Never Mind What "They" Say.

Don't worry nor fret
About what people think,
Of your ways or your means,
Of your food or your drink
If you know you're doing
Your best every day,
With the right on your side,
Never mind what "they" say.

Lay out in the morning
Your plans for each hour,
And never forget
That old time is a power.
This also remember
"Mong truths old and new,"
The world is too busy
To think much of you.

Then garner the minutes
That make up the hours,
And pluck in your pilgrimage
Honor's bright flowers,
Should grumblers assure you
Your course will not pay,
With conscience at rest,
Never mind what "they" say.

Then let us, forgetting
The insensate throng
That jostles us daily
While marching along,
Press onward and upward,
And make no delay—
And though people talk,
Never mind what "they" say.

From the Capital.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 9, 1882. Washington is enjoying (?) the first cold wave of the winter. The thermometer has shrunk nearly to the zero point, and warm rooms contain all such of the inhabitants as are able to indulge themselves. Our people are averse to both extremes of heat and cold, and on days like to-day the streets are almost as deserted as during a summer shower. Street cars, however, are crowded, and in them the contact of persons transmits a sort of community warmth that in many instances is more desirable than the direct rays of the life-reviving stove. Modern improvements which affect the comfort of our people indoors seem to find ready adoption here, but those numerous mitigators of cold employed in other cities to make travelling more comfortable, do not as yet meet with favor. Now in many northern cities the street cars and other public conveyances are provided with most enjoyable little stoves which diffuse a warmth at once necessary to travelling comfort and pleasant to the corporations in the form of increased inducements to ride on cold days. Who could, struggling along on a frosty day, resist the temptation of a well heated room travelling in the same direction? Not many. Washington streets are proverbially cold, awful cold, their concreted expanse seems a race track for the pitiless blasts which tarry here as if in delight at the blue noses and frosted feet caused by their presence.

Congress has been in session this week, and, as usual, has done nothing; no one has expected it would, so none are disappointed, but large numbers of important measures have been introduced calculated to greatly affect the present laws. Among them is a bill to permit National Banks to hold District of Columbia bonds as security for circulation. These bonds, as is well known, are endorsed by the United States and are as good as its own. But the fact that the measure is backed by a wealthy lobby is ground enough to arouse antagonism among the members and Senators who are not friendly to our National Bank system; they say that the bill is the entering wedge, the precedent to be established, which in the days to come when government bonds are no more, will allow the banks to be the custodians of any securities, State or otherwise, to carry on circulation. Some even go so far as to declare that the bill announces the distant return of the "Wild Cat" days of before the war. The Garfield Monument Fair, which closed a week ago to-day was not the financial success its projectors anticipated it would be, and if they pay all their debts the balance will not amount to five thousand dollars. The difficulty was that people would not buy. They walked along the corridors, looked and admired but failed to purchase the objects of their admiration. Another difficulty was that the time of the fair was too short—it should have been at least three weeks instead of one. A "professional beauty" from New Jersey, exhibited her charms for the delectation of visiting mankind, but the ladies gave her such a racket that she was glad to return home after the third day. Wonder how the beautiful Langtry will fare, but Mrs. Langtry has we understand, given up the "beauty" idea, and now simply calls herself pretty. The Washington market is overstocked with her photographs, some of which are pretty and others ugly.

A humane (?) notice has been issued in the office of the Adjutant-General. It is to the effect that if any clerk remains away from the office ten days by reason of sickness or disability his place will be supplied by an able-bodied man and the unfortunate employee discharged.

When the Garfield Fair managers took charge of the Capitol they boarded up the paintings upon the walls of the Rotunda and opened the steam heaters, which are ordinarily kept closed. The narrow space between the boards and the paintings became filled with steam, which cracked two of the paintings to such an extent as to almost completely ruin them. The injured paintings are "The Baptism of Pocahontas" and "The Landing of the Pilgrims." They cost $10,000 each. This is another instance going to show what vandalism can be perpetrated under an act of Congress.

A "Peerless" potato has been raised in Cumberland county which weighs over three pounds.

Frederic A. Potts is among the subscribers who have given $500 each to the fund for the pedestal for Bartholdi's statue of Liberty.

John Gant, of Metedeconk Neck, boated fifteen thousand pounds of striped bass or rock fish at one catch in Barnegat Bay, on Thursday. Most of the fish were at once shipped to New York market.

The Farmers' Association of Camden county has addressed a circular letter to many of the leading farmers of the county with a view to ascertain what have been the most profitable crops raised this year.

There is a remarkable religious revival in progress in Sussex county. At Tranquility fifty have been received into church membership and over sixty have professed conversion. At Swartswood twenty-five have been added to the church; at Andover, fifteen; at Sparta, twenty; at La Fayette, fifteen.

James Bishop, Chief of the State Bureau of Labor and Industries, thoroughly inspected the Rio Grande Sugar Works at Cape May last week, and gives the following statistics of the season's work: Number of tons of cane carted to the mills, 6,087; net weight, 5,350 tons; pounds of sugar manufactured, 319,000; total amount of State bounty, $8,530. The difference between the weight of the cane and the net weight is caused by a deduction for the weight of the blades of the cane.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF.—In the olden times every person afflicted with any sort of scrofulous disease was regarded with holy horror and so intense was the superstitious dread of such people that they were driven out of the country and made to live among themselves. Such disorders are as prevalent to-day as they were fifteen hundred years since, but public feeling is more charitable. Besides Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases has been introduced and the afflicted are being healed.

Lieutenant—"John I have noticed for some time that my shirts always come from the laundry one week too late. How is this?" John—"Excuse me lieutenant, but your shirts are always so clean that I think it a pity to send them to the laundry, and so I wear them another week."

Cool, but not always collected—an ice bill.

"I'm not very good at talking, but I'm good at thinking," An Austin resident said on the occasion of the tenth anniversary of the "I have got no money" response. "Well, I haven't got money enough to pay rent, but I've got money enough to pay rent to build yourself a house. I'm just was eating more butter than milk, while the landlady looked on, indignant and hinted, until she finally went into a nervous fit. Finally, said, 'Do you know butter is up thirty-five cents a pound?'—The angry guest reached out and took what there was left. 'Well,' he replied approvingly and reasonably 'good butter is worth it.'"

Century time: When is yer gwine Frederickburg?" asked an Austin key who had learned to read, and who had not acquired the accompaniment. "I am gwine tomorrow night in de early stage." "Don't go in de early stage, Julia. I yea don't yea risk it." "Why Frederickburg?" "Because de early stage ain't safe. I read a place where warn't folks about consumption de early stage."

Biliousness.

Almost every person is familiar with this ailment, either as experiencing it himself or as witness to others.
The most common exports do not ordinarily know its nature or treat-

liver is the largest gland in the body,
and its office is to strain the blood.
If it cannot, therefore, be exer-

A DIALOGUE

Between Storekeeper & Lady

"What beautiful Christmas goods you have!" said a lady who entered into one of our village stores the other day.

"Yes, madam, we aim to make our holiday season attractive."

"What is the price of that handsome

Swing Dressing Case? What a beauty

it is!"

"It is very handsome, and the price is only $5.25. The others are less in price."

"Why, I never saw them sell so cheap. You may get me one just like it; only, I would prefer it in 'old gold.'

"Can you get it before Christmas?"

"Oh, yes! you may depend upon it."

"I see you have Breveted Plate Mirrors.

Do you sell many of them here?"

"I sold several of them last Christmas. They are more suitable for that season than any other. Occasionally I sell some for birthday gifts, etc."

"I have never seen anything of the kind kept before. I shall know where to find those things in future.

Good day."

"Good-day, madam!"

The above conversation, which

we witnessed, in our village

Drug Store (Cochran's), was the prelude to other interesting matters of the same kind. We advise our friends to go there

if they need any Christmas things, as you will find a first-class line of articles suitable for present.

Mr. Cochran assures us (and

(and we don't doubt it, judging from past dealings) that he will guarantee his prices as low as anywhere else.

Go and See Him.
