble babes that suffer,
Toss and cry, and will not rest,
Are the ones the tender mother
Holds the closest--loves the best--
So when we are weak and wretched,
By our sins weighed down--distracted
Then it is that God's great patience Holds us closest, loves us best-- O great heart of God! whose loving Cannot hindered be nor crossed;
Will not weary, will not even
In our death itself be lost-- Love divine, of such great loving
Only mothers know the cost--
Cost of love, which, all love passing Gave a son to save the lost.

—SARAH HOLMES.

New York Correspondence.

New York, Dec 8, 1877.

THANKSGIVING.

New York is about as much of a New England city as Boston, and Thanksgiving, the President's Sunday, is as religiously observed. Business of every kind was suspended, except the up-town drinking places, which did a bigger business than usual. There were thousands of turkeys consumed, acres of pumpkin pie, barrels of cider, and the day was given over to mirth and jollity. The charities all gave their beneficiaries a turkey dinner. The newsboys' homes fed over two thousand waifs, on turkey and mince-pies, and a pleasant sight it was to see the homeless and hungry take a square meal, something they won't get again till next Thanksgiving. The churches were more than usually crowded, and altogether the day was a success.

POLITICAL.

There is no question but that Tilden had arranged a hold stroke for the presidency. If Spofford and Butler had been given seats in the Senate, and Patterson and Conover stayed with the Democracy, giving them the control of the Senate, he expected to have both houses declare him the legally elected president, and be inaugurated. Then he would have both houses recognize him, and thus elbow President Hayes out of the way. Of course this would precipitate civil war, but little does Tilden care for that. He spent five millions to buy the presidency, and he has no more idea of giving up the chase than he had last October. It is the ambition of his life, the one thing he has lived for, and this is his last chance. The Democracy will never nominate him again, and it is now or never. But outside of the desperate politician, who consider themselves defrauded out of place, the scheme does not meet with favor. The respectable portion of the party in this city believe in the honesty and integrity of President Hayes, and they know the effect his policy has had upon trade. The Southern trade has more than doubled since last March, and it is increasing daily. The South is peaceful and quiet, both races uniting in an effort to repair the ravages of war, and restore it to more than its old-time prosperity. The South is earning something and has a surplus. Hayes did what Tilden could not have done, and the merchants of New York realize it. The scheme of the great fraud will find no encouragement here.

SILVER.

Silver is so plenty as to become a nuisance. It is only worth 33 cents on the dollar, and the retailers, restaurant keepers and others are taking advantage of it. You go into a restaurant and tender a $5 greenback and you will get back $3 in silver dollars. As these people pay 93 cents for them, they make seven cents every time they can do this, which is a very handsome addition to their profits. The places of amusement buy silver regularly to give out in change, and the result is, silver is the circulating medium. If the bland bill should pass, it would drive out gold and paper money altogether. "The dollars of our daddies" is getting as plenty as blackberries.

LIFE INSURANCE AND BING-BING.

The secondarily President of the Security Life Insurance Company, who swore to a surplus of about a quarter of a million when it hadn't a dollar, and who did all sorts of things in a most irregular way, has been sentenced to five years in the penitentiary at hard labor. This is well. Case was a man of large property, and one of the class known as "eminently respectable." He stood high in the church and in society, and it is probable, didn't realize that in plundering a vast number of people by means of life insurance that he was doing any wrong. It is a fashionable kind of stealing, this life insurance and savings' bank swindling, and the respectable Case was an astonished man when he was pulled up to answer. Such a thing had never happened before, and he could not believe that anything serious would come of it. He protested that he had never examined the condition of the company—that the statement was brought to him, and he swore to it without knowing what it was. But the Judge held that a President who received $10,000 per annum to manage the interests of twenty thousand widows and orphans ought to know something about it, and so he sends him up for five years, despite his respectability. Dr. Lambert, the president of the swindling American Populists will go next, and the lay is reaching for Furber, the president of the North American. A life insurance president in striped cloths is a cheerful and improving sight, and there ought to be more of them. The good companies in this city have been largely instrumental in bringing about this most excellent result, for the reason that the companies that expect to pay losses have had a hard time competing with the swindle-shops that were organized to fail when they could make more money by failing than continuing. Now the business is on a better and safer basis than ever.

THE BABY SHOW.

An interesting genius has fitted up a hall corner of Fourteenth Street and Fifth Avenue, organized a baby show. He advertised for all sorts of babies, fat, lean, large, small, single, twins and triplets, and has succeeded in capturing a hundred or more. There are a dozen pairs of twins, some of them very handsome, and some very ugly, and there are three sets of triplets, which are the most unaccountable specimens of ugliness I ever beheld. The father of one of the sets of triplets exhibits them, and is as proud as though he was entitled to credit for them. The show is a success, so far as attracting people is concerned. A throng of women stream through the hall from ten in the morning till twelve at night, and the babies are punched, felt of, kissed and hugged, according as they are dirty or clean, pretty or otherwise. The exhibitors are all poor people, who get from one to two dollars a day, with a chance of winning a prize. The visitors all vote for their favorites, and those having the most votes in their class, get premiums. It is a curious exhibition. One man brought a baby to exhibit, a very young one, the mother being sick at home. The first night he picked up his baby, and took it to his mother, when to, it happened to be a girl, whereas his own child was a boy. He rushed back to the hall and got another child, but that was not the right one, and he has been taking children home ever since, but he has not yet got his own, the mother, who could recognize her child is too sick to go to the hall and so there is trouble.

THE TEMPERANCE WAR.

The law and order league continue their fight on rum, and they accomplish something. Last Sunday the bars were very generally closed, and about a hundred of the worst class of doggeries have been closed permanently. They arrest and fine, and if the offender continues, they arrest and fine over again, making it unprofitable for all who have not a big business. The hotels and big saloons took it as a joke at first, and paid willingly, but they are getting tired of it, and are organizing to resist. It is doubtful whether they can be forced to stop, but if the cheap bucket-shops can be closed, a great thing has been done. In addition to the prosecuting the rum-sellers, the league has organized a temperance movement among the workmen, and thousands are pledging themselves to abstain. Employers announce that in all cases preference will be given to total abstinence, and men are followed as they are entering the rum-mills and influenced to keep out, and every possible influence is brought to bear to keep them straight after they have once quit. The work has plenty of money behind it, and is going on systematically and to some purpose. The rum-sellers are having a serious time of it. It was noticeable that there were fewer breaches of the peace Thanksgiving day than have been known of a holiday for years for which the league claims the credit.

BUNNERS.

continues good for these times. The South is buying very largely, and merchants report good payments, and everything sound and serene. The rains have ceased, and cold weather has set in in earnest.

PINRO.

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 26, 1877.

The admission of Kellogg and Butler, within a few moments of each other in the order named, seems, finally, to have resulted from a conviction upon both sides that it was inevitable, and that to continue the fight longer with the time fixed by the Constitution for opening the regular session close on their heels, would be at the expense of several important interests still waiting senatorial action before the expiration of the extra session; hence the treaty tacitly agreed to, so that a vote might be had. For the first time in our history, a creature wholly without reputation save such as was acquired by the part he played in one of the most atrocious, cold blooded, wholesale butcheries known to the history of Ku Klux rule, is elevated to a seat in our highest legislative body; according to an almost universal belief his election for the place by the ride-club ulnority was in recognition of his services at Hamburg, and others subsequently rendered, differing only in the degree of their enormity; his pretended election was in such flagrant disregard of all the requirements of South Carolina's constitution, that it hardly amounted to burlesque; and his admission by the solid vote of Democrats with two recreant Republicans is regarded as an insult and a gross outrage upon the rights of every citizen, nominally protected by the stars and stripes. This revolutionary attempt has made us unusually credulous, and a thousand rumors that would have been scouted prior to its inauguration as figments from the brains of our most incorrigible romancers or as the wild speculations of lunatics are now entertained and their truth admitted without question. One of these is to the effect that the present bill on the part of the Democrats is to recuperate their strength for a renewal of the struggle to obtain full control of the Senate; when that shall have been accomplished, Tilden, who took the oath of office last March, is to be declared President by a joint resolution of both Houses, and forcibly seated, if necessary, in the chair now occupied by Mr. Hayes. I forbear from comment; but the confidence of very many, in the pretended acquiescence of the Congressional leaders of the party, in the verdict rendered by the Electoral Commission, has been rudely shaken by their apparent readiness to endorse any scheme however revolutionary, to grasp the reins of power; and in the view of many reflecting spectators, of the tendency manifested during the session now closed, the national outlook has not been so threatening since the nominal close of the rebellion in 1865. Speculation is rife as to the contents of the message. Since the Sun's publication professing to give a summary of its position upon the financial questions engrossing the country, the inflationists of every school have been depressed and their opponents exalted. Notwithstanding the efforts of the malignants to cast upon Grant's administration the odium of the loss of the Huron, it is now generally agreed that the navigating officer was immediately responsible for the disaster; and he has expiated his blunder, as far as one life can atone for 100, sacrificed to ignorance or carelessness or both. There is still a good deal of indignation heard that the vessel should have been ordered to sea, or permitted to go, in the teeth of a furious gale and with the danger signals flying all along the coast. The proposition to make some provision for the survivors and the heirs of those lost, by Congress, finds few to oppose it.

There resides in this city a father and mother whose oldest son was instantly killed a few years since, by the premature discharge of gunpowder used in blasting. The second, a naval officer, was lost at sea two years ago, and the third and only remaining one, also an officer, perished in the Huron disaster. The gentleman to whom the only daughter was betrothed, was killed by a railroad disaster while on his way to fulfill the contract. Such a case of successive bereavements is, happily, rare.

The Veterans of the Mexican war are again pressing their claims for pensions in a vigorous way upon the attention of Congress; and at a meeting held here Saturday evening, the estimate of the number of the survivors furnished Congress last session, with this end in view or to defeat it, perhaps, by the Commissioner of Pensions, was dissected and made to appear in a very ridiculous light and in a manner very discreditable to the judgement, at least, of the Commissioner.

Mr. Schurz refused to pay the expenses of the Fox delegation of chiefs recently arrived here without invitation, on the ground that they had lost their reservation without proper mission. Judging from the treatment accorded those proceeding then, they would have been better off by just the cost of the visit, had they remained at home. The weather is seasonably cold and the windows of the shops already have a holiday appearance. Troops of children, happy in anticipation, cavalcade the merits of the rivals for trade, while crowds of gaily dressed females spend money liberally, regard less of "hard times."

MAXWELL.

Vessel Owners and Captains.

Thursday afternoon a meeting of the Vessel Owners and Captains' Association was held at the office on Walnut street, near Second, President John W. Everman in the chair. The Secretary reported that since March 1st certificates had been issued to 215 vessels, and to 53 individual members. The Treasurer's report gives the following facts: Amounts received from vessels, $3,041.50; from individuals, $260; from six months' interest on $8200 worth of city notes, $246; from interest on deposits, $15.70; over-drawn and paid, $2,656.68; balance in cash in the treasury, $991.31; invested in city notes at par, $4,300; cost, $4,309.61; making the total balance $9299.91. It was stated that the medical to Captain Bowman for meritorious conduct in rescuing a ship-wrecked crew would be ready in a few days. The collector was authorized to bring suit in a demurrage case against Lewis & Kimball, charterers of the schooner, F. R. Baird. The following, offered by Mr. Lawrence, was passed: "Whereas, Several captains of vessels have reported that the harbor master or deputy harbor master had notified them that they must unship their jibbooms while lying in the docks of this port, and after so doing give the captain the privilege of leaving them shipped, provided they would pay them the sum of fifty cents, which was done in several instances; therefore: Resolved, that the collector be requested to report at the next meeting by what authority, if any they make the demand—North American.

OUR BOOK TABLE.

St. Nicholas for December, of which 100,000 copies have been issued, is the Grand Christmas Holiday number, and contains ninety six pages and fifty seven illustrations, including a frontispiece, "The Holy Family," after the famous picture by Titianbach.

Henry W. Longfellow contributes a Christmas poem, "The Three Kings," that will bring him yet nearer to the youngsters' hearts.

William Cullen Bryant also has a fine poem in this number entitled "The Mocking Bird and the Donkey."

Louisa M. Alcott's new story, "Under the Lilacs," a serial for girls, opens with an installment of three long, delightful chapters, and with four fine illustrations by Mary Halleck Foote. A capital portrait of Miss Alcott, with an admirable and sympathetic sketch of her life, also appears in this issue.

The author of "Alice in Wonderland" (Lewis Carroll) furnishes a fairy story, "Bruno's Revenge," full of sweet, bright fancies, and with a pretty illustration.

Dr. J. G. Holland contributes a most double riddle that will be a puzzle to most puzzle-solvers.

There is a fine, hitherto unpublished, sketch of bright boy life, rescued from the post-humous papers of Theodore Winthrop; and this, with the opening part of "The Tower-Mountain," a serial for boys, by Gustavus Frankenstein, with superb illustrations by T. Moran and J. E. Kelly, adds greatly to the boy interest of the number.

Mr. Frank B. Stockton contributes a fresh and humorous fairy tale, "Sweet Marjoram Day," which is most skillfully illustrated by Mr. A. B. Densell; and Gail Hamilton discourses briefly, pleasantly and instructively upon the difference between the behavior of young folks in the "good old times" and nowadays.

Besides the more brilliant attractions, there is an exciting tale, "The Lion Killer," from Mary Wager Fisher; a timely story, "Jack's Christmas," by Emma K. Parrish; another Christmas tale, "A Crabby's Beautiful Tree," by J. C. Parry; "A Scut about Pottery," by Edwin C. Taylor, with ten illustrations; "The Famous Heroes of Venice," an historical sketch by Mary Lloyd; and a Christmas Card, drawn by Miss Greenaway, of London, which St. Nicholas presents, with a cordial Christmas greeting.

The humorous character of the magazine is well upheld by Lucretia K. Hale's laughter-provoking account of "the Peterkin's Charades;" "A Chapter of Buts," consisting of five comical illustrations; "The Magician and his bag," a funny short story, with eight grotesque pictures; and "The Boy who Jumped on Trains," some funny verses by Mary Hartwell, with illustrations by Hopkins.

The Departments, "Jack-in-the-Pulpit," "For Very Little Folks," "Young Contributors," "Letter-Box," and "Riddle-Box," are in fuller force than ever; and the pictures and typography of the whole number make it truly a Fine Art magazine for the young.

The beautifully artistic and suggestive new cover of St. Nicholas is the work of Mr. Walter Crane, the famous artist, who designed "The Baby Opera" and many other charming picture books for young folks.

Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined, and advice free. A special notice is made in the Scientific American of all Inventions patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Public attention is thus directed to the merits of the new patent, and sales or introduction often effected.

Any person who has made a new discovery or invention, can ascertain, free of charge, whether a patent can probably be obtained, by writing to the undersigned. Address for the paper, or concerning Patents, MUNN & CO., 17 Park Row, N. Y. Branch Office cor. F. & 7th Sts. Washington, D. C.

THE EATON GOLD and SILVER REDUCTION COMPANY.

Office—No. 20 Church St., N. Y.

GEN'L JOHN C. FREMONT, President.
PROF. A. K. EATON, Vice-President.
W. W. HANLY, Secretary.

This Company is founded upon discoveries, inventions and improvements in the reduction and treatment of Gold and Silver, and other ores, which have recently been perfected. It is intended that its business shall be conducted by works of large capacity, which, for governing commercial reasons, will be near the city of New York, as well as by branch works in the mining districts, and by sale of its patent rights to other reduction works in this and foreign countries. The discoveries and improvements upon which the Company is based, have been made by Prof. A. K. Eaton, one of the ablest chemists and metallurgists of the present day. They have been reached during a practical and personal experience in mining and assaying occupations extending over a period of more than thirty years.

Twenty-six years ago Mr. Eaton invented and patented the Amalgamating Plates, which have ever since been in use at all the Gold and Silver Mills throughout the mining region. If the use of these plates were discontinued to-day, the yield of gold would probably be diminished one-half. In the same way his later discoveries are valuable and effective, and are marked by the same certainty and simplicity. The ores of nearly all the gold and silver mines are rendered more easily difficult by the presence, in combination, of zinc, sulphur, and other elements which give them a refractory character, and which involves great expense and time in working, and great loss of gold and silver.

It is not too much to say that the great mountain region West of the Mississippi and Missouri rivers is occupied and populated only on account of its mines of gold and silver, and other metals. Over this whole country many of these refractory ores are left unworked and many hundred thousand tons of ore left unused, because their working would be too difficult and expensive under present modes of treatment. To all these ores Mr. Eaton's processes directly apply. They render their working comparatively easy and inexpensive, and give immediate value to this idle property, and employment to many thousands of unemployed men.

These processes increase the yield as at present had, by from ten to forty per cent. The reports of the Consolidated Virginia and California mines, for the year ending December 31, 1876, show that only 73 per centum of the gold and silver contained in the ore is obtained by their present working, and the combined yield of these two mines for the year was $30,062,782.00—thirty millions, sixty-two thousand, seven hundred and eighty-two dollars. By the Eaton processes, this yield could have been increased by six or seven millions of dollars. The gold mines of Senator Jones, in the San Joaquin Valley, gave him only 60 per cent. of what the ore contains. These mines are quoted because they are well known, and because every appliance that money and art could devise, under the ablest management, has been used to increase their production. Under Mr. Eaton's processes, it is claimed that out of most ores 97 per cent.—practically all—of the gold and silver can be obtained at much less cost of time and money than is at present required; that base Bullion can be treated and refined at one-third the cost, and one-fourth the time at present used. In reference to this latter process, Prof. Torrey, U. S. Mint, New York, says: "I believe it to be an entirely new and very useful process. Theoretically, the mechanical and chemical principles on which it is based are correct."

Large amounts of gold and silver ore are brought to this city for treatment and for shipment abroad, and also are large quantities of Base Bullion. The process of reduction is greatly facilitated by working together ores of a different character, and the Base Bullion now sent abroad, can be retained for treatment at the works in New York, under the improved process. For the purpose of a general demonstration of these processes, the Company has granted a limited right to a party in New York who is erecting works capable of treating twenty-five tons of ore and twenty-five tons of Base Bullion daily, and the buildings and machinery for this purpose are in greater part ready.

They now desire to provide for the immediate erection of the larger works by sale of a limited portion of their capital stock, and it is in order to procure the required means without unnecessary sacrifice, that their enterprise is in this way laid before the public. For this purpose a sufficient amount of stock will be sold at seven dollars per share, being 70 per cent. of its par value; and it is requested that persons who may wish to purchase, will apply personally, or by letter, to the Secretary of the Company, P. O. box 574, to whom all remittances for shares should be made, and from whom the Prospectus and other and more full information can be obtained.

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR OUR SABLE CATTLEMAN.

We recommend that suitable provision be made for the people to enable them to convert their savings into government securities, so that they may have their savings well secured and yield a moderate interest. It is an advantage of our country that the people can buy the securities of the United States Government; our country is guarded against the possibility of the foreign nations being swayed by war or other disturbances beyond its borders.

AMERICAN SHIPPING.

It is the duty of the United States Government to encourage the United States with foreign commerce, and especially the export of our products to foreign countries. The United States has a large export trade, but the greater portion of this trade is carried in foreign vessels. The important thing is to encourage our shipping and seamen to carry our goods to foreign countries. It is on this condition, because it can be well understood and it is a great means that shipping interest should receive to the

for the present fiscal year, our receipts were $13,979,934.90, and our disbursements $14,000,000.00. The treasury is now in a position to meet the demands of the public for the first four months of the present year to have been $4,813,000.

THE PUBLIC DEBT.

The report of the postmaster shows a fall and clear statement of the state and condition of the postal service. The ordinary expenses of the post for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1877, amounting to $1,000,000,000, are now in the hands of the public, and the balance of the year, amounting to $1,000,000,000, is now in the hands of the public. The additional sum of $1,000,000,000, is now in the hands of the public, and the balance of the year, amounting to $1,000,000,000, is now in the hands of the public.

Further on the secretary says that the loss of any other power, has less sagging effect than that of the power of the arm, and that it is not so much the loss of the arm as the loss of the power of the arm that is the danger. Indeed, the fact that the power of the arm is the power of the arm is known to other nations that those nations' rates almost without exception are higher than those of the United States. But large sums have been expended in a number of years to increase the power of the arm, and it is not clear that the power of the arm is the power of the arm. Wanamaker & Brown respectfully announce that their Autumn and Winter Fashions in Clothing for Men and Boys are ready. The great buildings at Sixth and Market are crowded from top to bottom with such Clothing as merits the confidence of the people.

Wanamaker & Brown's Cloths and Cassimeres are, in many instances, made expressly for them. No house in the trade confines itself so exclusively to the first-class manufacturers. Indeed, a long and mature experience is necessary to know just what goods to select and make up.

Wanamaker & Brown's Order Department will be found full of fabrics of every good kind, either Novel and Fashionable styles or the plainer and more useful things. Talented cutters, who have been successful for years in our service, are in waiting to make garments according to the ideas of the people who are to wear the goods. Good hands are employed to make up, and only good trimmings used.

Wanamaker & Brown's Ready-Made Department offers every accommodation to those who do not care to go through the process of measurement. The stock in all Departments for Men and Boys is immense and complete, and does not lack in style, workmanship or finish, while the prices can be proven to be nearly, if not quite, 25 cents on the dollar lower than the market.

Wanamaker & Brown's Little Boys' and Youths' Clothing has always been a well-cared-for and prominent feature of the business. All ages can be fitted, and the styles are not surpassed—the "fits"
have always been the subject of admiration.

Wanamaker & Brown's Shirt, Neck-tie, and Hosiery counters enable their customers to get complete outfits at more advantageous rates than they expect.
