THE MODERN FUNERAL

The anxious visits of the physician have ended. The pulse which so often responded with alternate hope or fear to his gentle touch has ceased to beat. The watch of the faithful nurse has come to a close. The suspended hope of loved ones is wrecked in a hopeless sea of woe. The orderly home has been suddenly disorganized. Songs of joy have changed to wails of grief. The funeral director called to the household, and while the out of confusion he must do it in a way that is commercialism, and at the same time, as far as possible, call that presses so heavily on the moaning hearts. Could any duty in life at the same time call for more patience, gentleness, humane and manly fortitude and self-possession? And in view of such duties can we over-estimate what should be the high character of one who properly and successfully discharges the high office of funeral director?

Fruit Trees Are Scarce!

We Advise Ordering AT ONCE

This is the first time in our history that we have issued an announcement at this time of the year. Our interest in thousands of fruit growers this year impels us to warn them that fruit trees, especially the best varieties, will be very scarce this year. The man intending to plant a few or several thousand fruit trees (especially apples) should place his orders very early this year. He had better place his order NOW.

World Shortage of Apple Seedlings

France has always been America's chief source of apple seedlings. Since 1914 with the export of 1919 seedlings France produced very few apple seedlings. In a few sections of the United States, in our prize-winning grounds in Kansas and in our branch office, we here in America have done our best to make up for the world-wide shortage of apple seedlings. But—the shortage will exist—and but for the fact that we made our plans far ahead and saw to it that

Major Stark Was First to Contract for French Apple Seedlings

Soon after the Armistice was signed, we would be in no better position than many other growers. When Major Stark of Stark's Nurseries, Inc., of Elwood, Pa., had in his pocket contracts for huge blocks of French seedlings. Due to this foresight, we are in a better position to

Six in One

By E. R. BAKER

"How the deuce am I going to choose?" grumbled Sam morosely, laying down his old bet pipe on the broad arm of his chair and bending forward to scrutinize more clearly the six faces which gazed back at him from six photographs propped against books on his reading table.

wardly at the words. A moment later she was away in his arms to the seductive strains of the palm-embowered orchestra. How the girl could dance! He was rapidly forgetting Sally and Peggy and Helen and Jean.

"May I call," he asked eagerly just before he turned her over to her escort at the end of the wonderful dance. And her brief little nod and smile dismissed him happy.

The rest was easy sailing. For to matters of love the heart is apt to prove a more alluring guide than mere intellect. Sam's heart was leading him along enchanting ways. Often he visualized the time when he would ask the vital question. It should be outdoors in late afternoon or early evening, by some rippling stream or on a green-clad hill.

Which characteristic would be the most valuable to him in his career and most agreeable to come home to after a hard day's work in court—beauty, intellect, comeliness, sense of humor, style, domesticity? It was a hard problem, thought Sam, and no reference to Vol. 27, case So and So versus So and So, would help him out.

The next day's routine promised no excitement. It would be mostly occupied with examining witnesses of an automobile accident in which a seven-year-old child was killed. The witness was a young man who had been driving the car at the time of the accident. He was a very nice young man, but he was a bit nervous.

"You were very considerate," she comforted him, and Sam thrilled inwardly at the words. A moment later she was away in his arms to the seductive strains of the palm-embowered orchestra.

FLEET JUSTICE ON CANAL ZONE

Three Murderers Tried, Convicted and Sentenced Within Six Hours.

AGED WATCHMAN IS SLAIN

Prosecutor Described Murder as "the Most Dastardly Crime Ever Committed in the Canal Zone"

Cristofal, O. Z.—Eighteen days after they murdered a Barbadian named William Blackett, Daniel McCloud and Eduardo Lopez, Panamanians, and James Williams, a Nassau Islander, were placed on trial here and within six hours the three were convicted and sentenced to death.

The prosecutor described the murder as "the most dastardly crime ever committed in the Canal Zone." Blackett, an old man, was a night watchman at a remote dynamite magazine in a pit about a mile from the Atlantic entrance to the canal. McCloud, Lopez and Williams, two of whom had been released from jail not long before, plotted to steal dynamite and caps, with the necessary fuses, and place on the coast and within six hours the three were convicted and sentenced to death.

By ten o'clock that night two of the murderers were in custody; the third was apprehended next day. Most people on the Zone thought there was no such thing as capital punishment on the isthmus, but they were mistaken, and three men have been hanged since the American occupation of the Canal Zone in 1903 and 1904 for murder in the first degree.

people. The negroes on the isthmus, as a rule, are peace-loving, and while they will do much talking in their quarrels they seldom come to blows. That their countrymen would kill another was beyond their comprehension.

McCloud, Lopez and Williams were arraigned before the magistrate's court and held for murder and grand larceny for the district court. On the day of the trial excitement was at its height. It was feared that an attempt would be made to take the prisoners from the police, and every effort was made to insure their safety. The courtroom is on the third floor of the Masonic temple, in the very center of the city, and on the border line of the Canal Zone and the Republic of Panama.

It is a pleasant thing to reflect upon—that every day into the world is a finer one than the last.—Nicholas Nickleby.

WHAT SHALL WE HAVE TO EAT

When there is a cupful or two left of baked or boiled fish, try: Turban a Fish.—Scald one and one-half cupfuls of milk with one slice of onion, a blade of mace and a sprig of parsley; remove the seasonings.

Macaroni and Cheese in the Finesse Cookery.—Dollop one cupful of macaroni fifteen minutes, adding one teaspoonful of salt to a quart of boiling water. Drain and place in a casserole. Fill the dish with milk, stir in two tablespoonfuls of butter long enough to blend. Add one cupful of grated cheese and sprinkle thickly with paprika.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS. For the beginning of a dinner a soup of some kind is always in season; hot or cold, they add to the meal.

A commonplace life, we say and we sigh; Why do we sigh as we say? The commonplace can in the commonplace sky. Make up the commonplace day. The moon and the stars are commonplace things. The flower that blooms and the bird that sings. But add were the world and dark the lot. If the flowers faded and the sun shone not. And God, who sees each separate soul, Out of commonplace lives makes his beautiful whole.

FOOD FOR THE ILL

Indigestion, stomach trouble of various kinds as well as intestinal troubles have to do with the forms and cakes that it is never safe to trust one's own ideas in regard to the kind of food one should eat. A physician or a dietitian will give a list of the various foods it is safe to eat; however, it is probable that food which is lightly toasted on the outside, soft and full of moisture inside is unwholesome for the most healthy stomach. Toast should be made of bread at least two days old, cut one-half inch thick and dried for a few moments in the oven to remove any moisture, then while still hot from the oven slowly toasted a golden brown.

CHILDREN AND BOOKS. It does the child no harm to make the acquaintance of books which were not written for children. In a home where the great books that have inspired or amused successive generations are accessible an active-minded child is likely of some time to get at them. If we want our children to fall in love with the better kind of books let us provide them with opportunities for meeting such books without too much formality.

Killed at Lumber Yard.
 Ralph Fiore, age four years, was found dead Wednesday night after a searching party had spent several hours hunting him when he failed to return to his home on Washington street, near St. Marks P. E. Church. The body was found under a pile of Hammon Lumber Company, situated alongside the Reading Railway tracks, near Passmore avenue. Corporal Charles Cunningham viewed the remains and is of the opinion that the child met death accidentally, either through the posts toppling over on the child, or that the child was walking on the posts and fell. The little fellow's skull was fractured. The victim was a twin child, a sister, Edith, being born at the same time as Ralph. Antonio Fiore, the father, is employed by the Reading Railway.

Reading Kills Another.
 The thirteenth victim of the iron steeds of the Reading Railway, at crossings at this place, within a decade or a trifle more, was claimed yesterday, when John Mangold, age about 26 years, met instant death at the Passmore avenue crossing of that road. About ten years ago Mangold's mother met a tragic death at the same crossing, and at practically the same time, north-bound flyers in both instances rushing the life out of the defenseless victims, who were called upon to meet their Maker without a single moment's notice.
 In this morning's tragedy the motor truck that Mangold was driving, filled with saw-dust, was completely demolished, portions breaking a telegraph pole in two. The upper cross bar on the pole was broken in two by a portion hurled against it. Mangold's death was instantaneous. The crossing, at that point has neither watchman nor gate, impecunious stockholders, or kill and maim, and pay the bills when their representatives, preferring to will maintain, and pay the bills when forced to, in preference to properly protecting the crossings.
 The accident happened at 8:04 this morning. Mangold served for a short time at Camp Dix, but failed to pass the final examinations. A widow and several children survive the victim.

No Fine for This Offender.
 Law-abiding citizens here are watching with keen interest the actions of a resident of this place, who for some time past has been selling intoxicating liquors. In the beginning of his unlawful course he displayed considerable care to sell to selected persons, but lately has become emboldened and some of his "select" customers have been seen reeling in the street, besides becoming quite talkative.
 The committee which engineered the successful local option election, strengthened by law-abiding citizens who believe the law of the nation should be enforced, are awaiting the culmination of the step taken by the man who has set himself up to defy the law. If he does not immediately desist in his actions Prohibition Enforcement officers will be requested to visit this place, and the balance will be quite easy, as some of his patrons are sure to squeal.

Russian Czar Sends Quartet to America
Contest Decides Best Singer
 The former Russian Czar wanted the church and folk songs of his country represented to America in the most effective manner possible. In order to secure the best exponent of Russian vocal music, he declared an all-Russian contest where thousands of the best vocalists in all-Russia competed.
 The four successful competitors were sent to America, and added to the Russian Cathedral Choir. They immediately drew the attention of famous critics and concert managers. The marvelous range of their voices was astonishing. "Bass reaching 'B flat' below the staff; tenor 'High D'." Impartial command, however, kept them from all but one public concert a year.
 Now, however, that the Czar has been overthrown, the edict is a thing of the past, and this wonderful harmony is available for the music-lovers of the country.
 They are now on tour with the Swarthmore Chautauque, and will appear here on the third day of the program.
 Their concert in the evening will be followed by Dr. Frank Bohn's "Revolutionary Europe," its principal scene is in the setting of Ben of Central Europe, and will tell the facts of the hour. Those things which newspapers seldom print about European unrest will receive daily attention from Dr. Bohn.
 Of the treatment accorded visiting teams having to fight their way to victory instead of playing for it on even terms. As a result of the disorderly conduct last Sunday on the Eger Harbor City ball grounds it is likely that no further games will be played with Eger Harbor City. At any rate it is a certainty that parents that parents will in many instances refuse to allow their daughters to visit the Eger Harbor City ball grounds in the future, as, according to the testimony of witnesses language of the vilest character was used during the nearly one hour of contention, with the outbreak of a Czar for all fight being started. Sturdy lads of this place, used to "hot" language, derided the situation of Sunday afternoon last.

Reading Slaughters Another.
 Reading flyers claimed another victim last night when Arthur Grese, age 38 years, of Blue Anchor, six miles above this place, was struck and killed by the Reading express leaving Atlantic City at 9 o'clock.
 Grese, his wife, and friends had been to Hammonton to take in a moving picture show, and had already returned to the Grese home, leaving Mrs. Grese here, intending to take the friends to their home. Returning he attempted to cross the Reading tracks at the post office, when the rushing train engulfed his machine, carrying it up the tracks a considerable distance, badly mashing it.
 When the train stopped the machine was discovered on and under the catchcatcher, but a search in that vicinity down the tracks failed to reveal the driver. A search of the wreckage disclosed the body of Grese, badly battered, in the bottom of the car. Grese, who was a contractor, had no children.

 Description: When last seen was on his way to hospital. Used to weigh 185, had ruddy complexion, good appetite and enthusiasm for work. Six months ago began to have irregular bowel movements. Took pills. Lost weight—still irregular. Took salts—violent results. High medical examination: doctor diagnosed case as self-poisoning, due to clogged, decaying and wasted large intestine; said pills and purgals had weakened the intestinal muscles so they would not function. Man complained violently that he was not sick. Doctor replied that he had been sick since first bowel irregularity. Prescribed complete rest and the Nujol treatment. Said if he had cultivated regular habits with Nujol he would never have had trouble. Beware: For restoration of this man to normal weight and keenness. Nujol For Constipation
 Nujol works on an entirely new principle. Instead of forcing or irritating the system, it simply softens the food waste. This enables the many tiny muscles in the walls of the intestine, contracting and expanding in their normal way, to agitate the food waste along so that it passes naturally out of the system.
 Nujol thus prevents constipation because it helps Nature maintain easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals—the healthiest habit in the world.
 Nujol is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take. Try it.
 Nujol is sold by all druggists in sealed bottles only, bearing Nujol Trade Mark. Write Nujol Laboratories, Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey), 26 Broadway, New York, for booklet "Thirty Feet of Intestine".

CHAUTAQUA WEEK
SEPTEMBER 14-18

Dec. 27, 1920

Colored fabrics know

SOAPS that are too strong in alkali fade the colors of a fabric. But colored fabrics know that they "come through the wash" as bright and fresh and colorful as ever when you wash them in the "friendly" suds of Kirkman's Borax Soap.

At least one man in this town, and another at a point not far away, will soon feel the strong arm of the Anti-Saloon League, representing millions of law-abiding citizens, unless an immediate clean-up is made. The action of these booze sellers makes them liable to a term in prison for keeping a disorderly house; selling as they are constitutes such a state offense, and an injunction closing their place for any kind of business for one year, under the United States Court action. Better obey the law and stop selling booze.

DRAFT DESERTERS

Considering the fact that the willing support of the American people to the selective service was the corner stone of the creation of our great army and our successful military achievements, the War Department does not deem it proper to pursue the policy of unjustifiable leniency towards those who de liberately evaded military service.

The creation of the huge army which was sent to the battlefields abroad was the result of the Selective Service Act of May 18, 1917.

Although critics of American institutions predicted that in the event of a great war, the people of the United States would fail to rise to the full heights of patriotism and self-sacrifice in defense of their country, because of selfish motives and foreign influences, the war has proven that the old American spirit of sacrifice and service is not only alive, but more widespread than ever before.

During the period of active hostilities, the Government was assisted by the draft officials and agencies in apprehending draft deserters; a small but constant stream of whom were being delivered to posts, camps and stations, but because of the fact that those days were crowded with other matters of more importance, special attention could not be given to the investigation and the running down of the comparatively small number of draft deserters.

After the discontinuance on November 11, 1918 of mobilization and induction under the Selective Service Law, the War Department began at once to consider the question of proper disposition to be made of all those registrants classified by the draft authorities as draft deserters, with a view to definitely settling their status and punishing the guilty.

For this purpose instructions were issued on December 23, 1918, to the local draft boards to segregate from the 24,000,000 records of draft registrants, those men reported during the period of the war as deserters.

The shipment to Washington of these records amounting to 488,000, began in March, 1919, and it was estimated that a comparatively small proportion of the nearly half million men reported as draft deserters could be considered as willful offenders.

In the reduction of this number, the following class of persons, numbering about 168,000 men and their cases disposed of during the war:

- a. Registrants who enlisted in the Army, Navy or Marine Corps, but who later returned to their local boards of the fact.
- b. Men who failed to report for military duty, but who, in ignorance of the Selective Service Act, but who, after learning of the seriousness of the offense reported to military camps for service and were restored to duty satisfactorily showing that their offense was not willful.
- c. A small number of persons, who during the progress of the war were convicted of desertion, or discharged as physically unfit for service.
- d. Registrants who died after their induction orders were mailed.

Of the remaining 320,000 named, the records of 161,000 showed that they could not properly be charged with desertion, and the records of 178,000 registrants revealed that they had been ordered to report for military duty and willfully failed.

Out of over 24,000,000 registrants, the maximum number chargeable with willful desertion is 178,011, considerably less than one per cent. of the total registration, and a tremendous improvement over the draft record of the Civil War. The War Department, in the near future, will publish to the country a list of men classified as willful deserters, and desires to obtain the co-operation of the various State and local officials, patriotic societies and other agencies, including the Department of Justice, in bringing about the apprehension of these men. Assurances of such co-operation have in many cases already been given. Exact copies of the list of names, grouped by States or other convenient divisions will be available for postmaster, police stations and other agencies.

Pending publication of the list of deserters, any man charged with draft desertion who wishes to evade the punishment of arrest may voluntarily surrender at the nearest Army Post, camp or station, in order that his case may be investigated and his status definitely determined. In the event that any such man's case shall have been finally disposed of, prior to the publication of the list of deserters, his name will be omitted from that list.

Any draft registrant who is in doubt as to his draft status may write to the Adjutant General of the Army, Washington, D. C., and find out how he is classified, notwithstanding the fact that ignorance of such status is the registrant's own fault, because of his lack of interest in keeping track of his obligations to the Government.

The War Department wishes it clearly understood that men who are guilty of willful desertion will not be relieved of the consequences of their misconduct nor will they be discharged merely because they write to the Adjutant General of the Army and request a discharge.

While the War Department is prepared to give full information to the draft registrant resulting in order to obtain a discharge, the documentary evidence will be most rigidly examined when it is submitted, and must show conclusively that no injustice is done to the Government in granting a discharge.

Draft deserters are men who registered, and who were ordered by the draft authorities to report for military duty at the specified time and place, and who did not so report. Such men are by law held to have been inducted into the military service of the United States, where they remain until they are discharged. They are subject to trial by Courts Martial for their offense of desertion.

Draft delinquents are men who were required by law to register, but who failed to register, or who, although they registered, as required, failed to report for physical examination, or failed to return properly executed questionnaires. These delinquents have not been inducted into the military service and consequently are civilians, not subject to trial by military courts. The Department of Justice is charged with bringing these offenders to punishment, and has indicted thousands of them before the Federal Courts, where a considerable number have been convicted. The offense of draft delinquency is no more to be overlooked than that of draft desertion. The Department of Justice has most ably co-operated with the War Department in apprehending draft deserters.

The War Department has temporarily suspended the payment of the reward of $50.00 for the apprehension and delivery to military authorities of draft deserters because of the tremendous expense that would be incurred. The patriotism and national pride of the people to see no draft deserter go unpunished, it is believed will be sufficient incentive without the offering of a reward for the apprehension and surrender to military authorities of these draft deserters.

King Edward VII Commandeered Kilties

Band appeared twice before King by Royal Command.

During the triumphant world tour of the Kilties Band their appearance was twice requested at the Royal Palace by King Edward.

A glance at their experiences while on this world encircling trip will convince one that the attention, solicited for the fourth day at the coming Chautauqua, is a real honor.

Starting at Belleville, Canada (their home), in May, 1908, they were gone two years and three months, returning in August, 1910. During their tour they traveled over 88,000 miles, visited twenty different countries and spent 110 days at sea.

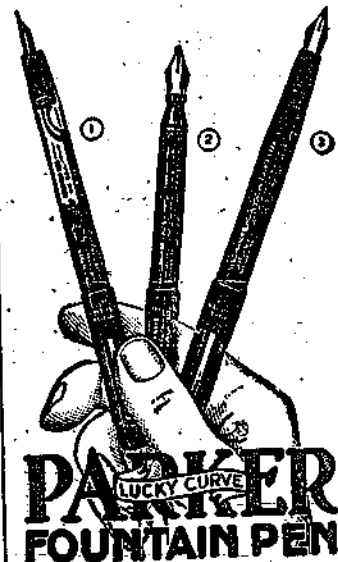

The Kilties have enjoyed some famous engagements. They played at the Crystal Palace, London, where the attendance was 170,000 paid admissions in one day. At Willow Grove they played for 150,000 people in one day. At Madison Square Garden their receipts were over $7,000 for one day. In Sydney, Australia, the large hall, seating 6,000 people, was sold out for two weeks in advance.

This famous organization, directed by Mr. Murdoch J. Macdonald, and carrying special solo, bagpipes and dancing features, will be the musical event of Chautauqua.

Head off the Milk Slump

No wonder Mrs. Cow is crying for help. Milk-making materials, especially protein, are becoming scarcer every day, as pastures dry out. A cow can't any more keep up her milk production without protein than you can build a fence without posts.

A cow can't produce milk that is lacking in protein, so she produces less milk.

Feed Purina Cow Chow

Cows on pasture are sure to let the milk production slide down unless a balanced concentrate is fed. With a good cow a gallon of Purina Cow Chow during July should make one and one-half gallons of extra milk.
