In the meshes of this net bunches of holly and of laurel, branches of homlock and of cedar, can be thrust, so that the entire space becomes a solid mass of green, variegated with splashes of brilliant color. The use of this fishnot, by the way, is delightful at any season of the year. At a wedding in Bar Harbor last summer, for instance, those wooden casings to the stairs, The fish-not was filled with branchos of autumn leaves, chrysanthemums, and some of the brilliant September flowers.
