Buick Oil Circulation

Oil pumps in automobiles sometimes freuze up in very cold weather.

The Buick oil pump is so designed that, should the pump gears be held immovable through freezing, the shaft revolves within the gear. The heat thus generated thaws out the frozen parts, restoring gear action and oil flow to normal.

Only on a Buick will you find this feature.

Sarbrucken, in Germany, a chemist of the immense narised Stator. He was an eccentric old man who had an idea, for a chean of his times, that many things beside coke could be obtained in the combustion of bitumidous coal.

Sunt had constructed a number of overs over a huraing mine and treated coal so hist his obtained oil, pitch, coke and soot. This was quite a forward step and although he lived in the depths of a forest the great minds of Europe heard of his work. In fact, Goethe, bimself made a pligitimage to the ovens of the far-seeing chemist and in his autobiography wrote a triffing comment on his visit to the Sarbrucken forest:

"Ready and glad to pour his complaints into a human ear, the lean decrepit, little man, with a shoe on one foot and a slipper on the other, and with stockings hanging down and repeatedly pulled up in vain, draged himself up the mountain to where the pitch house stood which he had built himself and saw with grief now gases, high explosives, fertiliters and randor from sulphur and connected row of overs, in which coal was to be freed from sulphur and mace in the same time they wished also to recover the oil and pitch, and indeed, did not want to lose the lamp black, so that all failed together on account of the many ends in view."

Goethe, who dubbed the chemist of Sarbrucken "Kochenphilosoph" or the Philosopher of Coal, wrote his commentary less than a century and a root and connected "Coal, wrote his comment and connected "Coal, wrote his comment and count of the many ends in view."
