A Christmas Carol.

DR. J. G. HOLLAND.

There's a song in the air!
There's a star in the sky!
There's a mother's deep prayer
And a baby's low cry!
And the star rains its fire while the beautiful sing,
For the manger of Bethlehem cradles a King.
There's a tumult of joy
O'er the wonderful birth,
For the virgin's sweet boy
Is the Lord of the earth.
Ay! the star rains its fire and the beautiful sing,
For the manger of Bethlehem cradles a King.
In the light of that star
Lie the ages imperiled;
And that song from afar
Has swept o'er the world.
Every heart is a nation, and the beautiful sing,
In the homes of the nations that Jesus is King.
We rejoice in the light,
And we echo the song
That comes down the night
From the heavenly throng.
Ay! we shout to the lovely angels they bring,
And we greet in his cradle our Saviour and King.

A Mother's Heart.

A little dreamer, such as mothers know;
A little lingering over dainty things;
A happy heart, wherein Hope all glow
Sings like a bird above that wake and sing—
And that is all.
A little clasp to her yearning breast;
A little musing over future years;
A heart that prays, "Dear Lord, Thou knowest best,
But spare my flower the bitterest rain of tears!"
And that is all.
A little spirit speeding through the night;
A little home grown lonely, dark and chill;
A heart that prays, "Dear Lord, Thou knowest best,
But spare my flower the bitterest rain of tears!"
And that is all.
A little gathering of life's broken thread;
A little pulse keeping back the tears;
A heart that sings, "Thy darling, I am dead,
God keeps her safe through life's eternal years!"
And that is all.

THE MONEY THAT MEN LEAVE.
Money isn't worth much after the man who made it lets it pass out of his control. Vanderbilt's estate is now a foot ball in the courts, and where it will finally go, and to whom, is a question. It is so immense an affair that if it is divided each of the heirs will have ten times as much as any one ought to have, but by the time the lawyers and the courts get through with it, the shares will be so pared down as to make a difference in the showing. And now comes another money trouble. Moses H. Grinnell died recently, leaving a fortune of several millions, and he made a will, also. He left a half a million to each of his children, except a daughter, Fanny, to whom he bequeathed only $10,000, the reason for the discrimination being that she had married a Boston millionaire, and was rich already. It is a question whether Fanny and her husband will concur in the propriety of this distribution, and the chances are that there will be a squabble over this estate. Why don't these men distribute their millions before they die, and save all this trouble? That is what I am going to do. I never will have my children fighting over a hundred millions and dragging my bones out of the grave for the inspection of the public. The Vanderbilt case is dragging its slow length along, and the lawyers are making a bitter fight over it. The children have succeeded in establishing the fact that the old man was a fearful old wretch, and that he never deserved the success he met with. But as William is as selfish as his father, and is entrenched behind a hundred millions, it is yet to be decided whether he will be compelled to relinquish any part of it or not. The only point in the matter is whether the contestants can establish the fact that the Commodore was under undue influence when he made his will. And to that end the contestants are bending their entire energies. They are raking up all the old man's departures from the paths of a strict life, and it must be confessed that they have got together a very nauseating pile of them. They have shown that he was cruel, sensual and altogether wicked, if not weak as well. There is no question as to the control unscrupulous women had over him, and it will be proven that he was a confessed spiritualist, but it may be shown that he could make a will for all that.

POLITICAL.
Senator Conkling has declared war, and has looked horns with the President. It is now a war to the knife, and knife to the hilt. There can be no compromise nor settlement. The President has determined upon the removal of the officials at New York, for the reason that the reforms already instituted were not as he claims carried out in good faith. It is true that several hundred employees of the Custom House were removed by Collector Arthur, in accordance with the orders of the secretary of the treasury. But it is claimed that the men intended to be removed were the ones retained, that is, the political strikers and the ward politicians were kept, and the really effective work men were without political influence were dismissed. Senator Conkling on the other hand claims the right to control the patronage himself, and denies the right of the president to meddle with it. The city is divided on the question. The active politicians side with Conkling, and the conservative element with the president. The papers of the city are very careful in discussing the question, and are by no means pronounced. There should be an expression of the people on this question, in every county in the state, for the people will have to settle it. It is a matter of no small importance. The question goes a long way down. It is not simple who shall fill the offices; it is the effect of the patronage upon the politics of the state.

THE COLORED BARY SHOW will be opened next week, and it will be a big thing. There will be two thousand Ethiopian babies, of all ages under ten, and their mothers. Every State East of the Mississippi will be represented, and they will be classified properly. It will draw more people than anything of the kind ever held. It is to be hoped that there will be plenty of bath-rooms in the building, and that due attention will be paid to ventilation.

ANOTHER DEFALCATION.
Two collecting lawyers, both members of fashionable churches, and very prominent in them, absconded this week, with something like a quarter of a million of money belonging to their clients. It is the old story—high living and speculation in Wall St. They had the confidence of everybody, and they did the business of the best houses in the city, but they would speculate, and they did lose, and a flight to Europe was the way they settled it. And speaking of financial troubles,

THE EXPLOSION OF THE NATIONAL TRUST CO., is the last thunderbolt. This institution possessed the confidence of the business community, and no one supposed it was in difficulties. But all at once rumors began to gather about it, an investigation was ordered, it was reported "with ample assets," but when those assets came to be examined into they were found to be of the most flimsy character, and thousands upon thousands that had long figured as "good," had no existence at all. In short, it was another case of frightful mismanagement and worse.

LIFE INSURANCE PRESIDENTS.
Case, the president of the Security, has exhausted all his legal dodges, and will spend five years of his life in Sing Sing. It is well—there never was a more outrageous fraud perpetrated. Dr. Lambert, his rival in infamy, is being tried, and he doubtless will get a long sentence. If the good work goes on, there will be enough material to organize a life insurance board in the penitentiary, commencing with a president, and going all the way down to an office boy. There are sound and good companies, and they play an important part in the economy of things, but there has been an awful amount of fraud in it.

THE TROUBLE WITH LIQUOR DEALERS.
The police surveillance of the liquor business continues. Over a thousand places have been shut up, and there is mourning among the dry ones. Licenses are declared illegal. The tavern-dodge did not work, for the courts hold that a tavern must be a tavern indeed, and not a mere place fitted up to evade a law, and the police have shown no discrimination. Delinquent and the hotel bars have been shut up, just the same as the smaller bar-rooms, and only regulars are admitted at all. Whatever may be said as to the justice of this raid upon men who have paid license, there is no question as to its good effect. The arrests for drunkenness have fallen off a half, and there is a noticeable decrease in the number of brutal crimes. Altogether the effect upon the morals of the city has been splendid, and the temperance league is making use of it to encourage a continuance of the work. The statistics they show are not only startling, but conclusive.

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 17, 1877.

In view of the charges of deliberate, premeditated murder that have followed Hamburg Butler into the United States Senate, his intense solicitude to be investigated concerning the relatively unimportant matter of a corrupt bargain between himself and Patterson, whereby the latter bound himself to vote and work for his (Butler's) admission, is certainly very suggestive of the gastronomic inconsistency of straining at a gnat whereas any number of camels of the most astonishing bulk were previously swallowed at one gulp without the suspicion of a grimace to indicate that deglutition in that instance was either painful or unpleasant. The resolution looking to an investigation was introduced Saturday, but the request of Thurman and other apologists for an immediate consideration in the few moments left the Senate before the holiday adjournment, was objected to and it goes over as unfinished business. What ever doubt existed as to the truth of the alleged bargain, it has been dispelled in the minds of many by the action of the "reform" Democratic South Carolina Legislature in ordering the discontinuance of all prosecutions against Patterson, thus condoning his alleged crimes. So far as can be learned, the tilt between Senator Conkling and Gordon last Friday in executive session, came about in this way. Gordon had urged taking up a nomination out of its order, and its rejection, because it was not approved by the two Senators from Georgia (Gordon and Hill). Without addressing any one in particular Mr. Conkling remarked, "Oh, let us go on with the calendar." Gordon's "honors" was at once wounded, and in an insulting tone he accused the New Yorker of dictating to the Vice-President. Mr. Conkling then addressed the chair, and pointing to the man with lacerated honor, affirmed the statement to be false. The southern heart was at once fired, and the Senate was appalled by his words of deadly import: that Mr. Conkling might as well attend at once to those mundane matters requiring his personal supervision, including, as supposed, his last will and testament, as he had got to be settled with for his ill-advised utterances. Flying directly in the face of Providence, Conkling declared his readiness to pass the trying ordeal then and there; but Georgia, in an ominously sepulchral tone, intimated that the process would be of such a shocking character that the Senate chamber was no place for the enactment of such a tragedy as was certain to come off. Now Mr. Gordon's language was susceptible of only one construction, namely, a duel. If that was not its purport, then it must be accepted as the frothy vapors of a bully. The matter furnished a topic for much excited conversation and speculation for the next 24 hours; but "mutual friends" have found a way of promoting conciliation of the "wounded honor" by entering at large on the legislative journal of the Senate a statement to the effect that the heat evolved was wholly due to a misunderstanding, which was subsequently explained satisfactorily to all concerned. It will be regarded by many as a pretty smart hole for letting Mr. Gordon out of a very ugly predicament into which his swagging plantation manners had betrayed him. It is too late by fully 20 years to attempt to revive the ruffian regime here at the National Capital. After the civilizing and christianizing influences which superseded it at the beginning of the war, such a retrograde movement would be abhorred to all but the comparatively few who still refer to that period, anterior to the war, when men, women and children were marched, manacled, through the streets to the slave-pen and auction block, like so many cattle on their way to the shambles, as "the good old times" of Democratic rule.

The victory of Senator Conkling in the matter of Arthur and Cornell as Collector and Naval Officer of New York, and the rejection of Roosevelt and Prince by whom it was sought to supersede them, is regarded in the light of a personal triumph of the Senator over Kvarter, George William Curtis and others of that faction who have sought to wound him, and in the process have only humiliated themselves. It is noticeable that Mr. Conkling carefully abstained from any reflections upon the President in his eloquent appeal for justice, that would have barred the way to a reconciliation. It is thought, however, very generally here, that a full restoration of harmony between Republican Senators and the White House, will necessarily be preceded by two or three Cabinet changes. One of the gratifying results of the present situation is the reported burial of the hatchet by Messrs. Blaine and Conkling, and their reconciliation after an estrangement of many years. The party could not afford to have it otherwise. And the friends of both are rejoiced that it has at length come about.

All the developments so far announced by the several committees investigating our affairs with Mexico, go to vindicate the foresight of Mr. Blaine in his 4th of July speech, and to confirm the belief that we have a large element on this side of the Rio Grande striving to precipitate war with that country, including men high in official position. Whether we escape or not, the feeling is almost uniform that a very slight indiscretion would now provoke actual war.

The Paris Exposition bill as amended by the Senate, passed, and Mr. McCormick was confirmed as Commissioner General without opposition.

No more flagrant outrages on the rights of voters was ever perpetrated by the Democratic party than seating Patterson, who repudiated at the polls, as the representative of Colorado. The admission of Butler to the upper House was quite as justifiable.

MAXWELL.

Samuel Coles of the United States Steamship Alliance, in a recent letter gives a short description of a bull fight, which he witnessed at Lisbon Portugal. After a visit to a Catholic church, which he describes as being beautiful in decoration of gold, silver fresco paintings, statues, &c., he, with the other attendants, as is the custom of the people, repaired to the amphitheatre, near the church, to witness a bull fight. He says:—At the sound of a trumpet a horseman entered, both horse and rider gaily caparisoned with 5 or 6 upon on foot, the latter carrying large bright colored cloths, about 14 yards square. These are used to madden the bull, which is kept in a dark place, and no food or water given him for several days. Before being admitted to the ring, he is driven in a small place where he is helpless, and tormented, and cloths put over his head. He is then turned out. The first came in with a bound and as he saw the horse and rider he made for them. The horseman was ready, and by a side movement evaded the infuriated animal, and at the same time thrust a spear into his neck, near the shoulder. The next attack was more furious, and he caught the horse under the flank, and threw him and rider about 10 feet, the horse falling upon his rider. The attendants rushed in to drive the bull out. At the same time a sailor from the U. S. steamer "Trenton" jumped into the ring and caught the bull by the horns, and pushed his nose into the dirt. But the bull soon kneeled him over, and was then driven out. The attendants then took the sailor on their shoulders and carried him around the ring, while the crowd howled bono bono maracana, bono maracana, and then put him in the kings private box.

There were about 20 different bulls fought on horse and on foot, but not like the first. If too hot chased the bull fighters got out of the way by springing over the fence.

The Holidays at Oak Hall.

With an experience of seventeen years in providing the public with clothes, Wansmaker & Brown are far beyond the possibility of mistake in preparing exactly what is wanted. Their popular resort has now over a million dollars worth of well-made and well-assorted clothing and furnishing goods, and as the prices are all marked down from ten to thirty per cent. there is a tremendous rush of buyers.

The great "Rush Days" Sale now going on at Oak Hall is not the closing out of a broken lot of winter goods. Instead of waiting till after New Year to put prices down, Wansmaker & Brown reduced everything in their fresh and unbroken stock, shortly after the middle of November, thus affording the public ample opportunity for selection from the largest and most varied stock ever offered in Philadelphia. The people have shown their appreciation of this enterprise by coming in even greater throngs than ever before, and availing themselves of the rare opportunity for bargains which the present great sale affords.

In addition to the immense business carried on at Oak Hall in selling to people who come in person to buy, a large force is kept busy in attending to the "mail order" department. This is especially worthy the attention of those of our readers who cannot make it convenient to go to Philadelphia. They may write for samples of goods and directions for self measurement, with certainty that their orders will be as accurately filled, and their interests as carefully guarded, as if they were personally present.

The well-established reputation of Oak Hall is such that people know they will get the worth of their money in dealing there, Oak Hall clothes make capital Christmas presents.

This unrivaled Southern Remedy is warranted not to contain a single particle of Mercury, or any injurious mineral substance, but is

PURELY VEGETABLE.

Containing those Southern Roots and Herbs, which an all-wise Providence has placed in countries where Liver Diseases most prevail. It will cure all diseases caused by Derangement of the Liver and Bowels.

The SYMPTOMS of Liver Complaint are a bitter or bad taste in the mouth; pain in the Back, Sides or Joints, often mistaken for Rheumatism; Sour Stomach; Loss of Appetite; Bowels alternately constive and lax; Headache; Loss of memory, with a painful sensation of having failed to do something which ought to have been done; Debility; Low Spirits; thick yellow appearance of the skin and eyes, a dry Cough often mistaken for consumption.

Sometimes many of these symptoms attend the disease, at others very few; but the Liver, the largest organ in the body, is generally the seat of the disease, and if not regulated in time great suffering, wretchedness and DEATH will ensue.

I can recommend as an efficacious remedy for disease of the Liver, Headache and Dyspepsia, Simmons' Liver Regulator.

THE EATON GOLD and SILVER REDUCTION COMPANY.

Office—No. 30 Church St., N. Y.

GEN'L JOHN C. FREMONT, President.
PROF. A. K. EATON, Vice-President.
W. W. HANLY, Secretary.

This Company is founded upon discoveries, inventions and improvements in the reduction and treatment of Gold and Silver and other ores, which have recently been perfected. It is intended that its business shall be conducted by works of large capacity, which, for governing commercial reasons, will be near the city of New York, as well as by branch works in the mining districts, and by sale of its patent rights to other reduction works in this and foreign countries. The discoveries and improvements upon which the Company is based, have been made by Prof. A. K. Eaton, one of the ablest chemists and metallurgists of the present day. They have been reached during a practical and personal experience in mining and kindred occupations extending over a period of more than thirty years.

Twenty six years ago Mr. Eaton invented and patented the Amalgamating Plates, which have ever since been in use at all the Gold and Silver Mills throughout the mining region. If the use of these plates were discontinued today, the yield of gold would probably be diminished one-half. In the same way his later discoveries are valuable and effective, and are marked by the same certainty and simplicity. The ores of nearly all the gold and silver mines are rendered more or less difficult by the presence, in combination, of zinc, sulphur, and other elements which give them a refractory character, and which involves great expense and time in working, and great loss of gold and silver.

It is not too much to say that the great mountain region West of the Mississippi and Missouri rivers is occupied and populated only on account of its mines of gold and silver, and other metals. Over this whole country, many of these refractory ores are left unworked, and many hundred thousand tons of ore left unworked, because their working would be too difficult and expensive under present modes of treatment. To all these ores Mr. Eaton's processes directly apply. They render their working comparatively easy and inexpensive, and give immediate value to this idle property, and employment to many thousands of unemployed men. These processes improve the yield as at present had, by from ten to forty per cent. The reports of the Consolidated Virginia and California mines, for the year ending December 31, 1876, show that only 73 per cent of the gold and silver contained in the ore is obtained by their present working, and the combined yield of these two mines for the year was $30,627,782.00—thirty millions, sixty two thousand, seven hundred and eighty-two dollars. By the Eaton processes, this yield could have been increased by six or seven millions of dollars. The gold mines of Senator Jones, in the San Joaquin Valley, gave him only 60 per cent. of what the ore contains. These mines are quoted because they are well known, and because every appliance that money and art could devise, under the ablest management, has been used to increase their production. Under Mr. Eaton's processes, it is claimed that out of most ores 97 per cent—practically all—of the gold and silver can be obtained at much less cost of time and money than is at present required; that Base Bullion can be treated and refined at one-third the cost, and one fourth the time at present used. In reference to this latter process, Prof. Torrey, U. S. Mint, New York, says: "I believe it to be an entirely new and very useful process. Theoretically, the mechanical and chemical principles upon which it is based are correct."

Large amounts of gold and silver ore are brought to this city for treatment and for shipment abroad, as also are large quantities of Base Bullion. The process of reduction is greatly facilitated by working together ores of a different character, and the Base Bullion now sent abroad can be retained for treatment at the works in New York, under the improved process. For the purpose of a general demonstration of these processes, the Company has granted a limited right to a party in New York who is erecting works capable of treating twenty-five tons of ore and twenty-five tons of Base Bullion daily, and the buildings and machinery for this purpose are in greater part ready.

They now desire to provide for the immediate erection of the larger works by sale of a limited portion of their capital stock, and it is in order to procure the required means without unnecessary sacrifice, that their enterprise is in this way laid before the public. For this purpose a sufficient amount of stock will be sold at seven dollars per share, being 70 per cent. of its par value; and it is requested that persons who may wish to purchase, will apply personally, or by letter, to the Secretary of the Company, P. O. box 574, to whom all remittances for shares should be made, and from whom the Prospectus and other and more full information can be obtained.
