Staten Islanders are agitating the question of the annexation of their island to New Jersey, where it, geographically belongs. We hope they may be successful.

A Connecticut lawyer made such a powerful plea for a murderer, a few days ago, at the trial of the Court and jury over, and the people in Court had in resort to rappers to keep their feet dry.

General Schenck, our minister at London, has it appears from the Washington Chronicle, informed the government of his desire to return home. We may, then, soon expect to hear of the retirement of Mr. Fish from the State Department and his appointment as Minister to England, notwithstanding the general request of the Republican Senators that he remain in the Cabinet.

Judging from recent dispatches, the Cuban insurrection is suffering from a decline, and has been for some time back. Fifteen thousand Cubans are stated to have straggled during last year, and several prominent leaders but lately in arms have signed a document which is rather profuse in expressions of penitence and promises of future good behavior. This conversion seems too sudden to be genuine. The signers of the document may have been induced by the Spanish authorities to sign a document for the purpose of obtaining immunity from prosecution and punishment. But, nevertheless, the surrender of so many Cubans, coupled with the publication of their abjuration, will probably have a discouraging effect upon those remaining in armed opposition against the Spanish authorities.

Our Book Table.

"THE ALDINE" FOR JANUARY, 1872. Much curiosity has been aroused to see this new "Champion of American Art," and the publishers, to gain a truthful harvest by a timely gratification of this very natural feeling, have brought out the initial issue a month before the usual time.

On investigation we find that the almost extravagant excellence of last year's paper has been improved upon, the paper of this number being nearly one-half heavier. The surface also seems better adapted to the rendering of those fine tints and delicate grays which the printers of THE ALDINE know how to render so exquisitely.

We also find that the advertisements have been reprinted to the wrapper, and an additional sheet inserted, giving seven more pages to the paper—space well improved, under the judicious care of the new post-editor.

Of the new American Art feature it is not too much to say, that the beginning is all that could be wished by the most enthusiastic native. The illustration on the first page, "Mead Miller," is one of the happiest instances that has ever come to our notice of the power of the pencil to reinforce the pen. The perfect harmony of ideas between the quoted lines of Whittier's best production and the delicate graceful figure of Miss Davis delineated will be gratefully indexed to all lovers of that poetry which is not confined to words, but the artist who understands it, and is young lady of about twenty, we produce an enviable success in the path she has chosen—a path untraveled by questions of women's rights. The full page picture, from a design by Delany, "The Noonday," is in itself a prize; Henry Linton, the engraver, has produced an relief, all the delicacy of a fine steel engraving, and the picture is wonderfully suggestive of the American Bank Note Company, for whose vignettes the very best work of this artist has been produced.

"A Tropical Forest," by Granville Perkins, engraved by Watkins, is a grand grouping of the characteristics of South American forest scenery, and the rich verdure of tropical vegetation is given by both artist and engraver in a style that few would believe could be produced outside of Paris. Mr. Perkins has all the strength of Dore in this particular field, and the page is a masterpiece of natural beauty; the page is a masterpiece of natural beauty; the page is a masterpiece of natural beauty.

Two views of Venice—the frontispiece, "A Venetian Festival," to all the glow of twilight happily suggested by the very warm tint selected, and the dark background of "Bridge of Sighs," with a living thing in a light, are remarkable for the strong contrast, leaving two very distinct aspects of Venetian history.

The other pictures are very good, and we find it difficult to pronounce this "new departure" a decided success from the start—an artistic gain for the periodical and a triumph of American taste and enterprise. The publishers should have the support of every public spirited citizen, and we hope our town will be well represented on the subscription books of THE ALDINE. Terms $2.00 per year. For circular and general address names Sutton & Co., 23 Liberty St., New York.

Women's Department

Female Suffrage

Dear Mr. Editor:—The world coming to the fore, paper after paper, in columns of less of the above subject, in its columns, some in favor of the movement, but more against it, and as I belong to the latter class, I have concluded to air my opinions forthwith, if the Editor will kindly permit me space.

In the first place, you dear mistaken souls, what do you mean by placing your selves, arms, limbs, attitude all defiance, and giving the "little of sensation" in this belligerent fashion? Do you think in this manner you will the sooner gain what you call your rights?

Now let me consider this subject in its most important light. You say in the first place, you wanted all the avenues of learning, of the professions, and of business, thrown open to you. Well, it has been done, and we have in consequence, female ministers, lawyers and doctors; in fact there are women in nearly every branch of business. That is all reasonable enough; we have a right to do all that we are able to do; the men gallantly accord us all privileges justly and properly due.

But, of this, I say, question; what reason, justice, or sense is there in it? "Why," asks up some voluble tongued female in Bloomers. "Minnie, are you so blind that you can't see how the heavy man dare to tax us without our consent?" "Tax for what?" Most of you who clamor most have nothing to tax, and some desirous of raising a chance to be taxed by voting. For, of course, the polls thrown open to us (which God forbid) then, indeed, should we stand on the same plane as man and have our poll tax to pay as well. Can't you see that you would in no wise be benefited, but on the contrary it would be a detriment. I am not talking to the leaders of this movement, for they understand it already, and are only making use of you poor, weak, ignorant followers for their own aggrandizement. How many really good, true, faithful daughters, wives, and mothers would ever vote, should they have the opportunity. Very few, I opine, in proportion to the number; and yet, must they submit to a poll tax, in order that a few women, who in reality don't know what they want, may get into office? Some folks pretend to say that our grandmothers knew nothing of politics. I beg leave to differ with them, for my grandmother was a "Whig," while my respected grandfather was a rank "Tory," and many "spats" they had in consequence.

But she did her duty by her boys, and there was not one of them that did not nurse "Whigery" from her maternal breast. The result was they were all Whigs. My father not excepted and about the time they were all old enough to vote, the names were changed to Republican and Democrat. My mother, too, took a great interest in politics, and as she coincided fully in my father's opinions, they got along very amicably. How well I remember how my little knobby points were discomfited between them; and in many instances her keen and quick perception was an invaluable assistance to him, or at least he laughingly would tell her so. But to come back to the subject of my grandmothers. Why can't we bring up our boys, if we are so fortunate as to have any, as my grandmother did? Teach them to be noble, manly and good, for we have the destiny of men in our control. They are what we make them, and if we can't live with them after they are grown up, who is to blame? Not they, surely. Their natures can be moulded like wax, and if you let them grow up deformed by incompetent training, while you are off to the lecture room, gaining applause by your Stump Speeches, you will hardly fail of getting your reward.

But I for one do not covet such renown as the Woman's Rights women of to-day are gaining; and, justly enough, do they merit all they get. In many instances, for my part I should much prefer to be honored through my husband—should I ever be so fortunate as to have one—to being a rival to him, and should use all my endeavors, as my mother did, in looking well to the ways of my household, and understanding, as well as I am able, his ideas of politics, and if I could be as happy as to be to him as my mother was to my father, I should consider my life not a failure, and I would, heartily wish, my misguided sister, you would look at life differently than through those spectacles of selfishness made and manufactured by some highly individual ladies as a Woman's Rights Woman.

And now, Mr. Editor, should you "light" the leaders of that all important subject, bearing down on you, with her Hampton Club, please put on all possible sail, and keep clear of breakers, and above all, don't let her know where you live.

SURGICAL.

SILK AND COTTON Elastic Stockings, Abdominal Bands, Knee Caps, Umbilical Bands, Ankle Supporters, &c. The above articles are now so well-known and recommended by the medical faculty, that little need be said by me; but at the same time I might say that I have been manufacturing them for over twenty years, and therefore I can recommend them for durability, comfort and usefulness in all cases of Varicose Veins, Gout, Rheumatism and other weaknesses of the Limbs. The pressure being equal in every part, and the fabric porous, renders them agreeable and healthy to wear. Old sores when once healed are prevented from opening again by the use of the Elastic Stockings. I could give a number of instances where persons after an outlay of hundreds of dollars have been obliged to give up work, especially where they had to stand; but on wearing the Elastic Stockings have resumed their daily occupation at once with comfort. The SILKS are layable for abdominal weakness, piles, and sprains of other in use. Rules for measurement will be sent on application to
